JAPANESE PLANES BOMB BARRACKS AT SUCHOW

Soldiers' Quarters, Locomotive Sheds and Trains Reported Destroyed at Strategic City on Lunghai Railway.

TWO-WAY LAND DRIVE SLOWED UP

Chinese Troops and Aircraft Attack Wuhu, on Yangtze 60 Miles From Nanking — Raids by Invaders in South.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 24.—Japanese planes today bombarded defenses of Suchow, center of Chinese resistance along the Lunghai, main east-west railway. Japanese spokesmen said locomotive sheds, freight trains and nearby troop barracks were destroyed in the attack.

Japanese columns pushing toward the city—one northward from Nanking and the other southward from Hsuchang province—fought indecisive engagements.

Chinese reported their troops had attacked Wuhu, Yangtze River port 60 miles upstream from Nanking. Japanese admitted Chinese had conducted air raids near Wuhu but said little damage resulted.

Guerrillas Put Down in Pootung.

The Japanese said infantry and air attacks had "mopped up" all Chinese guerrilla opposition in Pootung. A force of about 1000 Chinese had clung to barricades in Pootung, across the Whangpoo River from Shanghai, challenging complete Japanese occupation of the Shanghai area.

Five Japanese planes attempting to raid Lanchow in Kansu province were said by Chinese to have been driven off by Chinese aircraft. Far to the south, Japanese again bombarded points along the Canton-Hankow railway and the Canton-Kowloon railway.

Japanese occupation and establishment of a military base at Tsingtao, Shantung province seaport, went ahead with a minimum of friction between Japanese and foreign residents. Four cases in which Japanese soldiers searched British property for "bad elements" were reported.

Chinese Mutiny Reported.

Japanese reports from Weihaiwei, on the northern coast of the Shantung peninsula, said Chinese troops there had mutinied.

Japanese officials in Shanghai issued a prohibition order on removal of goods from Hongkew and Yangtzepoo areas of the International Settlement which have been occupied by Japanese since hostilities started. A number of "abuses," including transfer of ownership from Chinese to foreigners, prompted the order, the Japanese said.

New Clash Between Soviet and Manchoukuoan Troops.

TOKIO, Jan. 24.—A new clash between Manchoukuoan frontier guards and a Soviet detachment was reported today in a Domei (Japanese) News Agency dispatch from Seoul, Korea.

The report said a Soviet patrol had penetrated Manchoukuoan territory for nearly 100 miles in Hengkiang province and was mapping the terrain when it encountered Manchoukuoan guards. The four Soviet officers and two soldiers making up the patrol, Domei said, "fled under a hail of bullets."

DEFENSE IN OIL PRICE TRIAL PREPARING TWO MOTIONS

Plans to Set Aside Verdict and to Grant Rehearing Expected Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 24.—Two motions, one to set aside the verdict and the other asking for a new trial, are being prepared by defense attorneys who represented 16 major oil companies and 30 prominent oil men convicted Saturday of gasoline price-fixing conspiracy.

The motions are expected to be filed in United States District Judge Patrick T. Stone's court tomorrow. Judge Stone, who presided at the trial which began Oct. 4, left shortly after the verdict was returned for his home at Wausau. He said he probably would grant a hearing on the motions in about three weeks.

Sentencing of the defendants was delayed until after the hearing on the motions. The corporate defendants are liable to maximum fines of $5000 each. The individual defendants are liable to maximum fines of $5000, a maximum of a year in prison, or both.

Lloyd George Declares Liberty Depends on U. S., Britain, France

England's War-Time Prime Minister Says Freedom Is Just as Remote in Germany and Italy as in Russia.

By the Associated Press.

CANNES, France, Jan. 24.—David Lloyd George reviewed the last 50 years in an interview today and declared Great Britain was not afraid of the future.

He described Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy as "perhaps the most skillful bluffer in Europe today," adding that he had bluffed "with very poor cards."

"The real cards, however, are in the hands of the truly democratic Powers," he said. "When the time comes they will make a clean sweep of the table."

Lloyd George said "the future of human liberty for very many generations to come" depended on France, the United States and Great Britain, "and what they do together, working on parallel lines."

Should France be invaded by "an autocratic Power," he said, "there is not a party in England that would not rally immediately to the side of France." Concerning Britain's own position in the Mediterranean, he declared, "We are not afraid in any way whatever."

"The parrot cry about saving the world from Communism by Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini leaves me cold. Fascism as extolled by Mussolini, Nazism as practiced by Hitler and Bolshevism as exploited by Stalin reveal to me no fundamental differences.

"Liberty is just as remote in Germany and Italy as it is in Russia."

Comparing the year 1888, when he was married, to the present, Lloyd George found that the greatest difference was in the loss of a feeling of security.

"No one dreamed of a great upheaval; people confidently thought Armageddon a very long way off."

Britain, he said, still desired peace, but "we bent our back to the load in 1914 and 1918. We can and will do the same again should the need arise."

Lloyd George and his wife and children will pass the anniversary quietly at the hotel at Cap d'Antibes, where he is spending a vacation.

MIKADO WRITES A POEM VOICING HOPE FOR PEACE

Verse Contest Draws 38,000, Many From Japanese Soldiers and Sailors in China.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Jan. 24.—Hope for peaceful "world conditions" are expressed in verse by Emperor Hirohito in his contribution to the annual imperial new year poetry contest, published today.

The theme was "Morning in a Shrine Garden." The Emperor's poem, in translation, is:

"Peaceful is morning in the shrine garden;
"World conditions, it is hoped, also will be peaceful."

The new year poetry contest has been an annual court event for centuries. It constitutes the only occasion when subjects can communicate directly with the throne, for all are permitted to enter poems. The best are chosen for reading at a palace function. Those of the Emperor and Empress, although not in the competition, also are read.

This year 38,000 poems were submitted, many from soldiers and sailors in China.

APPOINTMENT OF REED APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

It Voted Unanimously to Forward Report on Supreme Court Nominee to Senate.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — The Senate Judiciary Committee unanimously approved today the nomination of Stanley F. Reed to the Supreme Court.

The President's second Supreme Court nomination was quickly acted on at a brief executive session of the committee attended by only about half of its members.

Members said no objections to the nominee, now solicitor general, were made, and the subcommittee's favorable report, also unanimous, was ordered forwarded to the Senate.

Reed is expected to be confirmed in time for him to take his post as associate justice when the court reconvenes a week from today.

Reed, 53-year-old Kentuckian, will succeed Justice Sutherland who served his last day on the court a week ago, retiring after 15 years on the high bench.

MAYOR OF MIAMI, 3 OTHERS INDICTED ON GRAFT CHARGES

Two City Commissioners and Rate Consultant Alleged to Have Exacted Extra-Legal Fees.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 24.—A special grand jury today indicted Mayor Robert R. Williams, Commissioners John Dubose and Ralph Ferguson and Thomas E. Grady, city rate and traffic consultant, on charges of exacting remuneration not provided by law, and of conspiracy.

The grand jury was impaneled a week ago to investigate a charge by Bryan C. Hanks, president of the Florida Power & Light Co., that a city representative solicited a $250,000 bribe for settlement of a rate reduction case out of court.

Capiases were served on the officials by Deputy Sheriff Joe Conderman in the office of City Attorney John W. Watson. Bond was set at $2500 each.

Conderman said the indictments also named Carl F. Lambert, a special engineer in Grady's employ.

Mayor Williams, a former Justice of the Peace, announced his candidacy for Congress last week after the jury opened its investigation. He seeks the seat held by Representative J. Mark Wilcox, who is running for the Senate. Ferguson is an osteopath and Dubose formerly was a Judge at Jacksonville.

HEAVY FOG IN NEW ENGLAND CRIPPLES TRANSPORTATION

Trains Slowed Up, Planes Grounded; 15 Vehicles Piled Up in One Highway Collision.

BOSTON, Jan. 24.—Heavy fog prevailed in most of New England today, crippling shipping from Central Maine to Southeastern Massachusetts, slowing railroad trains and causing many highway collisions.

Airport officials reported "Ceiling zero—visibility zero."

Of 10 vessels due in port but one arrived and ferry service across the harbor was spasmodic. Trains eased into stations and moved slowly over grade crossings. In several instances trainmen were forced to walk ahead of the engines to read block signals.

Highway crews worked through the night and during the day sanding icy roads throughout Massachusetts.

Alfred C. Coughlin, former tax collector at Lincoln, was killed when 15 motor vehicles piled up on the Concord turnpike.

KANSAS CITY BOARD REVISES LIST OF ELECTION JUDGES

Ignores Political Pressure in Choice of Ballot Clerks; Applicants' Deadline Tomorrow Night.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 24.—The City Election Board disregarding numerous recommendations of political organizations in the choosing of 2760 judges and clerks for the March election.

Extensive changes were made in the old lists today.

The board, which has completed approximately 200,000 affidavits for registration set tomorrow night as the deadline for filing preliminary application blanks.

Several thousand questionable applicants have been disclosed by the blanks.

BOSS HAGUE'S MAN SEATED IN SENATE WITHOUT PROTEST

John Milton of Jersey City Succeeds Gov. Moore — Labor's Non-Partisan League Demands Inquiry

ALLEGES CORRUPTION INVOLVING APPOINTEE

Charges Illegal Tactics by Machine in Gubernatorial Election Which Created Vacancy.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — John Milton, the choice of "Boss" Hague of Jersey City to fill the place in the Senate left vacant by the election of A. Harry Moore as Governor, was seated today without a protest from any Senator.

Milton, a short, solemn-faced man with graying hair, was presented by the other Senator from New Jersey, William Smathers, who was resplendently dressed for the occasion in a frock coat adorned with a red carnation. In the gallery a large delegation from Jersey City, all wearing carnations, watched Milton take his seat. Mayor Hague, however, was not present.

While no challenge of Milton's fitness to take Moore's place came from the Senate itself, there was presented to the Committee on Elections and Privileges a demand from Labor's Non-Partisan League for an investigation of the election of Moore as Governor, since it was a result of this election that Milton received his appointment to fill the unexpired term. Charges of long-standing corruption involving Milton and "Boss" Hague are listed in the document presented by the league.

Chairman George of the Elections Committee said consideration would be given to the league's charges, but, considering the nature of the majority on this committee, it is not probable that any very rigorous or thorough inquiry will be conducted.

Perfunctory Ceremony.

It had been reported prior to Milton's arrival in Washington shortly before the Senate convened, that Senator Borah (Rep.) of Idaho would demand an investigation of the appointment. At the appointed time, however, Borah was not even in his seat and the ceremony was dispatched in a perfunctory way in a few minutes.

With Milton was Gov. Moore, smiling and red-faced. Moore left the Senate with about a year of his term still to run.

In discussing a possible investigation with reporters, Chairman George said that, inasmuch as Milton had been appointed and not elected to his office, there could have been no investigation prior to his being seated. At least, there has been no precedent for such an investigation.

Twice in recent years the Senate has refused to seat elected Senators, once in the case of William S. Vare, Pennsylvania boss, and again in the case of Frank L. Smith of Illinois, who was found to have accepted large sums of money for his campaign from Samuel Insull, utility operator. In each of these cases, a subcommittee headed by former Senator James Reed of Missouri conducted a vigorous investigation, and when the Senators-elect appeared with their credentials they were denied the right to sit in the Senate.

Basis of Labor Charges.

The charges made by the labor organization grew out of "Boss" Hague's recent dictum forbidding the C I O to organize in Jersey City. The Jersey City Mayor has charged that the C I O is run by Communists and, in a series of mass meetings, has rallied the support of business and industrial leaders behind his campaign against John L. Lewis' industrial unions.

The Non-partisan League charges relate in some detail the more fantastic phases of Mayor Hague's dictatorship over Jersey City. Most of these charges, relating to Hague and Milton, are taken from documents put into the record of an investigation conducted by the New Jersey Legislature in 1928.

It was shown at that time that Hague and Milton entered into numerous deals in the course of which the Mayor paid over to Milton large sums of money in cash. Upon receipt of the cash Milton thereupon gave his personal check for tracts of land that would be sold to the city at a generous profit.

"Tramples on Liberties."

"The Hague-Milton political machine which tramples upon civil and constitutional liberties, has

WARRANTS ACCUSE TWO C I O STRIKERS AS ACID THROWERS

Anonymous Letter to St. Louis Police Leads to the Arrest of Hugh Bozeman and Robert Conn.

VICTIM OF ATTACK IDENTIFIES THEM

Oren K. Sims, Ford Worker, Says They Held Him While Burning Fluid Was Poured on Him.

Felony warrants charging assault to do great bodily harm were issued in St. Louis County today against Hugh Bozeman and Robert Conn, C I O union men and Ford strikers, who were identified yesterday by Oren K. Sims, an employe of the Ford assembly plant, as the two men who held him while two others poured carbolic acid on him Jan. 3.

An anonymous letter to St. Louis police, suggesting that they "look up" Bozeman, resulted in his arrest last Friday at his home, 1221 North Euclid avenue. Conn, who resides at 4230A Maffitt avenue, was arrested yesterday.

Sims, who was seized near his home, 100 North Old Orchard avenue, Webster Groves, before daylight, when he was on his way to work, was positive in his identification of the two strikers at Police Headquarters yesterday. Pointing to Bozeman, he told police, "He threatened to bash my head and said I would suffer if I stayed out of the union."

Police said Bozeman admitted making a threat against Sims before the C I O United Automobile Workers of America declared a strike at the assembly plant Nov. 24, but both he and Conn asserted they were at home in bed at the hour Sims was attacked. They are held at Webster Groves Police Station and will be released on $5000 bond each returnable Jan. 31.

Sims, in conversation today with Chief of Police Andrew McDonald of Webster Groves, remarked he was acquainted with Conn and Bozeman, but had "just figured out lately they were the fellows who held me."

Another C I O union automobile worker, arrested at union headquarters, was identified yesterday as a participant in the attack on Charles Fiasko, Ford employe, who was seared by a fluid, believed to be paint remover, which was thrown on him Jan. 3. Fiasko interrupted three men who were damaging his automobile and the fluid was thrown on him when he chased them.

Calvin Ross, a former union shop steward at the Ford plant, is under indictment as a participant in the attack on Fiasko. Ross, who denied the charge, was also named in two warrants charging him with malicious destruction of property.

3 ITALIAN PLANES AT DAKAR ON FLIGHT TO SOUTH AMERICA

Mussolini's Son Bruno One of Pilots; 2500 Miles in 11 Hours.

By the Associated Press.

DAKAR, French West Africa, Jan. 24.—Three Italian tri-motored planes, with Premier Mussolini's son, Bruno, at the controls of one, landed here at 4:10 p. m. (11:10 a. m., St. Louis time) today, completing the first leg of an experimental flight from Rome to Rio de Janeiro. They completed the 2500-mile jump from Rome's Guidonia airport in a little less than 11 hours.

The three planes, each carrying a five-man crew, crossed the wastelands of Northwest Africa to the Atlantic coast about 700 miles north and east of Dakar, then followed the coastline down over Port Etienne and St. Louis.

Besides young Mussolini, the chief pilots are Col. Attilco Biseo and Maj. Nino Moscatelli.

A message at 2:30 p. m. said the flyers had crossed the African desert lands and were within sight of the Atlantic near Villa Cisneros, Spanish Rio de Oro, about 675 miles north and slightly east of Dakar.

ROCK HITS SCHOOL, KILLS TWO

Other Pupils Hurt When Boulder Rolls Down Hill to Roof.

By the Associated Press.

WELCH, W. Va., Jan. 24.—The county school superintendents office was notified today that a large rock rolled down a hill, crashed through the roof of the Elkhorn Negro school, and killed two pupils and injured several others.

The school is in a southern West Virginia coal mining community about 15 miles from here. Injured children are being brought to Welch.

THREE FOUND GUILTY OF EAVESDROPPING

Convicted at Denver of Putting Microphones in Governor's Office.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Jan. 24.—A jury convicted three men today of eavesdropping by concealing microphones in the offices of Gov. Teller Ammons. Those convicted were Earl Ellis, suspended Denver attorney; Walden E. Sweet, former newspaper reporter; and Jack H. Gilmore, private investigator.

District Judge Joseph H. Walsh granted the defense 20 days in which to file motions for a new trial and deferred passing sentence.

The three were acquitted of three other counts—creating and maintaining a common public nuisance, conspiracy to maintain a nuisance and conspiracy to eavesdrop.

Members of District Attorney John A. Carroll's staff said the maximum penalty on the eavesdropping charge was one year in the county jail and a $300 fine.

A fourth defendant, Walter S. Lear, secretary to United States Senator Ed C. Johnson when the latter was Governor, was freed last week under a directed verdict after the District Attorney said there was insufficient evidence against Lear.

Ammons from the witness stand denied testimony by one of the defendants he had solicited a bribe while serving as a State Senator in 1933.

Ellis testified that George H. Dodge, tax agent for the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad, told him Ammons had asserted the chairman of a State Senate committee could be "handled" for $2000 in connection with railroad legislation.

Ammons testified the first he had heard of the matter was last summer, when Ellis made a statement concerning it to the Colorado Supreme Court during a hearing on disbarment proceedings filed against Ellis as a result of the microphone incident.

Ellis was suspended from the practice of law by the Supreme Court shortly before a grand jury indicted him, Sweet, Gilmore and Lear.

The defendants said the microphones were placed in the executive offices in December, 1936. Ammons discovered them March 6, 1937.

HANKOW SOVIET OFFICE BURNS

Unconfirmed Reports Say Explosion Preceded Flames.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 24.—Reuter's (British News Agency) dispatches from Hankow reported today the Soviet Embassy there had been destroyed by fire.

Unconfirmed reports said there was an explosion before flames swept the building.

Sled Carries Baby Into River.

By the Associated Press.

REDDING, Conn., Jan. 24.—Lawrence, 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bronson, was drowned yesterday when a sled on which he had been left by his mother slid down a bank into an ice-covered stream. The mother had gone into their nearby home for a moment.

ROSAMOND PINCHOT KILLS SELF WITH GAS

Actress' Body Found in Closed Car With Hose Leading From Exhaust.

By the Associated Press.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Jan. 24.—The body of Rosamond Pinchot, widely known actress, was found today in a closed automobile on the Harry Alexandre estate here. Miss Pinchot, was the daughter of the socially prominent Amos Pinchot and a niece of former Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

The death was listed as a suicide in an official report filed with the Nassau County police by Deputy Medical Examiner Lewis F. Ellmore.

She had been dead since about 6 a. m. Her body was found in a sedan parked in a garage on the Long Island estate, which she had leased. She was in the back seat, wearing an expensive evening gown beneath her rich fur wrap.

Hose From Exhaust in Car.

Dr. Ellmore said a garden hose had been attached to the exhaust pipe and led into the car through a window. All other windows were closed, and the one through which the hose came was sealed with a robe stuffed around the tube.

Inspector Harold R. King of the Nassau County police said the body was found by Miss Ida Hanninen, a cook employed by Mrs. Gaston, about 7:15 a. m.

"The police were notified," he said, "and they summoned Dr. William Blake, who pronounced her dead. Assistant Medical Examiner Dr. Lewis F. Ellmore of Garden City acted on this information and stated that the cause of death was asphyxia from carbon monoxide gas. The motor was not running when the body was found, but the ignition switch was on."

Stage Star at Age of 17.

Miss Pinchot was 17 when she starred as the nun in "The Miracle," and was 32 at her death.

A few years ago, Miss Pinchot went to Hollywood under contract to one of the major movie studios, but returned to New York after six months there. The contract was not renewed. She liked music, wrote, and was a good horsewoman.

Her last big role was "The Eternal Road."

In the 1932 presidential campaign, as the niece of the Republican Governor of Pennsylvania, she conducted a Democratic forum at National Party headquarters.

She was married to William A. Gaston Jr., of Boston, in 1928. He is the son of the late Col. William A. Gaston, banker and one-time candidate for Governor of Massachusetts. He is a graduate of Harvard Law School and a former assistant district attorney of Suffolk County. Becoming interested in the theater, he met Miss Pinchot when she was appearing at a summer theater in Provincetown, Mass. Friends say they had been separated for some time.

BOTH SIDES IN SPAIN CONTINUE AIR RAIDS

80 Persons Killed in Cities Behind Lines — Loyalists Attack Seville — Rebels Active Near French Frontier.

INSURGENT SHIPS SHELL VALENCIA

40 Shots Fired From Sea But Little Damage Is Done—Munitions Dump Explosion Reported at Algeciras.

By the Associated Press.

PERPIGNAN, France, Jan. 24.—Aerial bombardments caused destruction in several Spanish cities today and yesterday, resulting in 80 deaths. Hundreds were wounded as both insurgent and Government flyers dropped bombs widely behind the battle lines.

In addition to the air raids, five insurgent gunboats shelled Valencia, standing about five miles off the port and firing 40 shells. A Government report says little damage resulted.

A Government air attack on Seville, insurgent-held city 350 miles southwest of Madrid, killed 24 persons and wounded 20.

Raids Near French Border.

Insurgent bombers were active in Catalonia, particularly along the French-Spanish border. In a raid on the railroad center of Puigcerda, more than 20 persons were killed, while 17 were wounded. Fourteen were killed and 30 injured in two attacks on Figueras, also near the frontier.

Twelve persons were killed in an insurgent bombardment at Port Rosas, on the Spanish coast south of Perpignan. La Seo d'Urgell, near the Andorran frontier, suffered an undetermined number of casualties.

The insurgent headquarters city, Salamanca, was subjected to another violent bombardment by Government planes. The insurgent report discounts the attack as of little importance while other sources say casualties ran high.

Travelers reaching Gibraltar say 225 persons were killed and more than 400 wounded at Salamanca but this cannot be confirmed. Dispatches indicate, however, that property destruction was widespread.

Madrid Raid Prevented.

An insurgent air attack on Madrid is said to have been prevented by anti-aircraft batteries. The planes dropped their bombs on Alcala de Henares instead.

The Spanish press agency at Barcelona says two Government planes, flying low, dropped heavy bombs on the quay and shore batteries at Ceuta, Spanish Morocco, interfering with the movement of Moorish troops embarking on a transport for Algeciras, Spanish port near Gibraltar.

A Gibraltar dispatch of the Spanish Press Agency says an explosion which shook all of Algeciras was heard at Gibraltar. It is attributed to explosion of a munitions dump. The agency says several soldiers were arrested immediately afterward.

Protest Against Dropping of Rebel Bombs on French Soil.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Jan. 24.—The French Government today sent a protest to the Spanish insurgents against the dropping of bombs on French territory and ordered anti-aircraft and artillery batteries to move toward the affected frontier.

A Foreign Office spokesman said "an immediate protest" was drafted on receipt of news of the bombardment along the border south of Perpignan. Eleven bombs fell on French soil.

No one was hurt on French territory, but a hut in which two mobile guardsmen had taken refuge was wrecked.

Fourteen insurgent planes took part in the attack.

The protest will be delivered by the French Consular Agent at Salamanca.

Reinforcement of the anti-aircraft defenses along the frontier was in response to the urgent requests of local French officials. The French Army's regular frontier patrol planes were ordered to fight planes crossing the border.

Four hundred inhabitants of Puigcerda, Spain, remained in the French town of Bourg Madame, where they took refuge during yesterday's bombardment.

OUTER MONGOLIAN TROOPS REPORTED FIGHTING JAPAN

OPERATIONS IN FEW MILES OF PAOTOW

600-Mile Railroad From This City to Peiping, Key of Japanese Control, Thinly Guarded.

By the Associated Press.

PEIPING, Jan. 24.—Reports from western Suiyuan province today strengthened recent Japanese press dispatches that troops of the Soviet-inspired republic of Outer Mongolia were menacing the Japanese conquest of that corridor between China and Russia.

A traveler just returned from Paotow, strategic railhead in western Suiyuan of the line to Peiping, said he heard there "constant reports of the activities of Outer Mongolians within a few miles of Paotow." He related he had seen Japanese planes chasing a plane which he took to be Russian to the south of Paotow and knew hostile forces of some kind were operating within two miles of the city walls and had captured two nearby towns.

The railroad from Peiping to Paotow is the key to Japanese control of more than half the North China territory through which Japan's armies have marched. Domination of the 600-mile line means domination of the corridor through which Russian supplies could enter China. Chinese have reported that the independent Outer Mongolian republic, established under Russian influence, was merged with the Chinese Government after the war started.

Gap Between Conquered Areas.

Japan's six months of war has resulted in the nominal conquest of some 400,000 square miles of North China, inhabited by 75,000,000 people, and 65,000 square miles of Central China, inhabited by 40,000,000 people.

Only 100 miles and 400,000 Chinese troops along the borders of southern Shantung province separate the two Japanese areas. Two Japanese columns now are converging to close this gap, a drive for control of the Lunghai Railway, China's vital east-west line.

In North China, however, the Japanese control is but lightly supported. Travelers say the Japanese troops are distributed very thinly along the railways which the Chinese troops cross at will.

Renewed reports were heard that the Outer Mongolian troops had captured Pailingmiao in eastern Suiyuan. Although this was not confirmed, the opinion at Paotow was that the capture would not be difficult as the town was guarded only by Mongol troops under Japanese commanders.

Small Garrison at Paotow.

Large concentrations of Outer Mongolian troops, including many Russians and with 300 armored cars, were reported to have reached Wulanhua, 100 miles southeast of Pailingmiao.

Paotow is garrisoned by only 500 Japanese troops who are concentrated at the airport. The city gates frequently are closed and martial law prevails.

Wuyuan, the next important town to the west, is held by Gen. Ma Chan Shan, leader of the Chinese resistance in Manchuria in 1932. His troops were said to be well armed although short of food.

These details of activity in the little known region of North China came on the heels of Domei (Japanese) News Agency reports that the Outer Mongolians were strengthening their border defenses. Pillbox fortifications were reported being erected along the Suiyuan frontier and the populace being moved to the north to clear a wide area for hostilities.

Puppet Government Set Up by Japanese Last October.

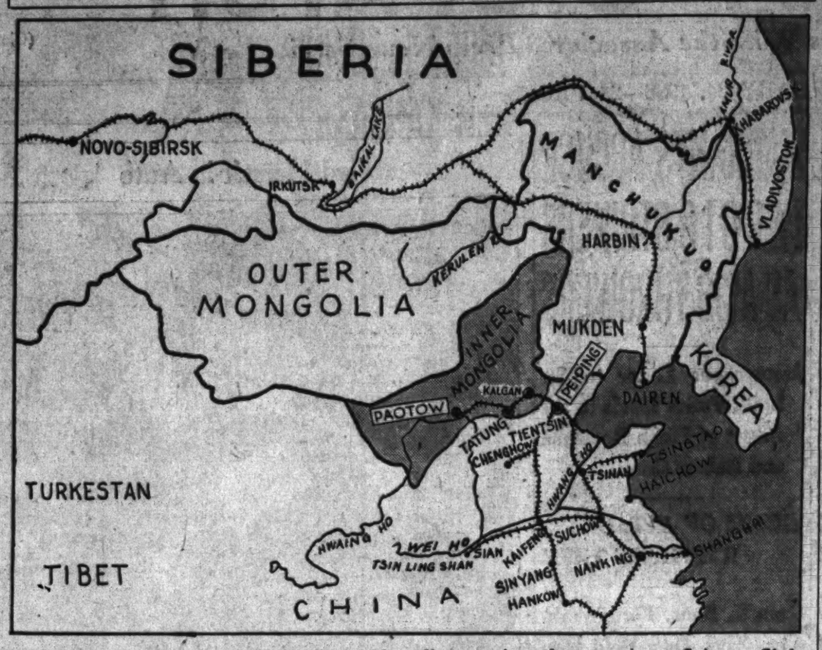

Japanese sovereignty over the Inner Mongolian territory now reported to be threatened by Outer Mongolian troops was formally established on Oct. 29, 1937, when a puppet state, similar to Manchoukuo, was created with Prince Teh as the nominal ruler. It is composed of three provinces—Suiyan, Sitao and Chahar with Hoho—formerly Kweisui—as the capital.

The strategic importance of the territory lies in the fact that it not only forms a buffer between Outer Mongolia and the rest of China but contains the important Peiping-Suiyan railroad which runs westward from Peiping to Paotow.

Reports of the infiltration of Outer Mongolian troops into Inner Mongolia said that there were Russians among the invaders. The heaviest concentration of Russian troops, however, is in the territory north of Manchoukuo where the recently constructed double-track railroad—which is closed to passenger service—runs along the border from Karymskaya to Khabarovsk.

Khabarovsk is the most important military concentration point in Asiatic Russia. It is the headquarters of the eastern army under the command of Gen. Blucher. According to the latest reports 13 to 15 infantry divisions, three cavalry divisions and a number of smaller units are there.

Inner Mongolia Where Communist Troops Harass Japanese

THE Japanese dominated corridor of Inner Mongolia comprises three provinces, Suiyuan, Chahar and Sitao and separates Soviet controlled Outer Mongolia from China proper.

CONFLICTING REPORTS ON AMERICANS IN SPAIN

Two Battalions Wiped Out, Rebels Say—Wiped Out Moors, Say Loyalists.

By the Associated Press.

HENDAYE, France, at the Spanish Frontier, Jan. 24.—Official insurgent dispatches from Salamanca today say two American volunteer battalions—Lincoln and Washington—were destroyed in Saturday's fighting on the Teruel front.

These American units have been engaged for months in the Spanish civil war, fighting for the Spanish Government with other international volunteer forces. There have been references to their use as shock troops.

The insurgents also say a third international battalion, the "Walter Brigade," was decimated.

The volunteers were mowed down with machine guns, according to the insurgent dispatch, in a desperate and unsuccessful attack on the Muleton position held by the insurgents just outside Teruel.

Government reports yesterday agreed that American volunteers led the attack but, contrary to insurgent advices, said they wiped out two squadrons of Moorish cavalry. The Government did not mention heavy volunteer losses.

The Moors attempted a flank attack in the insurgent campaign to recapture Teruel but galloped into the fire of the Government volunteers.

A communique from Barcelona said the Americans displayed "highest bravery" as they stood fast and annihilated the two companies of mounted warriors in a hand-to-hand struggle.

No Loyalists Seen in Teruel.

An insurgent communique today says observers reported no signs of life within Teruel, indicating Government forces have withdrawn from the city in the face of the insurgents' offensive.

The communique indicates the bitterly contested city has become a no-man's-land, dominated by artillery fire from both sides.

The announcement says that since Gen. Miguel Aranda's insurgent column penetrated into the Alfambra River valley, north and west of Teruel, the city has become untenable. Since that time, it is said, there have been no signs of Government defenders.

Government reports, however, say Government troops hold two strong positions northwest of Teruel, at Mansueto and Santa Barbara. The main pressure by Gen. Francisco Franco has come from the north and west.

Military students here say if the reported Government evacuation is true it would not mean the insurgents would move in at once. Government batteries in strong positions nearby could subject them to the same punishment that insurgent artillery has been inflicting on Government troops in Teruel recently.

The city itself is said to have no strategic value. The battle has resolved itself into a fight for the surrounding heights.

Fight Without Quarter.

A Government communique yesterday said Franco's drive to wrest Teruel from the army that captured it Dec. 21 had developed into fighting "without quarter."

A Salamanca communique said insurgent troops occupied Villalabaja and Tortajada, communities just outside Teruel, and were consolidating positions on three sides of the city itself.

Barcelona authorities announced that the insurgent offensive on the north and west of Teruel had forced only "slight modification" of Government lines south of El Muleton hill, a dominating position to the west.

Estimates of the number of men involved in the month-long battle of Teruel have ranged as high as 100,000. The Government hailed its capture of the provincial capital, 135 miles east of Madrid, as the turning point of the war. It was the Government's first major offensive success.

But after four weeks of weather-interrupted attempts to retake Teruel, the insurgents declared the siege of Teruel had begun, following a cleanup from Las Pedrizas Muleton to the railway station at Ojos Negros.

Friends of Abraham Lincoln Brigade Have Had No Direct Word.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Officers at headquarters of the Friends of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, reported "destroyed" in fighting on the Teruel front, said today they had received no direct word from Spain.

The Washington and Lincoln battalions of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade consist of 3200 men.

practiced all the known devices for violating election laws," the League declares. "There are more registered voters in Jersey City than there are adults eligible to vote.

"Ballot-stuffing, false counts, illegal registrations, destruction of ballots, disappearance of ballot boxes and poll books, and use of floaters and repeaters are commonplace in the Jersey City and Hudson County elections."

Attached to the charges was a copy of the findings of the 1928 legislative investigation and also the findings of the New York Post, which has been printing a series of articles based on an extensive investigation of lawlessness and violence under the Hague dictatorship.

On numerous occasions Hague's police have arrested political opponents and Hague judges have sentenced them to long terms in jail. In some instances, the charges set forth, the police first administered brutal beatings to the victims.

"Illegal, Corrupt Tactics."

"John Milton was appointed to the office of United States Senator by a Governor elected at an election where illegal and corrupt tactics were practiced," the League charged. "Throughout the State of New Jersey, exclusive of Hudson County, in which Jersey City is situated, the present Governor's opponent led in the gubernatorial election of November, 1937, by some 84,000 votes. The Hague-Milton machine in Hudson County, including Jersey City, turned in a majority of 129,000 votes for the Governor.

"Evidence presented before a Hague-Milton judge, formerly personal counsel to Hague and corporation counsel of Jersey City, established that inmates of insane asylums, non-residents of the county, non-residents of the district and persons on their death bed were voted in Hudson County in this election. The New Jersey General Assembly has passed a resolution authorizing an investigation of the corrupt election practices in Hudson County and a committee has been appointed by the Speaker of the House to conduct the investigation. The same facts which compelled this investigation by the New Jersey Legislature into the gubernatorial election warrant an investigation by the United States Senate into the fitness of John Milton to hold a Senate seat."

ROOSEVELT SEES WPA EXHIBIT

So Impressed That He Wants It Shown All Over U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—President Roosevelt was so impressed by a Federal relief handicraft and art exhibit shown here that he asked the WPA today to exhibit it all over the country.

With Samuel I. Rosenman, New York State Supreme Court Justice, and Mrs. Rosenman, who were White House guests, and David K. Niles, assistant WPA administrator, the President inspected the exhibit yesterday at the Smithsonian Institution. He expressed particular interest in examples of the revival of blanket and rug weaving. Finding several Braille volumes in the library project, he asked Niles to see if additional books of this kind could not be found for the blind.

A. F. L. COUNCIL MEETS; 'JUDICIOUS' ON C I O

Green Says Body Will Act 'Carefully' in Any Moves Against Rival.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 24. — The American Federation of Labor's Executive Council opened its mid-winter meeting today disposed to "proceed judiciously and carefully," President William Green said, in any moves against the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Green said in an interview after the first session that the council was "not meeting in a belligerent frame of mind" and that it would be mindful of recent appeals for peace from David Dubinsky of the C I O's International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and other prominent unionists.

He made his remarks in connection with a possibility that the United Mine Workers and other C I O unions whose charters have been suspended might be expelled. There was no prediction as to whether the council would exercise the expulsion power granted at the last general convention.

The council will draft a legislative program for submission to the current session of Congress.

The council sessions were secret.

The council, beginning sessions that may last two weeks, also had before it the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor's appeal from an order by President Green to purge itself of C I O affiliates or lose its charter.

Unofficial comment of delegates indicated the council probably would uphold Green's edict and reorganize the state group unless it ousted United Mine Workers officers and other C I O supporters.

STATE UNEMPLOYMENT FUND PAYMENTS REACH $10,809,690

Less Than $200,000 Short of Estimate, With 2908 Blanks Still Outstanding.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 24. — Payments to the State unemployment compensation "pooled" fund up to noon today totaled $10,809,690, less than $200,000 short of the estimated goal. Department officials said they expected to reach $11,000,000, since 2908 of the 10,952 payments for which blanks were mailed out were yet to be made.

Contributions from the 1.8 per cent tax on 1937 payrolls of employers hiring eight or more persons were made on wages totaling $800,538,378. Benefit payments from the fund are scheduled to begin in 1939.

The Federal Internal Revenue Department will collect a .2 per cent tax on payrolls, beginning Feb. 1, to finance the administrative costs of the unemployment compensation department.

A. F. L. Union's Proposal Rejected.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — The Labor Relations Board denied today a petition by the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, an A. F. of L. affiliate, to require Pacific Greyhound employes to vote for one of two unions in a board election. The board said the employes could vote for the Amalgamated, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, or for neither.

TWO SUGGESTIONS TO END PERSONAL HOLDING CONCERNS

New York Witness Tells House Committee Many Such Firms Want to Quit, but Can't Afford to

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Clinton Davidson, representing New York financial advisers, told the House Ways and Means Committee today that many personal holding companies want to liquidate, but can not afford to under present tax laws.

After referring to President Roosevelt's recent statement that he favored elimination of such corporations, Davidson compared the situation to a poker game in which the house taxes 79 per cent of a night's winnings and then "when you quit, takes 60 per cent of your capital."

Testifying at hearings on a tax revision program, he suggested two ways of changing the law to encourage liquidation.

He proposed, first, that the companies, on dissolution, be permitted to pay taxes according to the length of time assets have been held, or, second that personal holding companies be allowed to dissolve, tax-free, but that the stockholders pay the capital gains tax on the assets when they are sold.

Davidson said he knew of 35 firms that wanted to liquidate, one of them worth $12,000,000.

U. S. Chamber Spokesman.

Ellsworth C. Alvord, Washington attorney and tax expert for the United States Chamber of Commerce, opposed the proposal to place a special tax on corporations controlled by family or a few individuals.

Asked how he would change the proposal, if its principle is to be retained, Alvord said he would exempt all firms which have 50 to 100 stockholders or more. That, he said, would take care of a "substantial group of firms not organized and conducted for the purpose of evading individual surtaxes."

In addition, he proposed tax exemptions for all sums devoted to additions, expansions, exploration, development and similar purposes.

Board of Trade Request.

The policy should be to encourage those things, he said.

Joseph P. Tumulty Sr., of Washington, representing the floor traders of the Chicago Board of Trade, asked for elimination of a 3 per cent stamp tax on sales of commodity futures.

He said the levy was imposed as an emergency levy originally, at a 1 per cent rate, to provide funds for the Spanish-American War.

"The effect of the tax on particular types of operations, such as hedging and spreading, which are essential to the successful operation of the marketing machinery, are demonstrably bad," he continued.

"The tax in effect is a transactional tax. Its effect has been destructive."

He said its unjustness was obvious when it was understood the levy must be paid on a loss as well as on a profit.

The tax also works a hardship on the professional trader, Tumulty contended, during a rising market when liquidity is important in preventing interruptions to a steady upward trend in prices.

Lawrence J. Ryan, member of the Chicago Board of Trade, said this tax was destroying traders "financially, physically and in spirit."

"The further destruction of this group will ruin the liquidity of the farmers' market," he continued. "I think most marketing students will agree this group's elimination would result in considerable reduction in the average price of wheat and corn."

Builders' Suggestion.

Byron Carson of Washington, representing the Operative Builders' Association, suggested that the committee discard its contemplated exemption of corporations with a net income of less than $25,000 from the undistributed profits tax and substitute a sliding percentage scale based on the relationship between profits and capital of individual concerns.

George P. McCabe, general counsel of the American Brewers' Association, appeared to oppose the proposed repeal of the brewers' wort excise tax. He expressed the opinion that repeal of the levy would stimulate the production of illicit beer.

HOUSE PARTY ENDS IN ACTION AGAINST ILLINOIS U. FRATERNITY

Delta Kappa Epsilon Social Activities Suspended, Officers Ordered to Resign.

By the Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Jan. 24.—Officers of Delta Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity at the University of Illinois, were ordered to resign and the chapter's social activities were suspended until Sept. 1, 1939, by the University Senate Committee today.

The committee said the action was taken as a result of an unchaperoned mixed party at the chapter house following the sophomore class dance recently. It was said members of the fraternity and other nearby chapter houses also engaged in a snowball fight with university police who attempted to investigate the party.

While the snow fight was going on, it was testified, girls at the party were whisked away, disguised in men's overcoats.

China Declares Japan Did Not Explain Four Conditions for Peace

Spokesman Says 'Mere Vague Principles' Could Not Have Been Accepted Without Details and Tokio Knew It.

By the Associated Press.

HANKOW, China, Jan. 24.—The Chinese Government from its temporary capital here asserted today it had never received "necessary information" on details of Japanese peace proposals submitted through German Ambassador Oskar Trautmann.

"When the four conditions were communicated to us," a Government spokesman said, "we expressed appreciation for Gemany's mediation efforts, "but we realized that Japan's conditions, which appeared to be mere vague principles, were in reality so broad and all-embracing in scope that they included many things impairing China's sovereignty and territorial and administrative integrity."

The four conditions, as stated by Japanese Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, were:

Abandonment by China of "pro-Communist and anti-Japanese" policies and collaboration with Japan in anti-Communism.

Establishment of demilitarized zones in necessary localities.

Conclusion of an economic agreement between Japan, China and Manchoukuo, and Payment of necessary indemnities to Japan.

"It is evident China could not possibly have accepted such conditions," the Chinese spokesman said. "The attitude of the Chinese Government in this respect must have been understood clearly by Japan, yet the Japanese Government, without giving necessary information regarding the conditions, issued its unprecedented statement of Jan. 16."

The Japanese statement of Jan. 16 withdrew recognition of the Chinese Government.

The Chinese Finance Ministry declared that tariff reductions, put into effect by the Japanese-inspired North China Government at Peiping would destroy the intdgrity of China's national fiscal system and jeopardize payments to bond-holders and foreign nations which are secured by customs receipts. The tariff reductions ranged from 30 to 90 per cent on several items, most of which are produced by Japan.

"If the action remains unchallenged," the Chinese Finance Ministry said, "Japan will possess a powerful weapon to keep commodities from other countries out of that part of China under Japanese influence."

GEN. HAN EXECUTED FOR LOSING SHANTUNG

War Lord Who Retreated Before the Japanese Court-Martialed and Shot.

By the Associated Press.

HANKOW, China, Jan. 24.—Gen. Han Fu-chu, who failed to prevent the Japanese armies from conquering Shantung Province, was found guilty of treason today and shot. He had been Governor and military commander of Shantung since 1930.

Shortly after he abandoned his capital, Tsinan, to the Japanese invaders last month he was arrested on orders of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Execution almost immediately followed his conviction by court-martial which tried him on charges of high treason and "other crimes of extreme gravity." He was accused of disobeying orders from his superiors, retreating from Shantung on his own initiative, misappropriating public funds and forcing the sale of opium.

He was 48 years old. For 10 years he had been one of China's outstanding military leaders.

A premature Chinese report Jan. 15 said Gen. Han had been executed for "dereliction of duty." This report also said two other generals, Liu To-chien and Wan Fu-lin, had been put to death for "unnecessary defeats" at Shanghai and Suchow.

HEARING ON PLEA OF A. F. L. UNION TO ACT FOR 19 IN PLANT

Polishers' Group Tells N L R B It Does Not Want C I O, Which Has Contract, to Represent It.

Hearing on the petition of the International Polishers, Buffers and Platers Union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, seeking to be declared the bargaining agent for 19 employes of the Superior Electric Products Co., 1310 South Thirteenth street, was resumed today before National Labor Relations Board Trial Examiner Joseph F. Kiernan in the Federal Building.

The electric company signed a contract last Aug. 2 with the C I O United Electric and Radio Workers' union covering 115 employes, including the metal polishers. Gus Gleiber, business agent for the metal polishers' craft union, testified its members did not want to be represented by the C I O, preferring their own craft representatives. The A. F. of L. union had a local in the plant before the C I O was formed, he said.

In the C I O contract, a provision was included that the polishers were not to be paid less than 60 cents an hour. The C I O union maintains the metal polishers were represented in the negotiations. The contract was obtained following a six-week strike.

MISSING MOUNT VERNON (ILL.) WOMAN SOUGHT IN ST. LOUIS

Husband Tells Police Friend Saw Her After She Disappeared Friday.

Police have been asked to search for Mrs. Wilma Whittaker of Mount Vernon, Ill., missing from her home since Friday afternoon. Her husband, Howard L. Whittaker, a photographer, told police she left home in a taxicab, dismissed the cab near the city limits and walked away.

A Mount Vernon woman friend noticed her walking on a St. Louis street Saturday afternoon, Whittaker said. He related his wife, 21 years old, suffered a back injury in a fall last week and had been upset since that time. He expressed the opinion she was suffering from amnesia. She is 5 feet 6 inches tall, has light brown hair and gray eyes and was wearing a dark brown fur coat and a green dress.

FINAL APPEAL LOST BY MAN FACING EXECUTION FOR KILLING

Arkansas Supreme Court Refuses to Let Lester W. Brockelhurst Seek Writ of Error.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 24.—The Arkansas Supreme Court denied Lester W. Brockelhurst today the right to seek a write of error ending the former Galesburg (Ill.) Sunday school teacher's fight in State courts against a death sentence given him for the murder on May 6, 1937, of Victor A. Gates of Little Rock.

The final decision in the case was announced orally by Chief Justice Griffin Smith without comment. The Supreme Court affirmed the conviction and death sentence last November, and denied Brockelhurst a rehearing on his appeal two weeks ago.

The Court's next step will be to send its mandate to Gov. Carl E. Bailey, who must fix a date for Brockelhurst's electrocution.

RESERVOIR DRAINED TO SAVE TOWN BELOW ENGLISH DAM

Strain on Weakened Dike Relieved; Townspeople Return Home While Engineers Begin Repairs.

EBBWVALE, Monmouth, England, Jan. 24.—Calm was restored tonight in the town of Beaufort, from which inhabitants had fled a few hours previously when they were warned a dam holding back 200,000,000 cubic feet of water might burst.

Frantically working gangs, directed by engineers brought from London, succeeded in relieving most of the strain on the dam by partly emptying the reservoir it formed. Repair work then was begun.

Receiving official assurances that danger was over, many of the townspeople returned home. Two thousand coal miners who had refused to go into the pits today planned to resume work tomorrow.

The dam forms the new Blaen-y-Cwm reservoir above Beaufort, mining town of 3700 near the Welsh border.

SLIDE FASTENER INVENTOR DIES

Col. Lewis Walker Succumbs at 83 in Meadville, Pa.

By the Associated Press.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Jan. 24.—Col. Lewis Walker, inventor of the slide fastener and president of Talon, Inc., died at his home today. He was 83 years old.

Col. Walker first became interested in the hookless fastener principle at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893. He developed the invention into a product of manifold uses. The firm, formerly known as the Hookless Fastener Co., is this northwestern Pennsylvania community's principal industry.

Explosion Damages Cleaning Shop.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Jan. 24.—An explosion wrecked the front of a cleaning establishment early today. Burt Ray, the operator, his wife and two daughters, who were asleep in the rear of the building, were not injured. An automobile was reported to have been seen speeding away from the building shortly before the explosion.

S E C ADOPTS RULE LIMITING SHORT SALE

Regulation Expected to Prevent Them on Declining Market—Effective Feb. 8.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — The Securities Commission adopted rules today designed to prevent short selling in a declining securities market.

Effective Feb. 8, the new rule will prohibit the short selling of any stock except at a price at least one-eighth of a point above the price of the last sale.

Short selling in a falling market will be made impractical, officials explained, because short selling depends on the market going down and the requirement that short sales be made at higher than prevailing prices would tend to limit buyers for short sales.

The commission defined short selling as "a sale of a security which the seller does not own, or any sale which is consummated by the delivery of a borrowed security."

Professional speculators who anticipate a fall in stock prices heretofore have been able to make short sales and gamble on the possibility of buying a similar amount of stock later at lower prices.

The new rules will not affect short selling in a rising market, but no explanation was given of this. It was understood unofficially, however, that the commission felt short selling might be necessary in the case of a too rapidly rising market.

Results of Survey.

At the same time, the commission made public parts of a study of short selling of 20 leading stocks on the New York Stock Exchange in the week ended Sept. 13 and the week ended Oct. 3.

This survey showed that the ratio of short selling to the amount of stock in these two weeks was increased 30 per cent by short selling. More than 72 per cent of all the short selling by members of the exchange was in United States Steel, General Motors and Chrysler stocks. Selling was forced down the price of these securities tended to depress all other securities, S E C officials said.

The commission also reported that of 4551 members of the exchange only 54 made short sales of U. S. Steel, only 27 made short sales of General Motors and only 23 made Chrysler short. In each one of these stocks five individuals accounted for 60 to 68 per cent of the short selling by members. Some of these individuals operated in two or three of the stocks, the S E C said. No names were given.

The commission said it would continue to study short selling and if any revision of the rule was found to be necessary amendments would be adopted.

Odd-Lot Sales Exempt.

The short selling rule will not apply to odd-lot—less than a full share—transactions. Officials said short selling is not an important influence in these small transactions and regulation of small sales would be difficult.

To assist enforcement of the short selling rule, the commission ordered all stock brokers to delay orders for transactions to determine whether the orders are long sales or short sales and prohibited brokers from making deliveries of borrowed securities in the case of long, or regular, sales.

OSS KIDNAPER TO BE ARRAIGNED IN CHICAGO TODAY

U. S. Officials Say John Seadlund Once Contemplated Abducting 'Dizzy' Dean for Ransom.

CAREER IN CRIME OF WOODSMAN, HUNTER

Turned to Robbery After Meeting Dillinger Gangster in North Woods and Carrying Him Food.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24. — Federal officials and prosecutors decided today to arraign John Henry Seadlund under the Federal kidnaping law for the kidnaping and murder of Charles S. Ross.

Agents and Government attorneys decided on the legal procedure at a conference while Seadlund remained handcuffed to the bars of a cell in the Chicago office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation on the nineteenth floor of a Loop skyscraper. Agents announced he confessed abducting Ross near here Sept. 25, and killing him in a hideaway near Spooner, Wis., after collecting $50,000 ransom. Seadlund also killed James Atwood Grey, his accomplice in the crime.

Justice Department officials announced in Washington that Seadlund, alias Peter Anders, had once contemplated abducting two major league baseball players, Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, and an unnamed member of the New York Yankees' team. They said he had hoped to collect $50,000 ransom for each, but abandoned the plans.

Visited by Mother.

E. J. Connelley, Federal inspector, said the prisoner's widowed mother, Mrs. Paul Seadlund, had visited her son briefly and returned to her home in Ironton, Minn. The time, place and other details of the meeting were withheld.

Mrs. Seadlund said in Ironton she was glad her son had been captured because "he won't get into trouble any more."

Participating in the conference on Seadlund's case were United States Attorney Michael Igoe, D. H. Ladd, in charge of the Federal agents, and Connelley. They said Seadlund would be taken before United States Commissioner Edwin R. Walker later today, accused of kidnaping for ransom in Cook County (Chicago) and taking Ross to Minnesota and Wisconsin, where he was killed.

Connelley and Ladd were listed as the only witnesses before the commissioner. After the hearing Seadlund was scheduled to be turned over to the United States marshal and his case was ordered presented to the Federal grand jury, Connelley said, "some time this week."

"We will ask for the death penalty," Igoe said.

The Federal kidnaping law provides for the death penalty if the victim is not liberated unharmed. Lawyers said that as Seadlund had made a complete confession and as Federal agents to the bodies led to the hidden ransom money it probably would plead guilty in the faint hope of escaping the death sentence.

Seadlund was brought to Chicago Saturday night by plane from St. Paul where the agents spent several days in a checkup of the case.

Seadlund's Career.

"He was born at Ironton, Minn.," J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said. A high school education, but became a woodsman and hunter when he grew up.

"During a hunting trip he met Tommy Carroll (Dillinger gangster), who was hiding in the North Woods in 1934. He carried food to the gangster's hideout, and became interested in crime through his friendship with Carroll. Later Carroll was killed by police. Seadlund then began a series of holdups, the last of which were at a filling station in Crosby, Minn., and a restaurant at Brainerd, Minn. He adopted the alias of Anders to save his family, as his mother and sisters still live at Ironton."

Hoover said Seadlund wandered from coast to coast, robbing banks and business houses. Twice during his travels he went to the State of Washington, where he worked as a lumberjack.

"In February of last year," Hoover said, "he was on his way west again when he met Grey, a boy of 19. Grey, a Kentuckian, related he had been a robber and killer in the South. Seadlund took the youth as his partner in crime."

A Plan Not Executed.

Hoover said that last August Seadlund drove to Decatur, Ill., with the avowed intention of kidnaping for ransom Augustus E. Staley Jr., head of a food products company bearing his name, but gave up the idea. That was about a month before the Ross kidnaping.

Hoover disclosed that Ross, a record manufacturer, asked his wife to pay the kidnapers $5000 for his release, refusing to make the amount $50,000, as they demanded. Seadlund added a cipher after Ross had written the note, making the amount $50,000.

Seadlund, who was arrested at Santa Anita racetrack near Los Seadlund Son of a Mechanic; Worked in Mine as Youth.

By the Associated Press.

IRONTON, Minn., Jan. 24.—Sheriff George E. Ridley of Crow Wing County said yesterday that John Henry Seadlund first was arrested after he had held up a filling station at Crosby and a cafe at Brainerd. Placed in the county jail, he escaped July 28, 1934, by crawling through an air ventilator about 14 inches square.

He left behind a note, Sheriff Ridley said, in which he said: "Please don't blame the peace officers; blame the faulty construction."

Seadlund's father, Paul Seadlund, was master mechanic in the former Milford mine at Ironton. The boy worked at the mine for a while after he was graduated from the Crosby-Ironton High School in 1929 or 1930, townspeople recalled. He liked to hunt and fish, and played on the Ironton hockey team.

His father was found dead in his automobile in 1933, killed, the Coroner said, by carbon monoxide poisoning. His mother still lives here. He has three sisters, one of them a teacher at Manganese, near here, and another a nurse.

Decatur Manufacturer Skeptical of Seadlund's Story.

DECATUR, Ill., Jan. 24.—Augustus E. Staley Jr., Decatur manufacturer, said yesterday he thought Jonh Henry Seadlund's story of an attempt to kidnap him was "a figment of his imagination."

Federal officers quoted Seadlund as saying he had gone to the Staley home, but abandoned his kidnaping plan when Mrs. Staley answered the door.

"Neither Mrs. Staley nor I remember such a visit," Staley said. "The man must be expanding his exploits."

Previous Kidnaping Victim Sentenced for Carrying Pistol.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 24.—John Borcia, Chicago cafe proprietor, who with his wife was kidnaped by John Henry Seadlund last September, pleaded guilty today to a charge of carrying a weapon and was sentenced to from 15 months to five years in Clinton Prison, Dannemora.

County Judge Earl Gallup said he could not overlook the fact that Borcia had a record of two previous offenses.

Borcia said he and his wife were adbducted by Seadlund on Labor day and held captive for two nights. They were freed on promise to pay $5000.

Borcia was arrested here Jan. 4 and said he carried the pistol for protection because he had been kidnaped and feared for his life.

QUOTES REGIONAL DIRECTOR OF LABOR BOARD ON U.S. COURT

Miss de Schweinitz Reported Saying N L R B Could Not Be Interfered With by Judge.

Miss Dorothea de Schweinitz, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board, was quoted by a lawyer in United States District Judge Charles B. Davis' court today as having said that "the process of the N L R B could not be interfered with by a mere District Judge."

The statement was made by Attorney Arthur J. Freund in connection with reorganization proceedings for the Glencoe Lime & Cement Co., for which Freund filed application for approval of an agreement with Hodcarriers' Union, Local 718, under which the union's charges, filed with the Labor Board, would be dismissed. Miss de Schweinitz made the remark after telling Freund the agreement was invalid and declaring the board would go ahead with the charges, Freund said.

Miss de Schweinitz denied to reporters that she made the statement and said that, instead, her office had planned to ask the Court for permission to proceed with the Labor Board action.

U. S. Attorney Milligan to Speak.

United States Attorney Maurice M. Milligan, in charge of the vote fraud prosecutions in Kansas City, will discuss "The Federal Prosecutor and the Crime Problem" at a meeting of the St. Louis Bar Association next Monday night at 8:15 o'clock at the Chase Hotel, Kingshighway and Lindell boulevards.

ESTATE GUARDIAN SAYS HE MISSED BONDS 'YEARS AGO'

No Report to Court Until Friday, Freen B. Nulsen Relates, Because He Has Been Looking for Them.

The missing $101,400 in bonds of the Thomas E. Price Jr. estate, for which Freen B. Nulsen was guardian, disappeared "years ago" from a safe deposit box in the Boatmen's National Bank, Nulsen said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

Nulsen, appointed guardian of the estate when Price was adjudged insane in 1926, and removed last October by Probate Judge A. Evan Hughes for failure to pay for Nulsen's support in a sanitarium, first informed the Court of the disappearance of the bonds in his final settlement as guardian, filed Friday evening at Clayton.

Asked why he had not told the Court of the disappearance of the bonds when he first discovered they were gone, Nulsen said he and his surety company had been looking for them "all these years." He would not fix the date when he first knew that the bonds were missing, other than to say it was "years ago."

Returns From Chicago.

Nulsen, a brewery salesman who was formerly vice-president of H. L. Ruppert & Co., a bond firm, was in Chicago when the final settlement was filed and returned last night to his home, 6349 Alexander drive, Clayton. His wife is a half-sister of Price, whose father was a grain broker and speculator.

As guardian of the estate Nulsen was under bond of $75,000, provided, since March, 1935, by the National Surety Corporation, which took over the business of the National Surety Co. in a reorganization. The original bond was provided by the Southern Surety Co., which failed in 1932. The bond of the National Surety Co. was written in July of that year.

In behalf of Price, Public Administrator Paul Limerick of St. Louis County, who succeeded Nulsen as guardian, will file a claim against the bonding company for the value of the missing bonds, and certain shares of stock of unstated value, also reported missing. Limerick's attorney, J. C. Hoester Jr., said suit will be filed if the claim is not settled.

Asked About Inventory.

Nulsen was asked if the surety companies, when the original bond was written and twice subsequently when a new bond was supplied, had made an inventory of assets of the estate which the bonds covered. "I suppose they did, that would seem to be good business," he replied, "but I don't know for a fact that they did."

Officers at the St. Louis office of the National Surety Corporation told the Post-Dispatch records relating to the bond it provided for Nulsen were kept at the company's New York office, and that he did not know whether an inventory had been made.

Nulsen said he knew of no one, besides himself and a representative of the surety company, who had access to the safe deposit box from which the bonds disappeared. The arrangement was that the box could be opened only in the joint presenceof himself and a representative of the surety company.

Guardian's Reports.

In his first annual settlement as guardian of the estate, filed in February, 1927, Nulsen reported it amounted to $130,891. Before his last settlement was filed he told the Probate Court that payment of a $15,131 claim of the Glenwood Sanitarium in Webster Groves would make the estate insolvent. The sanitarium's claim was for the care of Price from January, 1931, until May, 1937. Price is still a patient there although Probate Judge Hughes has authorized his transfer to the State Hospital for the Insane at Farmington, where he may be kept at the expense of the State.

Nulsen said he had regarded his duties as guardian as nominal. Price's father was in actual charge of the estate until his death in June, 1931, Nulsen said, and after that he had left details of the estate's administration to attorneys. The estate was received by Price from his mother, the first wife of the elder Price.

FORD INJUNCTION SUIT HELD UP

Strike Plea Delayed Pending Conclusion of Labor Board Inquiry.

The suit by the Ford Motor Co. for an injunction to prevent C I O union men from interfering with the company's employes and business was continued today by agreement of counsel until the National Labor Relation Board hearing of labor practices is concluded.

Attorneys agreed the injunction hearing could wait until they finish with the matter before he Labor Board, especially since the picketing at the Ford assembly plant, 4100 Forest Park avenue, has developed into a quiet routine. Circuit Judge Eugene J. Sartorius' suggestion that the attorneys notify him when they want a hearing was accepted.

GLEASON INSURANCE SUIT ON TRIAL AGAIN

Aetna Company Questions Legality of Mrs. Naomi Gleason's Marriage to Fireman

The second trial of Mrs. Naomi Gleason's suit to collect $5000 insurance on the life of William Gleason began today before United States District Judge Charles B. Davis. A jury disagreed at the first trial in May, 1936. Gleason, who died in 1932, was a veteran fireman and oldtime professional baseball player.

Points in the defense offered by the Aetna Life Insurance Co., defendant in the suit, were attacked today by Patrick H. Cullen and Clem Storckman, attorneys for Mrs. Gleason, who argued that they were immaterial. Webb Welker, attorney for the insurance company, maintained that the points of evidence were pertinent to "the fraud which we expect to show in this matter."

Judge Davis, after hearing the points argued in the jury's absence, overruled the objections of the plaintiff's lawyers to the introduction of the defense points of evidence, without comment.

Attorney Cullen then presented the plaintiff's case, by introducing the life insurance policy, dated Sept. 25, 1931; a letter from the insurance company, stating that the change in beneficiary, from Gleason's estate to Mrs. Estate, had been made as requested by him; and a canceled check for $154, the first quartely premium payment. With this, he closed the plaintiff's case, without calling any individual witness.

Validity of Marriage.

The principal point of evidence argued before Judge Davis was the insurance company's contention that the plaintiff was not lawfully married to Gleason. Cullen argued that "the question of marriage or no marriage is not at issue in this case," while Welker maintained that it was an issue.

Another point argued by the attorneys was the admissibility of evidence as to the signature of Gleason to the paper which made a change in the beneficiary of the policy, from Gleason's estate to Mrs. Gleason.

The insurance company alleges, in its defense that the signature was not that of Gleason. As to this, Attorney Storckman said the company's pleading was insufficient, as a policyholder might adopt the application for a change of beneficiary as his own, even though the actual signature was not his. He said the company should have pleaded that the application had been signed without Gleason's consent, or that he had failed to adopt the request as his own.

Question of Age.

Another argument as to admissibility of evidence centered about the question of Gleason's age. The company has charged that, though Gleason gave his age as 66 when he obtained the policy in 1931, he was really 78 years old. Storckman argued that the policy could not be invalidated because of a misstatement as to age, unless it were pleaded that deat was due to age. He said the insurance company did not allege that age was the cause of death.

The plaintiff appeared in court with her left arm in a sling, the result, she said, of arthritis.

VISITOR ARRESTED, ACCUSES POLICEMAN OF ABUSING HIM

Gillespie (Ill.) Driver Says St. Louis Officer Swore and Threatened to Knock Him Down.

An investigation of a complaint received today from the Business and Professional Men's Association of Gillespie, Ill., that one of its members had been treated discourteously when arrested in St. Louis on a minor traffic charge, was ordered by President Albert Bond Lambert of the Board of Police Commissioners. He said disciplinary action would be taken against the policeman named if the complaint was found to be justified.

The complaint referred to the arrest of W. F. Crorkin on a charge, subsequently dismissed in Police Court, of parking beside a mail box. The policeman who arrested him, the complaint stated, used profanity and threatened to knock him down. Crorkin was held at the Laclede Avenue Police Station for seven hours before his release on bond.

Members of the association at Gillespie expressed their complaint in a resolution, copies of which were sent to Maj. Lambert and the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. The resolution demanded an investigation and the resignation of the policeman who arrested Crorkin.

ROBBERY VICTIMS IDENTIFY MAN, CHARGES ARE FILED

Lawrence Oliver Is Accused of Three Holdups; He Denies He Is Guilty of Crimes.

Three warrants charging first-degree robbery were issued today against Lawrence Oliver, who was arrested Saturday night at Lindell boulevard and Lake avenue. Police announced he was identified by victims of three recent holdups but he denied the charges.

Mrs. and Mrs. Allen Phillips, 4615 Lindell boulevard, who were robbed of $15 the night of Jan. 16 when walking on Lindell near Union boulevard, identified Oliver as the robber. He was also identified by Harry Lockart, 5398A Pershing avenue, and Arch Wilson, 5500 Pershing, as the man who robbed Wilson of $1.50 the same night.

Mrs. Docia Meyer, 5112 Cabanne avenue, told police the prisoner robbed her Jan. 9 when she was seated in her automobile in front of 5067 Washington boulevard. The robber took $8 from her purse, then returned the purse.

Oliver, 21 years old, gave an address in the 4700 block of Page boulevard.

TRIAL TO REVEAL MOCK ELECTION IN KANSAS CITY

Precinct Total Prepared at Secret Meeting, Government to Show in Tenth Vote Fraud Case.

By SPENCER B. McCULLOCH, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 24.—The tenth vote fraud trial began today in United States District Court here with the Government prepared to prove that a mock election was held Nov. 3, 1936, in the Ninth precinct of the Twelfth Ward.

The correspondent learned that the Government anticipates showing that the Pendergast organization in that precinct wrote in the totals at a secret meeting in a private home the day before the national election. More than 300 ballots were marked by one man, it is contended, and ballots cast at the election weren't even unfolded, since results had been predetermined by the political workers.

Maurice M. Milligan, United States District Attorney whose tenure of office rests upon a deal between the Pendergast organization and the administration, was in active charge of the prosecution.

Judge Reeves Presides.

United States District Judge Albert L. Reeves, who initiated the Federal investigation into corrupt conditions at the polls here, with his dramatic charge to "move on them," was presiding.

At the outset of the case, before selection of a jury began, Judge Reeves quickly overruled a demurrer to the Government's evidence and a motion to quash the indictment.

During selection of a jury, Judge Reeves declined a request by defense counsel to poll prospective jurors as to their political affiliations. "I would consider such a poll highly improper," the Judge stated. One man was excused when he said, "I feel very strongly about the situation in Kansas City." Jurors were drawn from outside Jackson County.

Defendants comprise seven precinct election officials and political workers, including three women.

The jury was selected after luncheon reecss. Three of the seven defendants, two of them women, then entered pleas of no contest throwing themselves on the mercy of the court. They will testify for the Government. They are Miss Adeline B. Levy, Democratic clerk, Mrs. Maude Sprink, Republican clerk, and Count B. Weeks, a Republican judge. The other defendants are Weeden Henderson, Democratic judge, Glen Barnard, Democratic judge, Frank P. Dixon, Democratic pdecinct captain and Mrs. Amy Freund, a Republican judge. Mrs. Freund held a baby in her arms.

Milligan then delivered the Government's opening statement.

Status of Vote Fraud Trials.

Since the investigation began in December of 1936, 181 political workers and poll officians have been indicted for conspiracy to corrupt the ballot through depriving citizens of their votes for presidential electors and members of Congress. These indictments represent 28 groups of alleged conspirators.

Nine of the 28 cases have been tried. No acquittals have been returned. Forty-six defendants have been convicted. Twelve entered pleas of nolo contendere and testified for the Government. One pleaded guilty. Three, all in the first case, conducted last February, obtained mistrials. They are subject to retrial.

The last vote fraud case was last June. During the interval prior to the beginning of this case, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, meeting in St. Louis, affirmed convictions in four of five cases submitted to it, except for one defendant. One case was reversed and remanded for retrial.

Supreme Court Application.

Defense attorneys, recruited by the organization, pin their diminishing hopes on an application for a writ of certiorari pending before the United States Supreme Court. In the meantime, most of those convicted face imprisonment.

Another Federal grand jury, charged to continue the investigation, will reconvene on Feb. 1.

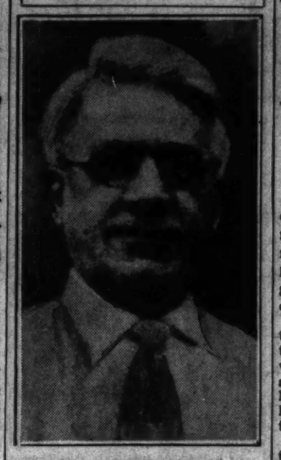

As the trial got under way today evidence of grossly fraudulent registration applications for the city election next April continued to be uncovered at the office of the new Board of Election Commissioners. Its activities continued to be hampered by an attempt of the organization to control the purse strings and curtail the amount of its payroll.

DR. FREDERICK W. GROFFMANN.

DESPONDENT DENTIST KILLS SELF IN HOME

Worried Over Dwindling Practice, Dr. Frederick W. Groffmann, 65, Uses Pistol.

Dr. Frederick W. Groffmann, a dentist in the neighborhood of Jefferson avenue and Cherokee street for about 40 years, shot and killed himself last night in his home, 3434 South Jefferson, where he had his office. He was 65 years old.

Despondent over dwindling practice, he had threatened several times recently to end his life, his wife, Mrs. Anna L. Groffmann, told a Post-Dispatch reporter. She had hidden his revolver in a drawer of her dresser and had concealed cartridges elsewhere, she said.

Mrs. Groffmann, preparing to retire, heard a noise in the kitchen and found her husband's body on the floor, a bullet wound over the heart and the revolver nearby. She summoned neighbors and two roomers living upstairs, who called a physician and police.

Dr. Groffmann came to St. Louis after his graduation from the Chicago College of Dental Surgery in the '90s. He had an office for five years at Jefferson and Pestalozzi street and for 19 years at Jefferson and Miami streets. Surviving, besides his wife, are two brothers, Louis P. Groffmann of St. Louis and Henry E. Groffmann of New Orleans.

FIRST CHECKUP OF COAL TRUCKS UNDER SMOKE LAW

Police Find Majority of Haulers From Illinois Stopped at Bridge, Have Permits.

The first checkup of approved fuel permits required for coal haulers was made today by police stationed at the Municipal Bridge.

Under the recent smoke ordinance, haulers are issued permits by the Smoke Commissioner showing they deal in fuel from an approved source of supply. The letters S. F. P. (Solid Fuel Permit) and the number of the permit must be stenciled on each truck. The police detail at the bridge stopped trucks which did not bear the required marking, but found that most of the owners had obtained permits. Each was warned to mark his truck immediately.

At the office of Smoke Commissioner Raymond R. Tucker, it was said that fuel permits had been issued to 1159 dealers, and that 272 Illinois mines had been listed as meeting requirements.

MAN FINED $225 ON THREE TRAFFIC CHARGES AFTER CRASH

Carroll Combs, Accused of Driving While Intoxicated, Says Friend Was at Wheel.

Carroll Combs, a salesman, 2585 Farrar street, was fined $225 on three traffic charges and his driver's license was suspended for a year today by Provisional Police Judge Vincent M. Flynn.

He was arrested last night after an automobile in which he and a friend were riding crashed into a street lamp standard in front of 1021 North Broadway. He was charged with driving while intoxicated, careless driving, and destruction of property.

Combs, denying the charges, told the court the friend was driving because Combs realized he was in no condition to drive. His friend was not in court.

COL. ROOSEVELT IN CITY FOR BOY SCOUT DINNER

Thinks His Cousin in White House Is "Cackling Over China Eggs."

Col Theodore Roosevelt Jr., former Governor-General of the Philippine Islands, arrived in St. Louis this morning on a one-day visit. He will speak tonight at the annual dinner meeting of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council at Hotel Chase.

Vice-president of the national scout organization, he was greeted on arrival in Union Station by Walter W. Head, who is the national president, and officers of the St. Louis council. He will be Head's guest during the day.

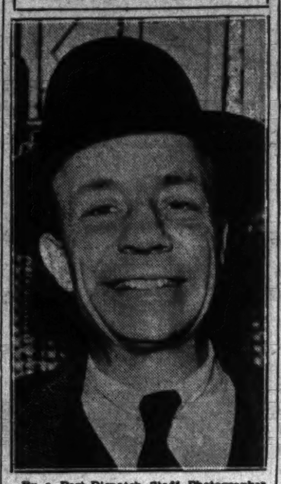

Asked by reporters if he had anything to say about politics and the national situation, Col. Roosevelt replied, "I think the country is rapidly becoming convinced that what President Roosevelt has been cackling over are only china eggs." In amplification of the statement, he would only point out that china eggs are false and contain nothing that can be hatched. Col. Roosevelt is a distant cousin of the President.

At the meeting tonight Col. Roosevelt will discuss "Scouting and Citizenship." The program will include the presentation of the Silver Beaver award to several adult scout leaders in recognition of their service to the movement.

Eagle Scout Arthur Greditzer will speak on behalf of his fellow scouts in tributs to the 3235 adult volunteer leaders in the St. Louis council. There will also be reports by executives and the election of officers.

The program of entertainment for Col. Roosevelt included a luncheon in his honor at the Noonday Club, with Head as host to scout leaders and business men. Late in the evening Col. Roosevelt will take a plane for New York. He came to St. Louis from Chicago, where he delivered three lectures at the University of Chicago.

TEAR GAS ROUTS BURGLARS

Safe Crackers Forced to Leave Store With Little Loot.

Burglars who entered the Gregson Furniture Co. store at 4230 North Broadway sometime between Saturday evening and this morning were frustrated in their efforts to open the safe when a tear gas bomb went off automatically after the safe's combination had been knocked off.

Employes told police they found placed beside the safe an electric fan apparently used in an unsuccessful effort to blow away the fumes. However, 75 cents from a cash drawer and two radios were taken. Entrance to the building was gained by forcing a skylight.

U. S. COMMISSIONER ON RADIO AND PRESS

Suggests Policy of Public Convenience and Necessity on Newspaper-Owned Stations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — Commissioner T. A. M. Craven of the Communications Commission said today the rule of public interest and necessity should guide the commission in dealing with newspaper-owned radio stations until a study is made of their broadcasting service. His observations, contained in a study of the social and economic aspects of broadcasting, were made public by Chairman Frank R. McNinch.

"Eventually," Cravens said, "a choice may have to be made between permitting or prohibiting other media such as the press an opportunity to supplement their older facilities with the newer invention of radio."

No adequate study, he said, has been made to show whether newspaper stations "have furnished average, superior or inferior service."

There are possible dangers in prohibiting any enterprise from obtaining broadcasting privileges, he added. Among these dangers, he said, is "the possible discrimination involved against any class or group, without any reasonable basis therefor; the possible interference with freedom of speech and press; possible turning aside of what may be a natural course of progress by which older established media bring their experience and their equipment to the gradual utilization of the new methods which science makes possible, and the possible establishment of an undesirable precedent."

Craven suggested caution in granting licenses for superpower broadcasting, because "the possibility exists of having granted to a few people, from natural resources of the Federal Government, the control of a system of mass communication having untold potentialities of being utilized to influence public opinion."

INCREASE SOUGHT IN FEDERAL AID FOR DEPENDENT CHILDREN

Missouri Association for Social Welfare Urges That Government Bear Half of Cost.

The Missouri Association for Social Welfare has asked the State's representatives in Congress to seek amendment of the Social Security Act to increase the Federal Government's participation in states' programs for aid to dependent children from one-third of the cost to one-half.

William W. Burke, professor of sociology at Washington University and president of the association, in a statement today said State Legislatures were inclined to slight the programs for aid to dependent children because the Federal Government supplies half of the money spent by the states for old age pensions, but only a third for the allowances to dependent children.

"From the standpoint of the welfare of the people," Prof. Burke said, "no form of assistance provided by the Social Security Act is more important than aid to dependent children, because children have a long time to live, a long time in which to be or not be useful citizens."

4 HURT IN EXPLOSION IN BECKEMEYER MINE

86 Others Escape Uninjured—Three Killed in Similar Blast Dec. 11.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BECKEMEYER, Ill., Jan. 24.—Four coal miners suffered burns in an explosion today in No. 4 Mine of the Beckemeyer Coal Co., 450 feet underground. In a similar explosion Dec. 11, three miners were killed and five hurt.

Those injured today were Walter Albot, Joseph Brahler and Ed Teppenhorst, all of Beckemeyer, and Teppenhorst's brother, Frank, a resident of Breese. They were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Breese. They were in the day-shift of 90 men who had just gone to work in the tunnels extending from the bottom of the shaft. The others were taken out through the shaft uninjured, said the mine clerk, H. H. Weisenseel.

Weisenseel said the explosion, in tunnel workings nearly three-fourths of a mile from the bottom of the shaft, apparently was caused by gas. The men, he said, carried carbide lamps.

A. Albot, brother of one of the injured men, had just passed the point where the explosion occurred with two companions, he related to a Post-Dispatch reporter, when he saw a spark behind him. "Frank Teppenhorst and Joe Brahler had just turned into the side excavation and there were seven others following the three of us along the entry, so I yelled for them to get down and flattened myself on the floor."

The explosion Dec. 11 was attributed to gas. At that time Weisenseel expressed an opinion that a flame from a miner's lamp ignited gas escaping from a pocket struck by drillers.

Beckemeyer is in Clinton County on United States Highway 50, about 40 miles east of St. Louis. The mine, owned by the Breese-Trenton Mining Co., is operated under lease by the Beckemeyer Coal Co.

SURVEY OF HOSPITAL RATES

Average Cost Here Same as Other Cities; Semi-Private Care Less.

National surveys made by the Hospital Council of St. Louis show that, while the average per capita cost for the care of the sick in St. Louis is about the same as in other cities, the local hospitals are charging a lower rate for semi-private service, it was announced by the council today in a review of its work for 1937.

The council, which admitted St. Louis County Hospital to membership during the year, announced that seven city institutions will participate in its activities during 1938. Social service agencies also join in its hospitalization and community health studies. Dr. F. Russe of St. Luke's Hospital was elected president of the council at its annual meeting Jan. 11.

FOUR HURT WHEN AUTO HITS SAFETY POST ON N. BROADWAY

Cecil Gibson of East St. Louis Suffers Fractured Skull and Injury to Eye.

Cecil Gibson, 39 years old, 5327 State street, East St. Louis, suffered a fractured skull and an injury to the right eye early today when an automobile in which he and three other persons were riding crashed into a concrete safety standard in the 6200 block of North Broadway. Gibson, a foreman at Ralston Purina Co., is at City Hospital.

The driver, Charles Maxey, a salesman, 514 North Twelfth street, East St. Louis, and Gibson's wife, Mabel, suffered lacerations and contusions. Mrs. Edith Maxey suffered a fractured nose, but was sent home after emergency treatment.

How to Make Better Cough Remedy Than You Can Buy

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cup of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It is far better than anything you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is positively the most effective quick-acting cough remedy that money could buy. Instantly, you feel it penetrating the air passages. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and makes breathing easy. You've never seen its equal for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

POLICE RAID DOG FIGHT IN GARAGE, ARREST 13

Humane Society Manager and Aid Pose as Spectators to Get Evidence.

A fight between two bulldogs in a makeshift arena in an alley automobile repair shop at 1122 East Taylor avenue was interrupted yesterday afternoon by police who arrested 13 of the 15 persons there.

The other spectators were Arnold J. Amundsen, manager of the Humane Society of Missouri, and his assistant, Foye Thompson, who attended to obtain evidence after receiving over to police an anonymous letter saying a dog fight was to be held there.

The owners of the dogs, who said they were George Strawn, 4528 Rosewood avenue, Pine Lawn, and Charles P. Smith, 3922 North Twenty-third street, were charged with cruelty to animals and released on $500 bonds for appearance Feb. 10 in Police Court.

They also were charged with "encouraging, aiding and assisting at a dog fight," a misdemeanor under section 4397 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri, in an information issued today by Prosecuting Attorney James P. Finnegan.

Walter Test, 1124 East Taylor, who operates the repair shop, was charged in another information under the same section with permitting a place under his control to be used for a dog fight. The maximum punishment is a one-year jail term and $1000 fine.

The 10 spectators, who were released under $200 bonds, may be prosecuted for attending a dog fight under the same section.

Amundsen reported a hat was passed before the beginning of the fight in a rough board pen, the floor of which was covered by a tarpaulin. He dropped a quarter in the hat. The fight had been in progress about 10 minutes when police arrived and it required five minutes to separate the animals by means of a wire screen obtained from the Humane Society's truck.

The equipment, including a bucket of sponges, was seized as evidence and the dogs were taken to the Humane Society shelter at 1210 Hackland avenue, for treatment of lacerations.

MEASLES AND SCARLET FEVER CLINICS IN ILLINOIS CITIES

Sessions Arranged After Two Diseases Reach Epidemic Stage in State.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 24.—Asserting that both scarlet fever and measles have reached epidemic proportions, Dr. A. C. Baxter, acting health director, announced today that a series of bleeding clinics have been arranged to obtain convalescents' serum.

The clinics will be held Jan. 27 at Peoria, Feb. 1 at Hillsboro and Feb. 3 at Quincy. Others are to be held later at Moline, Kankakee, Elgin, Alton and Springfield.

Dr. Baxter said that about 400 new cases of measles and about 100 of scarlet fever were being reported daily in the State, with indications that both epidemics would continue for several weeks.

Similar clinics were held last fall to obtain convalescents' serum in fighting the infantile paralysis epidemic.

Lose Bad Breath—Keep Your Friends

This gentle bile-producer might help!

In spite of all that has been written about bad breath, thousands still lose friends through this unpleasant fault. Let sour stomach with its resultant bad breath is frequently only the results of constipation. Just as it can cause loss of appetite, early weakness, nervousness, and mental dullness.

So keep regular. And if you need to assist Nature, use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This gentle laxative can help bring relief. Extremely important, too, is the mild stimulation it gives the flow of bile from the liver without the discomfort of drastic, irritating drugs. That's why millions use this laxative regularly. All druggists, 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

Your liver secretes from 20 to 30 ounces of bile every day to aid in the digestion of fats and stimulate muscular action of the intestines. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, besides helping keep you regular, contain an ingredient which definitely assists in the secretion of bile. That is one of the reasons why Olive Tablets have unsurpassed effectiveness.

MAN HELD AFTER BANKER RECEIVES EXTORTION NOTES

Wellington (Kan.) Filling Station Attendant Said to Have Confessed to U. S. Agents.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 24.—Dwight Brantley, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation here, announced last night the frustration of an attempt to extort $10,000 from John T. Stewart, Wellington (Kan.) banker, and the arrest of a filling station attendant.

Federal agents arrested Grant Delbert Silknitter, 22 years old, at Wellington yesterday. Brantley said the prisoner signed a statement confessing he mailed three letters demanding the money and threatening Stewart and his family. Silknitter was held in jail at Wichita.

Stewart received the first letter Dec. 9, Brantley said, and complied with directions by delivering a package at a park in Wellington, but nobody appeared to receive it.

The second letter was received Dec. 21, demanding that the money be delivered at another park, but again no one showed up. The third typewritten letter, on Christmas eve, directed that the money be given to a taxicab driver and delivered to a filling station north of Wellington, but still nobody appeared.

COLD SNAP CHECKS THREAT OF FLOODS IN ARKANSAS

Falling Temperatures Halt Rains That Were Causing Rivers to Rise in South of State.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 24.—Rapidly dropping temperatures halted prolonged rains over Arkansas today, promising relief to sections threatened with serious flood damage by rising creeks and rivers. The principal flood threat, the Ouachita River in South Arkansas, was four feet over its flood stage of 26 feet at Camden today and was expected to reach a crest of 41 feet by Friday.

The Arkansas River in Central Arkansas was rising but no flood danger was expected.

Thousands of cattle were in the threatened lowlands. Many highways have been closed by the State Highway Department as a safety measure. Bus and automobile traffic is disrupted in the Camden and Du Queen areas.

A freight train on the Fordyce & Princeton line is marooned near Fordyce by a washed-out roadbed.

6 CONVICTS WHO KILLED GUARD TO BE EXECUTED MARCH 25

South Carolina Judge Sentences Prisoners Who Tried to Escape to Electric Chair.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 24.—Judge C. C. Featherstone sentenced today six convicts to die in the electric chair March 25 for the killing of a prison guard in an atempt to escape here Dec. 12.

The sentence was mandatory under a jury verdict of murder returned Saturday.

Olin D. Sanders, State penitentiary guard captain, was stabbed to death by the convicts who had held him captive in his office, offering to spare his life if given a car and free passage through the prison gates.

Militiamen routed the convicts with tear gas bombs after Sanders had been murdered.

They were loading coal when buried by the rock. An inquest was scheduled tomorrow.

COLD WAVE, DUST STORMS SWEEP OKLAHOMA PANHANDLE

Drop in Temperatures Stops Heavy Rains Which Flooded Eastern Areas of State.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Jan. 24.—Dust storms from the north swept across Oklahoma's Panhandle today in a cold wave that followed heavy rains which flooded parts of eastern and southeastern Oklahoma.

A storm worse than yesterday's struck Forgan, cutting visibility to 150 feet at times. By noon, the dust had drifted over Oklahoma City.

On the State's northeast frontier, sleet fell at Miami and a main highway between Joplin and Miami was reported slick with ice.

While heavy rains ceased in parts of eastern and southeastern Oklahoma and flood waters in the southeast began to ebb, traffic on some State and Federal roads in the area was at a standstill. Rains which brought 11.07 inches to Idabel in 36 hours again missed the wheat lands of western Oklahoma, where moisture is badly needed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 24. — A slow, steady rain extended over much of Eastern Kansas and most of Missouri yesterday, but dust was blowing in the southwest corner of Kansas. The railfall here was 1.32 inches. St. Joseph had .69, its hardest fall since August.

The Kansas dust storm centered about Liberal, where visibility was less than a block and wheat, already suffering from a lack of moisture, was damaged.

J. P. PUNCHES PICKET IN RELIEF OFFICE ROW

Fines Shot to Quell Protest Over Moving From Madison, Ill., to Venice.

The moving of the Venice Township relief office from Madison to Venice yesterday over the protest of relief recipients resulted in a fight in which Justice of the Peace C. P. Lindsey knocked down the leader of a group of relief pickets and fired a shot into the sidewalk to frighten the group.

The relief office, closed last Jan. 1 because Superintendent Joseph Grenzer asserted persons protesting against meager relief allowances crowded the office too much and prevented the clerks from working, was reopened last Tuesday after an hour's demonstration by 200 persons on the relief roles.

It was decided to move the office from its quarters at 1514 Third street, Madison, to Venice. Grenzer said the move was proposed because Venice was more centrally situated, but the relief recipients charged it was because Grenzer believed the Venice police would be stricter in keeping complainants out of the office.

Picketing Day and Night.

Relief recipients immediately started picketing the office all day and night and thwarted an attempt to move last Wednesday by carrying the furniture back into the office as fast as it was placed on a van.

They continued picketing, and there were 20 of them in front of the place yesterday morning when Justices of the Peace Lindsey and William Boerckel, and Constables Emmet Hoover and M. K. Poloski appeared to move the furniture. The officials had been delegated to do so by Grenzer, who was ill in bed.

When the four officers put the furniture on a van, the pickets summoned other relief recipients, and a crowd of about 75 gathered and demanded the furniture be put back in the office. Hoover displayed a sawed-off shotgun and warned the crowd not to interfere. The officers finally completed the moving.

His Story of Row.

Justice of the Peace Lindsey returned and locked up the office, then went into a store across the street. "As I came out," he asserted later, "Mrs. John Moss, wife of the chairman of the Venice Workers' alliance (an organization of unemployed) jerked off my glasses and slapped me. When I pushed her away, Moss struck at me, so I knocked Moss down with my fist. The crowd in front of the office, many of them Negroes, advanced on me, shouting, 'Get him!' I saw one Negro draw a pistol, so I drew my own revolver and fired one shot into the sidewalk to keep the crowd back."

Moss swore out a warrant against Lindsey before Justice of the Peace Cecil Gant, charging Lindsey with assault with a deadly weapon. He charged that the Justice had struck him with the revolver. Lindsey waived preliminary hearing and gave a $1500 bond pending presentation of the case to the grand jury. He said today that he would apply for warrants against members of the crowd.

Guard at New Office.

The new relief office at Sixth street and Lincoln avenue in Venice was guarded by a constable and a deputy when it opened today, but there was no crowd there.

Relief allowances in Venice Township are small, being $13 a month for an average family, as compared at $22 in adjoining Granite City Township.

VICTIM OF RARE INFECTION TREATED WITH NEW SERUM

Substance Flown Here From Detroit; Horace Blase Also Gets Transfusion.

Horace Blase, victim of a rare type of staphylococcus infection, was reported improved today at Missouri Baptist Hospital after receiving a newly-developed serum and a blood transfusion yesterday.

The serum was brought here by airplane from Detroit yesterday and Blase was the first patient to receive it, his physician said. It produced a pronounced reaction, sending temperature temporarily to 105 degrees. He also was aided by the transfusion from a 25-year-old man who had recovered from a similar blood stream infection.

About 50 persons communicated with the hospital after reading accounts in yesterday's newspapers of Blase's illness but only eight or nine had had similar infections. Among those who offered blood was Charles Galloway, who went to County Day School with Blase and who recently recovered from a staphylococcus infection. Another was Clemence Evetts, who gave Galloway a transfusion.

Blase, 24 Middlesex drive, Brentwood, has lost about 25 pounds since his infection developed shortly after Christmas.

DANCING MASTERS' MEETING

The Ninth Regional District of the Chicago Association of Dancing Masters held its second annual instruction meeting yesterday at Hotel Marquette. New dance steps and innovations in character and tap dancing were shown by about 60 teachers and assistants.

Harriet Lundgren, director of the grand opera ballet here in 1934, offered instructions in ballet work, and Gretchen Brendtschmall of Milwaukee, Wis., demonstrated an Oriental dance. Instructions in ballroom and eccentric dancing were given also. Following a dinner, a program of children's dances was presented by pupils of St. Louis teachers.

High School Students of Marshall, Mo., in Car That Hits Truck.

By the Associated Press.

MARSHALL, Mo., Jan. 24.—Four Marshall high school pupils were killed and two others injured in an automobile accident south of here Saturday night.

The dead: C. B. Durrett, 17 years old; Norbert Langan, 17; Helen Entriken, 15, and Thomas A. Stookey, 17.

The six youngsters were driving home from a dance. Their car crashed into the rear of a truck. Three occupants of the truck were uninjured. The accident was attributed to a heavy fog.

Eleven Slightly Hurt When Bus Leaves Road, Upsets.

By the Associated Press.

YOUNGSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 24.—A Buffalo-to-Pittsburgh bus carrying 10 passengers ran off the road near here yesterday and upset. The passengers and the driver were slightly injured.

Passengers said the bus skidded and hit a culvert. After all passengers had left the machine it caught fire.

L. G. Fobes, State policeman, said the driver told him something went wrong with the steering mechanism.

E. H. Crump Assails Tennessee Governor's Plan to Take Over Private Firms.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 24.—E. H. Crump, leader of the Shelby County (Memphis) Democratic organization, has carried to President Roosevelt his fight against Gov. Gordon Browning's proposal to take over private power companies.

Crump charges in a letter which he said he mailed yesterday that Browning "is not in sympathy with T V A and never will be.'

Browning last week recommended to the President that the State join with the Tennessee Valley Authority in buying at "fair prices' existing electric distribution facilities owned by the Commonwealth & Southern Corporation within the State.

President Roosevelt indicated he would discuss the Governor's proposal in Washington Thursday.

Crump wrote his letter as Democratic National Committeeman from Tennessee.

EARLE SAYS RELIEF SPENDING MUST GO ON 10 OR 15 YEARS

Otherwise, According to Pennsylvania Governor, Capitalistic System Will Collapse.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—The Federal Government, in the opinion of Gov. George H. Earle, must continue relief expenditures for 10 to 15 years to prevent a collapse of the capitalistic system.

He told a University of Pennsylvania Founders' day audience Saturday that Government spending "is the only solution found so far to meet the problems of unemployment and lack of buying power caused by the machine age."

"We will have to resume Government spending at the rate of $2,000,000,000 for each year up to 15 years if necessary until economists have a chance to solve the problems created by technological unemployment," he said.

"I foresee a possible addition of $10,000,000,000 in the national debt within that time. If we stop Government spending the future looks very black. I don't know any permanent answer to the problem as yet."

J. M. KEMPER SUCCEEDS FATHER AS SECURITY BOARD CHAIRMAN

Kansas City Banker Appointed by Stark for Term Ending July 1, 1941.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 24.—James M. Kemper, Kansas City banker, was named today by Gov. Stark to succeed his father, W. T. Kemper Sr., as chairman of the State Social Security Commission.

The appointment is for a term ending July 1, 1941. The elder Kemper, who died last week, had been chairman of the commission since it was created last June.

James Kemper is the second son to succeed W. T. Kemper in a public capacity since his death. William T. Kemper Jr. was named by a three-Judge Federal Court Saturday as custodian of funds in the Federal 16 2-3 per cent fire insurance rate case.

Other members of the State Social Security Commission are William T. Nardin of St. Louis, vice-chairman; Wallace Crossley, Warrensburg; Mrs. A. B. McGlothlan, St. Joseph, and N. W. Brickey, Festus.

CHINESE WAITER, CARRYING OPIUM, TAKEN IN CUSTODY

Pleads Not Guilty at Preliminary Hearing After Being Turned Over to U. S. Authorities.

Woo Chee, also known as Jimmy Woo, a Chinese waiter, was turned over to Federal authorities today by East St. Louis police when they learned the black substance in two small cans found in his pocket was smoking opium. He pleaded not guilty of transporting opium at a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Arthur Felsen and was held in default of $2000 bond.

Woo was arrested Saturday night as he was about to enter a house in the 600 block of North Seventh street. Police reported he said he was an addict and that he made about $1.50 a day delivering opium for other Chinese. Since leaving San Francisco about a year ago, Woo said, he had lived in St. Louis at 805 Market street. He is 26 years old.

$189,671,000 RELIEF IN MONTH

November Figure Shows Drop of $36,000,000 in Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The Social Security Board issued figures today showing that total payments for public relief, made by both Federal and local agencies, climbed nearly $15,000,000 between October and November. The November payments totaled $189,671,000.

However, the board said this total was nearly $36,000,000 below the amount for November, 1936. The totals included payments for all types of public assistance—W P A wages, Farm Security Administration payments and general relief.

GROCER, SHOT IN BACK BY CUSTOMER, DIES

Blood Transfusion Fails to Save Harry Brinkmann—Motive for Crime Not Learned.

Harry Brinkmann, elderly South Kinloch Park grocer, died yesterday at St. Louis County Hospital of a bullet wound suffered Saturday night in his store when one of two Negroes shot him from behind without provocation.

He told deputy sheriffs the shot was fired when he turned to fill the men's order for 15 cents worth of pork chops. They were strangers, although he has conducted a store in the Negro settlement for about 34 years, he said. One was nearly six feet tall, the other shorter, and he thought it was the smaller man who fired, but he was unable to ascribe a motive.

Brinkmann was alone in the store when the men entered about 8 o'clock. A few minutes later a customer found him holding weakly to a counter, his strength rapidly ebbing from a bullet wound in the right side of his back. He received a blood transfusion at the hospital.

Brinkmann, 71 years old, lived with his wife in quarters at the rear of the store, on Jefferson avenue near Fifth avenue. At the time, Mrs. Brinkmann was visiting at the home of a son, Andrew Dolan, in St. Louis.

MOVIE FIRMS SEEK REVIEW OF TEXAS ANTI-TRUST RULING

United States District Court Held Agreement Affecting Second Run Houses Violated Law.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—A group of motion picture exhibitors and distributers asked the Supreme Court today to review a decision of the United State District Court of Northern Texas enjoining certain licensing practices and agreements which the Government contended violated anti-trust laws.

The appeal was filed by the Interstate Circuit, Inc.; the Texas Consolidated Theaters, Inc., of Dallas, Tex.; Karl Hoblitzelle and R. J. O'Donnell, president and general manager, respectively, of both corporations, and Paramount, Vitagraph, R. K. O., Columbia, United Artists, Universal Film Exchanges and Twentieth Century Fox.

The Government complained that the exhibitors and distributers had entered into an agreement under which the operators of "second-run" moving picture theaters in Texas and New Mexico were compelled to charge a minimum of 25 cents admission and to agree not to show double features.

It was alleged by the Government that "since April, 1934, the respondents have been engaged in a combination, conspiracy and agreement to restrain trade or commerce, in motion picture films and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize their exhibitions in the states of Texas and New Mexico."

EUGENE ARNETT, SEARCHER FOR SUPERMAN FORMULA, DIES

Reputedly Spent Part of $1,000,000 Investigating Diet and Gland Control.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Jan. 24.—Eugene Arnett, who reputedly spent part of a million-dollar insurance fortune seeking a formula for a race of supermen, died yesterday. He was 62 years old.

His second wife testified at the trial of her divorce suit in 1934 that he spent most of his time investigating diet and gland control. She said he worked 100 hours a week, read a book a day and would not eat more than one normal meal weekly.

Owner of a library of 60,000 volumes, Arnett had never been to college. His home was a large stone office building, originally constructed for the State Capitol.

EX-EMPRESS TO ENTER CONVENT

Wife of Former Ruler of Ethiopia Will Live in Jericho.

JERUSALEM, Jan. 24.—The Empress Mennen of Italian-conquered Ethiopia arrived yesterday at Haifa on her way to Jericho. She plans to live in an Ethopian convent on the shores of the Dead Sea.

Muscular Rheumatic Pains

It takes more than "just a salve" to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old Musterole—soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the local congestion and pain when rubbed on the aching spots.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly.

Better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster, Musterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists'. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

Your telephone is seldom out of order now, because...

telephone management said...

"OUR JOB IS TO CUT TELEPHONE TROUBLES!"

The men who head the telephone company have always believed even good service can be better. Their aim has been better and better service at low cost to the user. One result is that today your telephone almost never needs repairs.

In 1926, there were 23 reports of telephone trouble a month for every 100 telephones in the Southwest. Last year there were only 6 reports for every 100.

ON TRIAL FOR BANK HOLDUP KILLING NINE YEARS AGO

Lawrence McBride Was Returned to St. Louis County After California Prison Term.

Selection of a jury to try Lawrence McBride for the murder nine years ago of Todd V. Phelps, cashier of the Overland State Bank, in a $7600 holdup of the bank, began at Clayton today in Circuit Judge John A. Witthaus' court.

McBride has been in St. Louis County Jail since June 4, following his release from San Quentin (Cal.) prison, where he served seven years and eight months of a 13-year sentence for the holdup of Grauman's Chinese Theater in Hollywood. Previously he had served a three-year sentence in Missouri Penitentiary.

McBride has insisted he is innocent of the Overland killing, although he was a boyhood friend of James McGauley, who is serving a life sentence for the murder. He said he did not know the other two participants, Lawrence G. Ahrens and William O'Hara, who testified for the State. Ahrens had implicated McBride in his confession.

NO U. S. CASE AGAINST FATHER OF BABY BORN TO GIRL, 14

Federal Officials Notify Alton Police They Will Not Prosecute on Mann Act Charges.

William E. Edwards, father of a baby born at Alton last Tuesday to a 14-year-old girl, will not be prosecuted on Federal charges of Mann Act violation, Chief of Police Paul Smith of Alton said today, after receiving notification from Federal authorities who investigated the case.

Edwards, a former sailor, was arrested Saturday after police received a letter from a West Los Angeles (Cal.) woman, who said she was his wife and the mother of his two children there. Questioned yesterday by a Federal agent from St. Louis, Edwards admitted the California marriage but denied having married the mother of the child born last week, Smith said. Edwards was quoted as saying he arrived in Alton from California last September and that the girl, whom he met in California, went to Alton in company with her parents. The latter have since returned to California, Edwards said.

A birth certificate, filed Friday, asserts the baby, born by Caesarean operation, was the legitimate daughter of Edwards and the girl. The pair, who had been residing with Edwards' relatives, also had obtained relief as man and wife.

The letter from the West Los Angeles woman, Mrs. Konowa Edwards, asserted divorce proceedings were pending. Her attorney also sent a letter to Alton police, stating the information was being presented for any use authorities might wish to make of it. The writers said they learned of the Alton birth from news dispatches published in Los Angeles.

NATIONAL PIGEON SHOW AT EXPOSITION HALL ENDS

Blue Bar Cock Wins Award As Best Homing Bird Among 192 Entries.

The National Pigeon Show at the Municipal Auditorium Exposition Hall closed last night after four days, with next year's show scheduled to be held at Oakland, Cal.

Judging of the 3000 birds ended yesterday morning, with a Blue Bar cock owned by W. G. Knolbauck of Milwaukee, Wis., adjudged the best homing pigeon in a field of 192 entries. No best bird was chosen in the fancy breed or utility divisions. However, a young silver cock owned by Ralph Nolting of Little Rock, Ark., was pronounced the best bird among 600 in the King class of the utility division, which had the most entries of any class in the show. Breed prizes were awarded for each of 132 fancy breeds.

FACULTY EXHIBITS PAINTINGS

St. Louis School of Fine Arts Work on Display.

BUS HELD UP IN E. ST. LOUIS

Masked Robber Escapes With $15 Under Fire From Passenger.

A masked Negro armed with a shotgun held up an Alta Sita bus at Fortieth street and Bond avenue, East St. Louis, early yesterday, taking $15 from the driver, Dow Gregory, 650 North Fifty-second street.

Several shots were fired at the robber as he fled by Simon Giegler, special agent for the Alton and Southern Railroad, a passenger on the bus.

Liquor Store Manager Robbed.

Alvin Gibson, manager of the Roebock Liquor Store, 2619 Gravois avenue, was robbed of $63 by an armed man who held up Gibson, his wife, Elsa, and his brother, Russell, outside the store after it had closed at 12:10 a. m. yesterday. The robber forced the manager to reopen the store and ordered him to open the safe, but Gibson said he did not know the combination. The robber searched Gibson and found the $63, which belonged to the liquor company.

The body of Arnold H. Nussbaum, 50 years old, was found hanging by a clothesline from a joist in the basement of his home at 7027 Oleatha avenue yesterday afternoon by his wife, Anna. An overturned chair was beneath the body.

Nussbaum lost his position as chef at the Missouri Athletic Association Jan. 1, his wife said. A penciled note, signed by Nussbaum, was found on the kitchen table. It said, ". . . is to blame for everything."

Fog Disrupts Alton Power Service.

Heavy fog which blanketed St. Louis and vicinity early yesterday morning was blamed by electric power company officers at Alton for a short circuit which disrupted service there for almost an hour. The moisture caused insulators on a feeder line from the Cahokia power plant to leak and set fire to a wood pole, necessitating suspension of service until the repairs could be made. Power was cut off at 8:23 a. m. and restored at 9:19.

BISHOP OF BELLEVILLE EXPLAINS PARTY RULES

Allows Card Games Which, Though Gambling, Are Not Considered Wrong.

Parish card parties, picnics, dances, lotto and bingo parties may be held in the Catholic diocese of Belleville by written permission of Bishop Henry Althoff, but on weekdays only, under rules laid down in the Bishop's letter read yesterday to all congregations of the diocese. The letter supplemented and clarified Bishop Althoff's pronouncement of Dec. 11.

Such parties, the Bishop specified, should be held chiefly to promote sociability among parishioners, and should not be of too frequent occurrence, nor regarded primarily as a means of raising money for church purposes. Churches and schools should be supported by regular contributions, and not by receipts of festivals and entertainments, the letter said.

The rule prohibiting parish dances on Saturday nights was repeated, and pastors were again urged to counsel young people against public dances and "immoral roadhouse dances." As to card and other parties, it was stated that some pastors have asked further advice, and the Bishop said:

"While card parties at which prizes are offered, strictly speaking, constitute gambling, it is generally conceded that parish card parties, because of the circumstances under which they are held and the purpose to which the proceeds are devoted, are not considered morally wrong nor construed as a violation of the law nor an inducement to youth to gamble."

"When this matter was discussed at a recent consultors' meeting it was decided card parties, bingo and lotto should be permitted, provided all cash prizes are strictly excluded, and these card parties are in no way advertised, nor any tickets or other advertising matter in reference to them go through the mail.

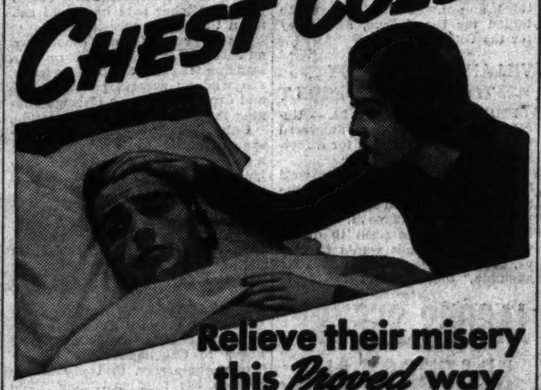

"These social affairs may never be held on Sundays, holy days of obligation, days before holy days, nor during Lent. At all parish affairs, all intoxicating beverages are strictly forbidden."

Woman Struck by Automobile.

Miss Glendora Butcher, 5322 Delmar boulevard, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital suffering from bruises and shock after she was struck by an automobile at Delmar boulevard and Clara avenue last night. The driver was John Erlich, a clerk, 1452 Belt avenue.

Don't take needless risks with CHEST COLDS

Relieve their misery this Proved way

WHEN there's a cold to treat—especially if it's a chest cold—that's no time to experiment. Relieve the misery with the treatment that has been doubly proved for you.

Here's What To Do: It's best to stay in bed and get lots of rest. Eat lightly, drink plenty of water, and keep elimination regular. And use your dependable Vicks VapoRub without delay.

VapoRub has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

Almost before you finish rubbing, you begin to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break up local congestion. And long after you relax into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working—hour after hour.

No Long Waiting for Relief to Begin... Vicks VapoRub is direct external treatment. No "dosing"—no risk of stomach upsets. You simply massage it on throat, chest, and back (as illustrated). Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

By W. J. McGoogan.

The Flyers still clung desperately to their two-game lead in the American Hockey Association today as they faced a week of idleness since their next game is scheduled Saturday night in Wichita. They play at the Arena again Sunday night, facing Tulsa.

It is a much needed rest, too, as they climaxed a schedule of six games in some 10 days with a 3-to-1 victory over Wichita at the Arena last night to hold their margin over Minneapolis. The Millers won from Tulsa.

The Flyers have been forced to do considerable traveling in their recent stretch. Shorthanded most of the time in the defense department, Leo Carbol and Joe Matte, particularly, were yearning for the breathing spell.

Tempers have been shortening because of the constant moving about and playing and the usually quiet Bob Burns enlivened last night's game with a brief but not too serious scuffle with Andy Maloney of the Skyhawks.

Burns and Maloney Fight.

Hardly had the game started until Burns and Maloney showed they were in the mood for a fight and the referee sent them to the cooler for two minutes. They returned and it was not long until they really tangled on the boards at the east side and had to be separated, after which Mr. Maloney went to the dressing room for repairs and Burns to the penalty box for five minutes.

While Burns and Maloney were at it, Bill Kendall and DeLeeuw put on a side show, but it was so unimportant that they didn't even draw a penalty.

That was the first period, devoted largely to scrapping instead of hockey, but in the second session the players returned to the business at hand.

Burns and Maloney were in the box when play began and they were joined shortly by Bill Hudson, who, in his quiet way, did a little tripping. While he was there and the Flyers were short two men to one for the Skyhawks, Mike Goodman scored on a pass from Emil Hansen.

Carbol Ties the Score.

Five minutes later, Carbol got that back with a long shot which nicked the inside of the post of the Wichita goal and nestled in the net.

Burns and Maloney took advantage of the closing minutes to pay their respects to each other again, but the referees were not looking and they were not penalized.

After a little more than two minutes of play in the final session, Purpur took a pass from Joe Matte and scored to put the Flyers a goal ahead and some 10 minutes later Kendall scored the convincer assisted by Hudson and Burns.

Oscar Hansen failed to pass to Palangio on one occasion when Pete seemed to be in the clear and he drew down the wrath of the fans on his head.

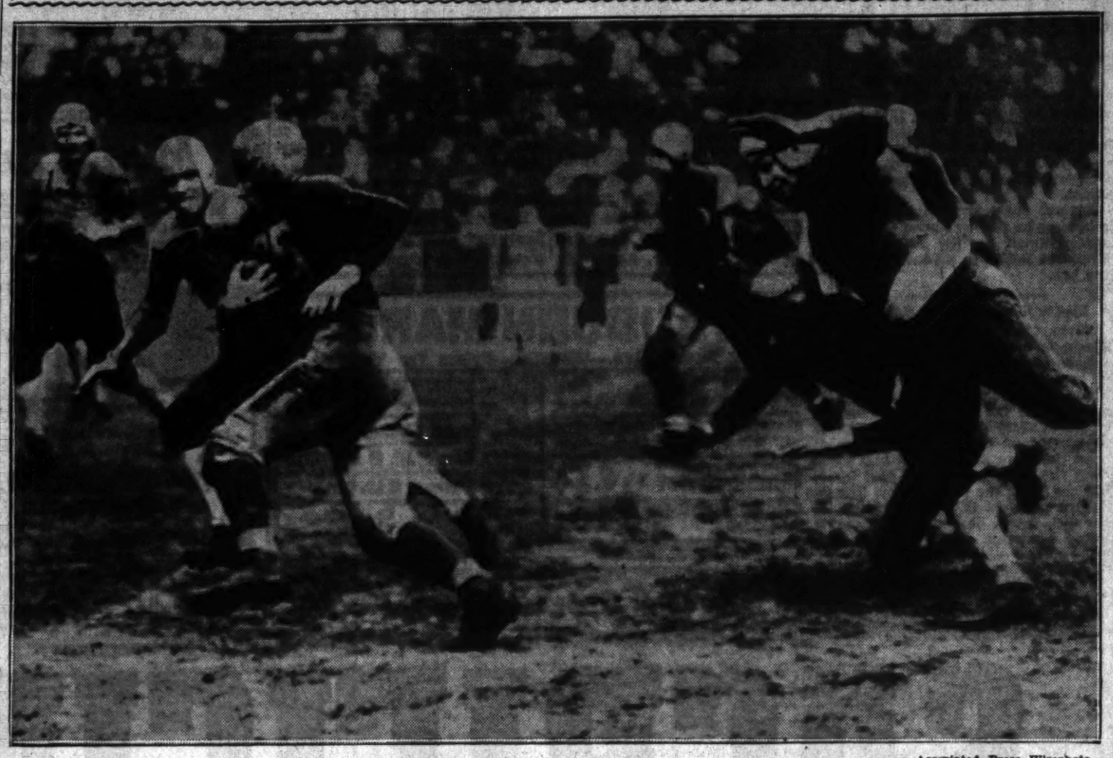

The attendance was announced as 5763.

In an amateur game played during the intermissions, St. Louis U. defeated the Octopus Club, 3 to 1.

Hub Nelson had a busy night in goal with 42 stops against 27 for Paul Goodman.

Paul Goodman made one gallant stand in the first period, when he was bombarded with numerous shots, but cleared them all.

Redskin Makes Good Gain in Game With Bears

Bout With Seelig Gives Parks Real Chance for Top-Ranking

Joe Parks, St. Louis youth, who in a long boxing career has failed to rise above the mediocre, will make a real bid for a top ranking in the middleweight division when he tackles Eric Seelig of Germany in a 10-round bout at the Municipal Auditorium tonight.

In the other half of what promoters, and particularly Kid Bandy, love to call a double feature, Allen Matthews, St. Louis Negro middleweight, opposes Bob Turner of Richmond, Va.

On the Upgrade.

Parks has had his ups and downs in the ring, and just recently was definitely on the upgrade when he fought a clever draw with hard-punching Gus Lesnevich at the Coliseum.

Joe fought a smart fight that night. True, it was a retreating battle, but it was the kind he had to fight to hold his foe at bay.

In Seelig, he will be meeting a boxer, who, when he arrived in this country, was hailed as a coming champion. He had the misfortune to run into one of Harry Balsamo's wild rights in his first encounter here and was knocked out.

That hurt his career immeasurably, but he has done his best to overcome it since. He has won some truly notable victories, among them knockouts over Mickey Walker and Charley Berlanger. His most recent conquest was over Carmen Barth in Cleveland and he is ready to do his best against Parks.

Turner has a spotty record, and while he has a great many victories to his credit, most of them are over boxers who are not so well known, particularly in this neck of the woods. But when a rival fight promoter, who has seen Turner in action, Larry Atkins, declares he is the best man Allen Matthews has fought here, you put some credence in it, because if there is one thing that most fight promoters have to do, it is to boost the other fellow's show or give it any credit, whatsoever.

Stillman vs. Lee.

Al Stillman is to continue his comeback attempt in a scheduled 10-rounder against Frank Lee, Omaha, another about whom little is known here.

In two preliminary contests, Charley Dawson and Jeff Harding, local middleweights, tangle in six rounds, while Dan Dowling opposes Pinkie Coleman in four rounds.

The first bout is set to start at 8:30 o'clock.

Joe Cambria Adds New Club.

Joe Cambria has added the St. Augustine (Fla.) club in the Florida State League to his string of minor league possessions.

AUDITORIUM PROGRAM

Heils Take Lead In Aurora Bowling

By the Associated Press.

AURORA, Ill., Jan. 24.—The Heil Products team of Milwaukee gave the rest of the field something to shoot at yesterday when it opened the twenty-first annual interstate bowling tournament with a score of 3124. The Weber Beers, also of Milwaukee, went into second place with a 3060 total.

Hank Marino, national match game champion, who has announced that he would forego defense of his title this year, led the Heil team bowlers with a three-game total of 677.

Later Marino rolled a 650 series in the doubles and 586 in the singles, which, with his five-man total, sent him into first place in the all-events with a mark of 1913. His teammates, Ned Day and Gil Zunker, grabbed the doubles lead with 1252.

Teams from Chicago and other Illinois cities will attempt to wrest the lead from the Milwaukee team during the next three weeks of competition.

ST. MATTHEWS-BURKE SOCCER CUP CONTEST BOOKED FOR SUNDAY

Because of the rain, the scheduled U. S. F. A. first-round soccer cup contest between the St. Matthews and the Burke teams yesterday was postponed until next Sunday. As a preliminary to the cup contest, the South Sides, recently strengthened by members of the defunct Shamrock team, will oppose the St. Patricks, who were eliminated from cup competition by the South Sides.

Waner Wins Ball Players' Tourney; Dizzy Loses $1550

By the Associated Press.

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 24.—Paul Waner, Pittsburgh outfielder, is baseball's champion golfer. The elder of the Waner brothers defeated Jack Russell, former American League pitcher, 6 and 5, to win the annual baseball players golf tournament here yesterday.

Established as a pre-tourney favorite in the players' auction, Waner played a consistent par game in the 36-hole final. Five up on Russell at the end of the morning round, the Pirate lefthander added another hole on the final 18 to terminate the match on the thirty-first green.

Joe Medwick, National League batting champion and St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, gave the one and only Jerome Herman Dean a neat demonstration of his golfing prowess in annexing second flight laurels. Medwick not only walloped his teammate, 6 and 5, but rifled a shot 277 yards down the fairway to cop the driving contest.

Jo Jo White of Detroit took third flight honors, turning back Heinie Manush, Brooklyn veteran, one up.

In consolation play, Gerald Walker of the White Sox trounced Garland Braxton of Indianapolis, 2 and 1; Paul Derringer of Cincinnati trimmed John Cooney of the Cardinals, 2 and 1, and Butch Henline, unattached, won by default.

For Dean, the tournament proved an expensive affair. Checking up, the Cardinal pitcher said he lost a total of $1550 in bets. Failure to qualify for the first flight, "Ole Diz" said, cost him $1000 wagered against $20,000 with an undisclosed person.

There was one bright spot for Diz, however. He owned Waner's chances in the player auction and collected first money.

FERRIS CHOOSES CUNNINGHAM ON ALL-STAR TEAM

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Old Pop Time still can't do a thing with this Glenn Cunningham fellow.

Despite the rise of younger runners, such as Archie San Romani, his own increasing years—so far as track men go—and his heavy college work, the ex-Kansas cyclone is still Mr. Big among the metric milers. To prove it—if proof is needed—there's his name in the 1500-meter spot today on Dan Ferris' All-America track team for 1938.

Annual Selections.

The secretary-treasurer of the National A. A. U., releasing his annual selections of All-America, all-collegiate and all-scholastic track and field performers last night, picked Cunningham over his fellow Kansan, Archie San Romani, despite the latter's victory in the A. A. U. indoor championships last year.

San Romani also might have won the outdoor title if he hadn't fallen in the last 200 yards, but since Cunningham was the man who broke the tape, Ferris put him on top, and gave San Romani the all-college position in the mile.

None of the big names in track and field were omitted from one or the other of the teams. Only two, however, collected a pair of nominations on the All-America lineup. They were Irv Folwartshny, Rhode Island State's husky, who was selected for the 35-pound weight throw and the hammer throw on both the All-America and all-college lineups, and John Kelley, Arlington (Mass.) plodder, named to both the 15,000 and 25,000 meters on the All-America lineup.

Other standouts were:

Ben Johnson, Columbia sprinter, at 60 meters on the All-America and 220 yards on the all-college.

John Woodruff, Pittsburgh's Olympic champion, at 800 meters on the All-America, and the half mile on the college list.

Don Lash, Indiana, cross-country on the All-America and two miles on the all-college.

Spec Towns, Georgia's timber topper, at 110-meter hurdles on the All-America and 120 yards on the all-college.

The Broad Jump.

Kermit King, Pittsburg (Kan.) Teachers, broad jump on both All-America and all-college.

Bill Sefton, Southern California, pole vault on both All-America and all-college.

Sam Francis, Nebraska graduate, shotput on both teams.

Alton Terry, Hardin-Simmons, javelin throw on both teams.

Dick Kearns, Colorado, decathlon on both teams.

Bill Brown Baker (La.) High School, hop-step and jump on the All-America team, and broad jump and 220-yard hurdles on the all-scholastic team.

WARNEKE SIGNS 1938 CONTRACT WITH REDBIRDS

Lon Warneke, once a Cub and now a star of the Cardinals' pitching staff, made a brief visit to club headquarters today and, after talking things over with Branch Rickey, vice-president and general manager of the Redbirds, signed his contract for 1938.

Warneke, who won 18 games for the Cardinals last season, arrived in St. Louis this morning and was scheduled to depart for his home in Arkansas tonight.

Warneke thus joins Manager Frankie Frisch, Outfielder Terry Moore and Outfielder-Catcher Don Padgett as a member of the all-signed-up group.

Warneke last season was the Cardinals' leading pitcher with 18 victories and 11 defeats, a winning percentage of .621, a mark which placed him eighth in the league. However, in efficiency, he was far down, ranking twenty-sixth. He yielded 120 earned runs in 239 innings for an average of 4.52 each nine rounds. He was pounded for 280 hits. The Arkansas Humming Bird pitched in 18 complete contests.

JOE STRIPP WONDERS WHETHER CARDS WANT PLAYER OR BAT BOY

By the Associated Press.

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 24. — Joe Stripp, third baseman traded by Brooklyn to St. Louis last year, received his 1938 contract yesterday and promptly joined the growing ranks of the holdouts.

Consigning the document to the wastebasket, Stripp said he wondered "if the front office is dickering for a ball player or a bat boy."

Stripp declined to reveal what the Cardinals offered for his services, but said it was about half of his salary last year.

STOCKHAM FIVE WINS FROM CLEVELAND TEAM

Playing their best game of the season, the Fred W. Stockham Post's girls' basketball team defeated the Fisher Foods of Cleveland, O., 32-25, at the Battery A yesterday afternoon. It was the St. Louis girls' second victory over the Ohioans this season and it ran the Stockhams' record to five triumphs in six games.

In a men's game, the St. Louis Business College club, first-half champions of the South Side Y. M. C. A. League, came from behind to trim Our Redeemer, 26-16.

Feller and Indians Agree.

By the Associated Press.

VAN METER, Ia., Jan. 24.—Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians' young strikeout king, said yesterday he had reached an agreement with the American League club on terms for his 1938 contract.

Feller refused to divulge the exact terms of his new contract, but said: "My contract has several provisions not included in most major league agreements. The home attendance and my ability to win games will be measured in my salary checks for this year."

Miss Rawls Sets 220 Record.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 24.—Kitty Rawls of Miami yesterday shattered the National A. A. U. 220-yard free style swimming record with the time of 2:32.5 three and one-half seconds under the former marked established in March, 1935, by Mary Lou Petty of Seattle, Wash.

SEALS INCREASE LEAD IN MATCH WITH HERMANNS

The Silver Seals increased their lead over the Hermanns to 390 pins when they won, 3015 to 2827, yesterday at the Gravois alleys in the second three-game block of their 12 game series. The Seals took the lead Saturday when they won, 2884 to 2682. The winner of the series will meet the present champions, the Budweisers, in a series for the city match-game championship.

Chris Sottrell led the Seals to victory, rolling games of 192, 268, and 233 for a 693 total. His 268 was high for the series. Sottrell rolled 596 Saturday.

The scores:

SILVER SEALS.

Still Tied for Lead.

The Silver Seals and the Budweisers remained tied for the lead in the Classic Traveling League when each took the odd game in matches last night at the Mid-Town Alleys. The Seals beat the Allhoffs, 3070-2891, and the Budweisers the Club Plantations, 2891-2833. In other matches, the Hermanns won two of three from the Witeks, and the Mystery Men two of three from the Say It With Flowers.

Star of the Hermanns' victory was Cliff de Wees, benched in the afternoon match-game series with the Seals because of a poor showing Saturday night. De Wees rolled games of 233, 236 and 224 for a 693 total and high for the evening. Mitzi Weinstein had 257 for high single game.

Seven more leagues entered the Greater St. Louis Bowling Association handicap tournament, starting Feb. 5 at the Gravois Alleys, Jerry C. Ameling, secretary of the association, announced yesterday. The entrants were: St. Louis Florists Club, Sunrise Boosters, Greater Insurance League, Kroger Employes' Benefit Association, Collinsville Handicap League, Vescovo Friday Night League, Fairmount Business Men's League, and the St. John Business Men's League.

The first round of the $34,000 Brunswick bowling tournament starts today, with 200,000 bowlers competing. Teams will compete in six classes over a six weeks' period. Over 6000 local bowlers will compete in the various classes. The only teams in the "A" class for St. Louis are the Budweisers, Silver Seals, and Hermanns, all of the Classic League. Other members of the Classic League will roll in the "B" class.

The Witeks defeated the Mystery Men in a special match at the Saratoga Alleys last night, winning two of the three games, 2993-2934. Buzz Wilson and Windy Glaub of the Witeks were high with 641 and 638, respectively.

MINNEAPOLIS BEATS TULSA OILERS, 5 TO 2

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 24.—Minneapolis defeated Tulsa, 5 to 2, in the American Hockey Association last night.

Gross, for Tulsa, started the scoring at 2:57 in the first period, but Minneapolis tied the count a minute later on a goal by Smith. Godin made the first of his two goals in the same frame. His second goal came in the next period. In the third stanza, Farrant and Blake tallied for the Millers, and Riley for the Oilers.

VILLANOVA IS READY TO PLAY VANDERBILT

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24. — Undefeated Villanova has answered Vanderbilt's wide appeal for a football game next Oct. 1.

"We've wired Vanderbilt we'd like to be considered for a game on that date," said Coach "Clipper" Smith, of Villanova. "It's up to Coach Ray Morrison to decide whether Vanderbilt wants to play us, either in the South or in Philadelphia," Smith added.

JACOBS SEEKS BRADDOCK AND FARR REMATCH

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Promoter Mike Jacobs today moved to bring Tommy Farr and Jimmy Braddock together in a return heavyweight match at Madison Square Garden, probably for April 1.

Both fighters were willing, but there was a slight hitch over percentages of the gate receipts. Braddock, offered 35 per cent, demanded 37½; Farr, offered 20 per cent of the gate, was holding out for 27½ per cent. At their fight last Friday night, won by Braddock in a startling upset, both received 27½ per cent of the net gate.

Promoter Jacobs said he hoped to have the fighters signed by Friday.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Farr, Far Away.

IF TOMMY FARR had an idea that the world's fight championship was just around the corner, he knows better today. For him, the heavyweight crown seems far, far away. Jimmy Braddock proved that, by outpointing the Briton.

Beaten by a washed-out second-rater who as a light-heavyweight several years ago was unable to reach the top, Farr now becomes just another British heavyweight. And that's exactly what he figured to be, after his fight with Max Baer.

But Tommy need not grieve. He'll not be lonesome, because if you put the entire heavyweight class under the microscope you'll not be able to find much that resembles class.

And that has been the case for 10 years—ever since Gene Tunney voluntarily retired, after defeating Tom Heeney.

• • •

The Palooka Period.

IN FACT, so far as heavyweight championship class is concerned, the last 10 years have seemed the worst—or near it. It was the ham, egg and cheese period of the great American heavyweight. And you can let that ride for all other nationals as well.

Here is the list of champions who followed Gene Tunney, since the former marine quit the game to enjoy his savings:

Max Schmeling, who won his title lying on the floor, the result of a foul by Sharkey.

Jack Sharkey, who outpointed Schmeling in a colorless fight.

Primo Carnera, a built-up mammoth, who won his title from Sharkey on a knockout, in a fight that caused many observers to pinch the nose with the thumb and forefinger.

Max Baer, a playboy product of Hollywood, who never knew how to box and whose only asset was a slow overhand right.

Jimmy Braddock, a game, hard-hitting fellow, but one who had failed as a light-heavyweight and who had almost completely abandoned a ring career, when he gained the crown.

Joe Louis, who came from the amateur ranks with a built-up knockout record over third and fourth raters and who himself was knocked out before winning the title by the supposedly washed-up Max Schmeling.

• • •

Soft Life Getting Louis?

THERE'S THE list of the great fighters produced in the past 10 years. What Jack Dempsey, Jack Johnson or Jim Jeffries would have done to this collection is left for your conjecture.

Schmeling comes nearest of all to filling the requirements of a good fighter, although Joe Louis seems to have been endowed by nature with better fighting equipment.

If Louis were by nature a fighting man one could look to him to develop into something beyond the mediocre. But riches and the soft life seem to have grabbed him. He would like to retire even now, but his managers won't let him.

You can't look for great champions to develop from fighters with that sort of a viewpoint.

• • •

John Henry vs. Joe.

JOHN HENRY LEWIS is something different. He may advance to the heavyweight division and while he hasn't the punching power and weight of Joe Louis, there are plenty of good judges of boxers who believe that John Henry can whip Louis today.

It would be an interesting event, should they meet but our guess is that Joe has too many heavy guns for his foe.

• • •

Going Back.

"WHAT, IN YOUR opinion, would have happened in the two fights between Tunney and Dempsey had either or both matches been scheduled for fifteen rounds?" inquires a correspondent.

That puts a Dempsey man right on the spot, especially as to the second or "long count" battle. However, as an original Dempsey supporter, we still feel compelled to say that it is doubtful if Jack would have been on his feet at the end of fifteen rounds in either case.

At Philadelphia Dempsey was badly beaten and very tired in the tenth. His eyes were almost closed and he was physically exhausted. However, he was in better shape than after the tenth round at Chicago.

In the Soldier Field fight Jack was at the point of collapse in the last two rounds. It was all he could do to stall off Tunney in the final round. His legs were quivering. In this writer's opinion Jack was fortunate in that both bouts were limited to ten rounds. There is no doubt that after the fourth round at Philadelphia and the seventh round at Chicago, Jack had shot his bolt.

BAUGH SHINES AS WASHINGTON DEFEATS BEARS

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 24.—If Sammy Baugh hasn't signed his contract with the Washington Redskins, pro football champions, he has an extra headache to slip into sdiary bickerings with Owner George Marshall.

Yesterday he triple-threated Washington to a smashing 13-0 triumph here over the team Owner Marshall really likes to conquer—the burly Chicago Bears.

Baugh's intimates said he had not yet signed a contract. Earlier in the week the Sweetwater (Tex.) pigskin pitcher said he would ask for a three-year agreement.

Baugh passed for one touchdown against the Bears, rolled up an amazing 48-yard kicking average, ran wild on several ground gains and dropped cold all by Chicago running threat that came his direction.

Only 4500 fans covered rain-soaked stadium seats to sit through a re-enactment of the recent titular game the two powerhouses staged in Chicago.

Baugh flipped a touchdown pass to Wayne Millner, former Notre Dame end, from the Chicago four-yard stripe midway of the third period and Riley Smith, the old Alabama hero, booted the extra point.

It was Baugh's running, sandwiched in between ground spurts by Cliff Battles, and his 18-yard heave to Charlie Malone, former Texas Aggie star, that placed the ball on the four-yard line. The drive started from the Chicago 42-yard line.

George Smith, 205-pound California product, charged out of his roving center position late in the fourth period, intercepted a flat zone pass hurled by Keith Molesworth, diminutive Chicago back, and ran 46 yards for a touchdown. Riley Smith missed the kick.

The lineups:

CHICAGO.	Pos.	WASHINGTON.
Pisaman	L. E.	Millner
Stydahar	L. T.	Edwards
Fortman	L. G.	Olson
Bausch	C.	Kawal
Musso	R. G.	Young

Karr	R. E.	Malone
Molesworth	Q. B.	R. Smith
Nolting	L. H.	Baugh
Manders	R. H.	Pickett
Francis	F. B.	Battles

Score by periods:

Washington	0	0	7	6—13

Washington scoring—Millner (pass from Baugh); G. Smith (intercepted pass). Points after touchdown—R. Smith (from placement).

Ferguson and Sentinel Win DeMolay Games

Ferguson defeated Webster Rabbonia, 37-30, in the feature game of yesterday's DeMolay League schedule at the Armory. It was the first game for the victors and gave them a tie for the lead in both the county and the Greater St. Louis divisions of the circuit.

Sentinel and Granite City continued their winning ways, defeating Maplewood and East St. Louis, respectively. "Red" Herman Wulfmeyer scored half of Sentinel's points to lead them to their 34 to 11 victory. L. Benner duplicated his 10 points of last Sunday to give him third place in the league scoring race, three points behind Wulfing, who is tied with Jim Latzmeyer, more of St. Louis-Harmony for the lead. Granite City won, 38-8.

Two first-round losers came back to win in their second-round contests as Carondelet took the measure of Clayton, 24-17, and St. Louis-Harmony won from Perfection, 23-14.

Five games in the third round will be played at the Armory next Sunday afternoon, starting at 1:30.

Y. M. H. A. HANDBALL DOUBLES MEET TONIGHT

The first round of matches in the Y. M. H. A. doubles four-wall handball tournament will be held tonight, with two class "A" matches and eight in class "B."

The schedule:

Class A.

Henry Marmor and Bill Weitz vs. Morris Kinberg and Lou Oxenhandler, 8 o'clock.

Chester Sakowski and Joe Diamond vs. Max Dreyfus vs. Harry Bass and Sol Kaplan, 9.

Class B.

Morris Kleiner and Sidney Holtzman vs. Jack Gubkin and Gilbert Jaffe, 7.

Sam Schrier and Max Gishan vs. Sam Slumpsky and Hyman Adelstein, 7.

Sam Solomon and Bob Perlmutter vs. Milton Rothman and Paul Lubin, 7.

Dr. Earl Hull and Dr. Roy Mallory vs. Morris Mosescu and Hyman Teifelbaum, 7.

Harry Buxner and M. Gluckman vs. Meyer Gershenson and Lou Sarason, 8.

Ed Biernbaum and Harry Mitause vs. Eli Solomon and Dave Krem, 8.

Hyman Novack and Sidney Novack vs. Frank Dubman and Harry Dubman, 8.

Sanford Safron and Carl Ash vs. Maurice Hyatt and Harry Rosen, 8.

Table Tennis Standings.

The American Steel and Missouri Pacific teams are tied for first place in the Industrial Table Tennis League with two victories each. Eight teams are competing in the second half of the season's schedule, now in the third week. Western Electric, Peters Shoe, Short Circuits and Federal Reserve each have won one game, while losing one. Universal Match and Crunden Martin have dropped both encounters.

RIGGS

NO. 2 RANKING STAR DEFEATS SABIN IN FINAL

Chicago Player Certain He Will Be Able to Gain Place in United States Squad.

By the Associated Press.

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 24. — Bobby Riggs, young Chicago tennis player who ranks second in the United States for 1937, figures he is virtually sure to be a member of the team which defends the Davis Cup for this country next summer.

Riggs captured the Dixie tennis championship yesterday with a straight set victory over Wayne Sabin of Los Angeles, conqueror of Bryan M. Grant of Atlanta in the semifinals, and immediately began planning for the cup tryouts. The score was 6-3, 6-0, 7-5.

"They can hardly leave me off this time," Bobby said. "I don't know whether or not I'll play, but I'm sure to be a member of the team."

Riggs thinks the singles will be played by Budge and either he or Grant. The Chicagoan didn't hesitate to say that he had a tough battle ahead of him with the Atlanta star for the other singles position.

Riggs said he and Wayne Sabin, alternate on last year's American Davis Cup team, who paired with Riggs in the Dixie tournament doubles, would be able to hold their own against Budge and Gene Mako, current doubles team last year. He hinted he thought Sabin had a chance to be Budge's partner.

The elimination of Grant in the semifinals prevented Riggs from seeking revenge over the Atlantan who beat him in the finals of the Biltmore tournament at Miami recently.

"But, I don't know whether or not I'll lick him the next time we meet," Riggs said. "Bitsy probably will be more determined than ever when we play again, and goodness he's tough enough already."

With the Browns had a job,
No doubt they'd move out of the cellar.

Dear Mr. Davis.—I read in your column about a new class "E" league. I wonder if you would please send me the names of the new teams. I am 18 years old and anxious to get into pro ball. Thank you.—R. E. J.

We do not believe there are any as yet. The class "E" is in the embryonic stage at present but is liable to burgeon into full flower at any moment. Keep your eye on the gun.

THOMSON HAS A 64 TO TAKE PASADENA LEAD

By the Associated Press.

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 24.—Jimmy Thomson banged his way into the lead of the $3000 Pasadena open yesterday and with Byron Nelson, sailed through the third round of the tournament with a score of 64, seven strokes under par over the Brookside course.

Thomson's spectacular work brought him into undisputed leadership with a 54-hole score of 206, and the equally fine round of slender young Nelson moved him into the front ranks for today's final 18 holes of play.

Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., erstwhile pace-setter, fell back to second place at 207 with a par 71, Nelson was third with 208, Horton Smith of Chicago, with a 69, was fourth at 209.

Paul Runyan, who started with 141, finished with 71 for 211, and Jimmy Hines, a leader with 68 and 69 in the first rounds, fell back with a 74 to land in the 211 bracket.

Thomson Has 35-29.

Thomson came in first, finishing the none too easy par 36-35 course with a card of 35-29. The Shawnee-on-the-Delaware pro, winner of the recent $7500 Los Angeles open, hit the pin with his second shot on the par four eighteenth, and his ball dropped two inches from the cup for an easy birdie.

While the gallery was still gasping Nelson, the former Texas, now of Reading, Pa., came in with the next threesome with a 34-30. Thomson put his 64 with previous rounds of 69-73 for his total. Nelson's effort left him with 73-71-64—208.

The course record was a matter of doubt, but Craig Wood of Rumson, N. J., shot a 66 several years ago to hold the unofficial mark. Henry Picard tied that Saturday.

Two local professionals, Bill Nary, with 66, and Bill Williamson of nearby Glendale, with 67, turned in sub par rounds. Nary's 54-hole score was 212, Williamson 214.

Snead in Exhibition.

Sammy Snead bowed to a forgiving gallery of golf fans during the day and proceeded to smack out a sub par 66 over the Brookside course in an exhibition round.

Obviously heartened by the crowd's response, Slammin' Sammy got down to work and turned in a 32 on the first nine, the lowest score seen on that route in the last three days. He came back in 34 to go under the par 36-35—71 layout by five shots.

Santa Barbara Poloists Win.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Jan. 24. —Santa Barbara poloists won their second consecutive victory here yesterday, riding over the Texas team, 14 to 4. George Oliver, Santa Barbara No. 3, scored seven goals, some on drives from as far as 80 yards out.

NORWAY WINS SKATING TITLE

By the Associated Press.

OSLO, Norway, Jan. 24.—Norway won its second title in the European speed skating championships yesterday, as Charles Mathisen won the 1500 meters in the ordinary time of 2:27.4. Hans Engnestangen won the 500 meters for Norway Saturday.

Three American skaters failed to threaten the winners, either in the 1500 or the 3000-meter event, which was won by Max Steipl of Austria in 4:53.6.

Leo Freisinger of Chicago led the American delegation in both events, placing sixth in the 3000 in 4:59 and eighth in the 1500 in 2:34. George Wallace finished fourteenth in the longer race in 5:03.1 and twenty-seventh in the shorter event in 2:43.8. Marvin Swanson of St. Paul was clocked in 5:13.7 for the 3000, placing thirty-second and 2:44.2 to take twenty-ninth place in the 1500.

Norway made a clean sweep in the allround point scoring. Mathisen won the individual European title with 199.278 points, trailed by his countrymen, Harry Haraldsen and Ivar Ballangrud, who finished second and third, respectively. The three Americans did about as well as they had expected, although they failed to press the leaders.

Monty Stratton a Holdout.

GREENVILLE, Tex., Jan. 24.—Monty Stratton, Chicago White Sox hurler, has joined the ranks of baseball holdouts. Stratton said yesterday he had refused terms offered for this year, and would ask $12,500 with a bonus.

SCHUMACHERS WIN DIVISION SOCCER TITLE

The Schumachers won the Carondelet Division championship of the Municipal Soccer League for the second consecutive year yesterday by trouncing the Parks Norge, 4-0, for their ninth straight triumph. About 500 spectators watched the Schumachers win from their rivals on a muddy field.

Frankie Pastor started the Schumachers to victory with a goal in the first half. In the second period, the Schumachers worked through the Park's defense for three more tallies. The Schumachers' task was made easy by the fact that the Parks team had only 10 players. Ollie Klund, Schuler, and Pawlak scored the second-half goals.

The highest score of the season was made by the Irish Village team which blanked the Two-Mile House, 14-0 at Fairgrounds. In the other Intermediate Division game, the Plaza A. C. kept a half-game behind the Villagers when M. Krumm scored the only goal of the contest in the Plaza's 1-0 defeat of the Charley De Witts.

Schulz, Dunkman, and Sanders scored three times each for Irish Village, Spica and Travis two each, and Calame, one.

St. John's Smoke Shop, winner of the Fairground title, won from the Polish Falcons, 2-1.

In the University City Municipal League, the German Sports Club continued its improved play and won its third consecutive game in the second half of the season, defeating the Schmidts, 3-2 at Heman Park. In the other game of the scheduled doubleheader, the Zeltmans won on a forfeit from the Wagners.

NEW COACHES NAMED AT MISSISSIPPI AND MISSISSIPPI STATE

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Jan. 24.—Harry Mehre, head coach at the University of Georgia for 10 years, was named head coach and athletic director at the University of Mississippi yesterday.

Mehre's contract is for three years and becomes effective Feb. 1. Terms were not revealed but are believed to call for a salary higher than the $5100 received by Ed Walker.

Mehre, a Notre Dame star of the twenties, was at Georgia as line coach and head coach for 14 years.

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Jan. 24.—Emerson (Spike) Nelson, line coach at Louisiana State University for six years, has been named head football coach at Mississippi State College. C. R. (Dudy) Noble, veteran member of the coaching staff here, was appointed athletic director.

Garrett Nash Wins in Table Tennis Final

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 24.—Garrett Nash, 18-year-old St. Louis school boy, won the men's singles crown in the Sixth Annual Missouri Valley Table Tennis Tournament here yesterday and shared the men's and mixed doubles crowns.

Nash, seeded No. 1, scored a three set victory over Edwin Woody, also of St. Louis, to take the singles title, left undefended this year by George Hendry of St. Louis, by 21-14, 21-13, 21-13.

Teaming with Don Hendry, brother of the former titleholder, Nash shared in the doubles crown as he and Hendry beat two other St. Louis players, Woody and Bobby Diller, 21-19, 23-21, 21-17.

Sally Green, 15-year-old Indianapolis star, defended her singles title successfully, defeating Dorothy Glasson, Lincoln, 21-9, 21-11, 21-12. She and Nash shared the mixed doubles crown, defeating Mrs. Vaud Van Dusen and Joe Camero of Omaha, 21-16, 21-17, 21-19.

Isadore Friedman of Omaha defeated Dick McMahon of Lincoln, Neb., in five sets to win the junior crown.

Ferguson and Sentinel Win DeMolay Games

Ferguson defeated Webster Rabbonia, 37-30, in the feature game of yesterday's DeMolay League schedule at the Armory. It was the first game for the victors and gave them a tie for the lead in both the county and the Greater St. Louis divisions of the circuit.

Sentinel and Granite City continued their winning ways, defeating Maplewood and East St. Louis, respectively. "Red" Herman Wulfmeyer scored half of Sentinel's points to lead them to their 34 to 11 victory. L. Benner duplicated his 10 points of last Sunday to give him third place in the league scoring race, three points behind Wulfmeyer, who is tied with Jim Latimore of St. Louis-Harmony for the lead. Granite City won, 38-8.

Two first-round losers came back to win in their second-round contests as Carondelet took the measure of Clayton, 24-17, and St. Louis-Harmony won from Perfection, 23-14.

Five games in the third round will be played at the Armory next Sunday afternoon, starting at 1:30.

Paul Dean Handicapped by Complex, Card Trainer Says

By the Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 24.—H. J. "Doc" Weaver, St. Louis Cardinals' trainer, said yesterday a complex kept Paul Dean from becoming one of the greatest pitchers in baseball.

"Potentially," said the man who has looked after the Gas House Gang for 11 years, "Paul is one of the finest specimens of pitching material it has been my pleasure to see in many years of sorting baseball ivory.

"In fact, when Paul is right he has more on the ball than Brother Dizzy."

Weaver, here to get the Cards' training camp ready, explained he thought the younger member of the "Me and Paul" combination is suffering from an inferiority complex.

Has Tried Too Hard.

"They've built Dizzy up to the sky," observed Weaver, "and Paul has tried too hard to reach the peak attained by his brother.

"His trouble isn't in his arm, it's in his head.

"He has everything a good pitcher needs. He has the build, the arm and the noodle. Also he has a brother."

Weaver made it clear he did not mean Dizzy was shunting his brother into the pitching background.

"Dizzy is a great pitcher. In my estimation he has more on the ball than any current pitcher in the business, and I've seen them all. But Paul, when he's right, is just as good."

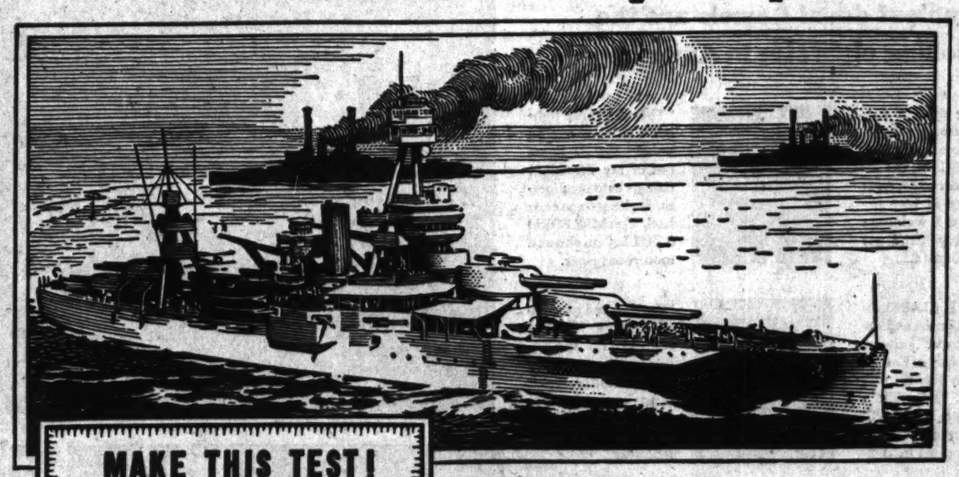

"Screwiest Ball Club."

Weaver said he had to "work with the screwiest ball club in either circuit."

"What are the prospects for the Cardinals this season?" he was asked.

"All I can say is this," he replied. "If Dizzy has a good year and Paul returns to form, the Cards are a standout in the National League."

MISSOURI HIGH SCHOOL BASKET TOURNEY STARTS MARCH 1

TWO DISTRICT MEETS GIVEN TO ST. LOUIS

District One Representative May Be Decided From St. Louis-Kansas City Games, March 4.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 24.—Carl Burris of Clayton, secretary of the Missouri State High School Athletic Association, yesterday announced that the 1938 basketball tournament would be held at the University of Missouri, March 10, 11 and 12.

The assignment of schools to the various districts was made during a two-day session of the board of control here.

The annual tournament will proceed along traditional lines, with district teams competing in tournaments during the week of March 4, and the district winners meeting here for the championship. All tournaments will be single elimination affairs.

Registration Larger.

Burris reported that registration of high schools for the tournaments was far larger than last year, and that it was necessary to assign 22 schools for competition in some districts. The large enrollment prevented the usual arrangement of 16 schools competing in each of the 16 district tournaments.

One change is in prospect for the St. Louis and Kansas City champions. The board last year required the champions of the cities to engage in a pre-tournament game with the winner to qualify for the State tournament. The Kansas City entry then withdrew, automatically qualifying St. Louis Beaumont for the State event.

Inasmuch as the winners and runners-up in the city leagues have a scheduled game in Kansas City, March 4, the board voted to invite the winning team in the game between the two city champions. Whether the invitation will be accepted is not known.

The board invited Ted O'Sullivan of Kansas City and Marvin Ward of Springfield to officiate at the State tournament.

The St. Louis-Kansas City championship game was scheduled as the No. 1 district of the State and St. Louis County was assigned two tournaments to be held at Washington University, thus making two more districts, making it possible for St. Louis city and county to be represented by three teams in the State tournament.

Sites to Be Selected.

The location of four district tournaments, including one in Southeast Missouri, two in Central Missouri and one in Southwest Missouri, has not been decided, but Burris said the sites would be selected this week. The other districts selected are Independence, St. Joseph, Maryville, Washington, Flat River, Jackson, Sikeston, Cabool and Springfield.

The two St. Louis candidates are: District 7—Christian Brothers, Clayton; Kirkwood, Maplewood-Richmond Heights, McBride, Normandy, Ritenour, St. Charles, St. Louis University High, South Side Catholic, University City and Webster Groves.

District 8—Affton, Bayless, Brentwood, Chaminade, Country Day, Eureka, Fairview, Ferguson, John Burroughs, Jennings, Principia, Riverview Gardens, St. Peters of St. Charles, Taylor, Valley Park and Wellston.

Walther League Teams Tied.

Bethlehem's 42-39 upset defeat of Ebenezer threw the North Side Walther League Basketball League lead into a three-way tie, with St. Paul the other squad sharing the lead with Bethlehem and Ebenezer. St. Paul won from St. Jacobi, 33-32. Zion beat Mount Calvary, 40-33, and Pilgrim won from Bethany, 34-32, in other games yesterday.

DENVER SAFEWAYS WIN MID-SEASON A. A. U. BASKET TITLE

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 24.—The Kansas City (Kan.) Healeys automatically pushed the Denver Safeways into the first half Missouri Valley A. A. U. basketball championship yesterday by whipping the Wichita Gridleys, 41 to 32.

With Guard Herman Fischer holding Wichita's star, Dick Smith, to a field goal, the Healeys stayed ahead all the way. Had Wichita won yesterday and Denver lost to Colorado Springs next Saturday the two teams would have tied.

The victory left the Healeys with a league record of five triumphs and five defeats.

"I AM ONE OF THE MILLIONS WHO PREFER CAMELS" SAYS RALPH GREENLEAF

WORLD'S CHAMPION IN POCKET BILLIARDS

"HEALTHY NERVES ARE A MUST WITH ME!"

FOURTEEN different times the news headlines have flashed: RALPH GREENLEAF WINS WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP. He is cool under fire. Sometimes pulling from behind with brilliant runs of 59 and 76 to win the title.

"Even before I won my first big championship, I'd picked Camel as my cigarette," said Ralph in a special interview during his recent championship play in Philadelphia. "I'd say the most important rule in this game is to have healthy nerves. It pays to be sure of the mildness of your cigarette. And on that score, I think, Camels have a lot to offer. One reason why I've stuck to Camels for twenty years is—they don't ruffle my nerves."

HE IS COUNTED THE GREATEST POCKET-BILLIARD PLAYER OF ALL TIME. Here Greenleaf executes a difficult massé shot, requiring split-hair accuracy, faultless stroking, and healthy nerves. And the world's two famous masters of the cue—Ralph Greenleaf and the 18.1 balkline billiard champion, Willie Hoppe—are both Camel smokers.

And America as a nation shows the same preference for finer tobaccos that Ralph Greenleaf does! Camels are the largest-selling cigarette in America

Fencing experts, too, appreciate Camel's finer tobaccos. As BELA DE TUSCAN, the famous instructor, says: "Fencing is very tiring, and I welcome the quick 'lift' I get with a Camel."

"The way these light boats bounce around knocks the daylights out of my digestion! Camels help my digestion to keep on an even keel," says MULFORD SCULL, outboard motorboat racer.

JAMES L. CLARK, famous scientist and explorer, says: "I always carry plenty of Camels with me into the wilderness. 'I'd walk a mile for a Camel!' Many's the time I've actually done it."

"I'm devoted to Camels," says HELEN HOWARD, springboard diver. "They don't irritate my throat—not even when I'm sitting around in a wet suit, a target for irritation."

DO PEOPLE APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS?

CAMELS ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

• Camel spends millions more for COSTLIER TOBACCOS. They are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

FIGHT PLANNED ON PRESIDENT'S NAVAL PROGRAM

Leaders of House and Senate Blocs to Ask Roosevelt for His Reason for Increasing Fleet.

NIGHT SESSIONS ORDERED IN SENATE

Purpose Is to End Filibuster on Anti-Lynching Bill — Contest on Home Construction Measure.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—House and Senate blocs of uncertain strength indicated today that they would oppose the naval expansion which President Roosevelt is expected to propose to Congress this week.

Members in the House said they would demand full explanation of the need for a larger navy.

On the Senate side a greatly enlarged navy is opposed by some members of the so-called neutrality bloc.

Despite signs of a bitter contest, Chairman Vinson of the House Naval Committee expressed confidence the program would be approved speedily. Vinson has prepared a bill to carry out Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations.

Other Congressmen have said they expect the President to recommend authorization for construction of all types of warships in excess of the present limitations, which were based on the 1930 London naval treaty. That treaty expired Dec. 31, 1936.

Naval officials have predicted the President would not ask now for an appropriation to begin work on the additional ships.

The naval appropriations bill recently approved by the House and now before a Senate committee would provide funds for work on 32 previously authorized vessels, including two dreadnaughts.

Housing Bill Held Up.

Democratic Leader Barkley sidetracked the conference report on the Administration Housing bill in the Senate today to give the anti-lynch bill debate right-of-way.

Anxious to dispose of the lynching measure, which has tied up the Senate for almost three weeks, Barkley said he would not call up the privileged housing bill report, but would hold the Senate to debate throughout the session today and throughout the session today and tonight.

The Senate was called into session an hour earlier than usual, with prospects for a continuous 11-hour session.

Republicans and some Democrats are expected to fight approval of the compromise bill to aid home construction unless the Senate reinstated an amendment by Senator Lodge (Rep.), Massachusetts, to require payment of prevailing wages on Government-insured buildings.

The housing legislation has been hanging over since the special session last fall. If the Senate approves it, the bill will go to the White House as the first administration proposal to be enacted this year.

Night Sessions Ordered.

Administration leaders, trying to break up the lynching bill filibuster, ordered night sessions, starting tonight. Opponents, however, declared they could keep talking indefinitely.

Farm bill conferees said they had agreed to rewrite the dairy-livestock amendment in the bill to permit a farmer to maintain his "normal or ordinary" production of dairy products.

The original amendment, sponsored by Representative Boileau (Prog.), Wisconsin, in the House and Minority Leader McNary (Rep.), Oregon, in the Senate, would have prohibited farm benefit payments or loans to farmers who used acres removed from major crops for producing dairy, or livestock, products for market.

"We took poultry and livestock clear out of the provision," Senator Pope (Dem.), Idaho, said. Instead, the compromise now authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to issue regulations concerning diverted acreage, if he finds they have been used to disadvantage of livestock and poultry producers.

Both Senate and House conferees said the change in the dairy-livestock provisions might cause floor fights in both chambers. The original provision was inserted over the protest of the Agriculture Department. Congressmen from dairy and livestock regions sponsored it.

The House Ways and Means Committee is nearly through with hearings on tax revision proposals.

John P. Frey, president of the Federation of Labor Metal Trades Department, suggested that both labor and Government examine a British wage and hour regulation system, in view of the stalemate on wage and hour legislation.

Recently returned from England, Frey said the British Government had succeeded in regulating wages and hours in sweated industries through the Trade Board system.

Plea for Balanced Budget.

Representative Woodrum (Dem.) Virginia, told the House today a "deliberate, honest effort toward trying to make income balance outgo" would be the greatest contribution Congress could make to business recovery.

"Every time you take another nickel from the treasury," he said, "you're putting another stumbling block in the paths of millions of unemployed who can't get jobs until business and industry are sure the Government will leave them alone."

Expanded government activities are the "danger point," Woodrum said. He asserted that Congress "can't cut expenditures on one hand as long as we go along on the other and create new agencies and new departments." Most Congressmen, he added, believe in balancing the budget "in theory but not in practice."

Representative Kenney (Dem.), New Jersey, advocate of a national lottery, drew laughter when he interrupted Woodrum to say "I know where we can get a billion dollars without taxation."

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Objects To New Laws on Business Now

Wants Assurance There Will Be No Additional Regulations at This Session of Congress.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—George H. Davis, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, called today for assurance that no additional laws regulating business would be passed at this session of Congress.

In a formal statement sent to the Senate Unemployment Committee, he said:

"The real cause of the present recession is due to lack of confidence in the future, caused accumulatively by the passage of laws culminating in the undistributed profits tax and the threat of the wages-and-hours bill."

There is no question in the minds of business men, he said, that the following steps would restore confidence:

1. Repeal of the undivided profits tax.
2. A sharp modification in the amount of capital gains tax.
3. Liberalization of the security exchange and commodity exchange rules "to provide more liquid markets."
4. "Assurance that, at this session at least, there will be no additional laws passed further regulating business, such as the wages-and-hours bill."

Reassurance Desired.

Davis said these measures "would result in a restoration of confidence which would revive business activities, and do more to solve the unemployment and relief situation than possible by further artificial means, regardless of what form they would take."

Precipitate action by Congress to develop new regulations would be "futile," he said.

"The country is sound, but in order to have prosperous conditions, whether for so-called big business or for little business, plans must be made months and even years in advance, not only for ordinary business, but particularly for new construction and expansion.

"Only a restoration of confidence, whether the fear is real or imaginary, will induce business men to take chances on enterprise, especially in view of the fact that if the enterprise is successful, there will probably be only in the neighborhood of 40 or 50 cents out of each dollar left, after various taxes, while if judgment is wrong, the loss will be 100 cents on the dollar."

Views on Farm Labor.

Stressing the importance of employment in agricultural districts, Davis said some Midwestern farmers had found it "impossible to get help required due to fear, real or imaginary, upon the part of W P A workers that if they left the rolls for a few weeks it would be impossible for them to get back either promptly or not at all."

He called attention to a statement by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace that 15,000 or 20,000 farm laborers were displaced by mechanical corn pickers last fall in Iowa.

Large numbers of men were displaced by combines during the wheat harvest in Kansas and other states, Davis said. The buying of these machines was "not entirely voluntary on the part of the farmers," he said, as it was impossible to hire all the hands needed.

"While I know that efforts have been made by W P A authorities to see that men are released for farm and other seasonal work when needed, the results have been far from satisfactory," the chamber official declared.

"It would seem that one of the major contributions to the unemployment relief situation would be the clarification of these regulations."

TEMBLOR IN HAWAII CRACKS HIGHWAYS

Water Mains at One Point Broken—Telephone Lines Are Down.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Jan. 24.—An earthquake which caused minor damage was felt throughout the Hawaiian Islands at 10:05 o'clock Saturday night. The shock here was felt for two minutes.

The earthquake cracked plaster, tumbled crockery from shelves and frightened residents, but no casualties were reported.

Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, volcanologist, said at Hilo, Hawaii, the earthquake's center was near Molokai or Lanai Islands, approximately 150 miles north of the active volcanoes on Hawaii Island.

He said the origin might have been in Molokai Channel, and expressed the view it was "probably very bly at its origin."

Water mains at Lahaini, Maui, were put out of commission, and cracks in the earth were reported elsewhere on the eight islands, which felt the shocks with varying degrees of intensity.

At Santa Clara, Cal., Dr. Albert J. Newlinn, director of Ricard Observatory, said his seismograph registered shocks of great intensity from the vicinity of the Hawaiian Islands for two hours, 20 minutes, beginning at 12:39 a. m. yesterday.

Belated reports from the island of Maui said there had been no communication with Hana, Eastern Maui. Telephone lines were down and highways were impassable because of wide cracks.

BOMBAY STOCK EXCHANGE STAYS CLOSED AFTER SLUMP

Newspaper Charges Speculation on Insufficient Margin Caused Swift Fall in Prices.

By the Associated Press.

BOMBAY, Jan. 24.—The Bombay Stock Exchange, closed abruptly Saturday because of a swift decline in prices, remained shut today and directors were understood to favor suspension until the end of February.

Times of India, a newspaper, demanded salutary action against brokers whom it accused of "doing a wholesale business with insufficient margin, thereby imperiling the whole structure of the stock exchange."

The newspaper recalled that a Government investigating committee recently reported that 80 to 90 per cent of the business of the exchange was speculative and that the situation called for early Government action.

TWO BULGARIAN CABINET MINISTERS RESIGN POSTS

Boris Believed to Have Ousted War and Interior Officials for Election Activity.

By the Associated Press.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 24.—War Minister Gen. Christo Loukoff and Interior Minister Ivan Krasnovsky resigned today. Political circles believed King Boris III had asked them to step out because they were too active in campaigns for the March general elections.

Education Minister N. P. Nicolaieff succeeded Krasnovsky and Gen. Theolossy Daskaloff took the War Minister's place.

When Boris early this month ordered the elections this was considered a step toward restoration of the Constitution, which has been suspended since a coup d'etat of May, 1934.

FIXING OF PANAY INDEMNITY AWAITS RECOVERY OF INJURED

Vessel Itself Worth About $500,000; Japan to Be Charged Only Actual Damages.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — State Department officials said today the outcome of wounds suffered by officers and men of the sunken gunboat Panay would be a factor in determining the size of the reparations bill to be presented to Japan.

Compilation of the total indemnity, which Japan has indicated willingness to pay, will await definite reports on those wounded in the Dec. 12 air bomb attack, it was said.

The Yangtze River patrol boat was carried on the Navy's books at $500,000. Three less costly Standard Oil tankers were sunk or beached at the same time.

The United States has collected in the past numerous indemnities of $10,000 each for the loss of lives of American citizens. Four met death in the Panay bombing. Other items to be included would be compensation for injuries and loss of personal effects. The indemnity bill will represent actual and not punitive damages.

M'KELLAR REPLIES TO BRIDGES ON T V A CONTRACTS

Tells Senate Agreements With 5 Firms Permits Sale of Power 'Banked Up' by Injunctions.

ANSWER TO CHARGE OF FAVORITISM

Republican Had Declared Deals With Monsanto and Other Concerns Were Made "in Dark."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Senator McKellar (Dem.), Tennessee, told the Senate today that the Tennessee Valley Authority's contracts to sell power to five private concerns permitted disposition of electricity "banked up" by injunction suits. The injunction suits were instituted by private utilities to stop sale of T V A power to municipalities.

McKellar, who has been active in the debate against the anti-lynching bill, began delivery of a prepared speech shortly after the Senate convened. It was in reply to a declaration in a speech last week by Senator Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, that T V A had signed contracts "in the dark of night" with "favored companies."

McKellar asserted that only temporary contracts were made with the Monsanto Chemical Co., the Aluminum Co. of America, the Electro-Metallurgical Co., which Bridges said is a subsidiary of the Union Carbide Co.; the Victor Chemical Works and the Arkansas Light & Power Co.

Five-Year Contract With Utility.

The Arkansas Light & Power contract will yield the T V A $3,000,000 annually during the five-year life of the contract, McKellar said, quoting a lengthy statement by David Lilienthal, T V A director, as saying the contract "was entered into in order to produce revenue from water that would otherwise be wasted."

McKellar added that Arkansas Light customers were given a rate reduction as soon as the T V A contract went into effect.

"The Senator (Bridges)," McKellar said in his discussion of the contracts, "evidently imagines that he is a Republican candidate for President on an old-time Hoover platform, which no one ever was able to understand and no one ever will be able to understand."

McKellar said the contract with the Aluminum Company of America "was highly beneficial to the T V A" because it made possible the disposition of a large amount of reserve power.

"The Senator says," he continued, "the Aluminum Company of America is saving by its contract with the T V A perhaps $400,000 a year plus an indefinite sum, which he does not state. Of course, this is a mere statement from the Senator and is not backed up by the facts at all and could not be.

"But suppose such were the facts, the T V A makes $3,000,000 out of the contract during its term, $3,000,000 that is simply taken out of the water, so to speak, because nobody is using that power and will not use that power during the term of the contract."

Questioned by Senators.

In answer to a question by Senator Minton (Dem.), Indiana, McKellar said that if "surplus" power was not sold to industries it "would go to waste."

Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, then asked why, with surplus power now available, it was "necessary to build so many more T V A dams."

McKellar replied that contracts to supply power to Memphis, Chattanooga, Knoxville and other cities, which had been blocked by injunctions, would call for the new power developed.

He then asserted that the T V A and other power policies of the administration had resulted in reducing power rates in this country $556,000,000 a year.

McKellar refused to permit Bridges to question him.

"The Senator (Bridges) refused to yield to me the other day," Mc-

KENNEDY SAYS BUSINESS WON'T SAY WHAT IT WANTS

Thinks President Would Like to Have Somebody Suggest Something to Him.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Jan. 24.—Joseph P. Kennedy, new Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, said last night that business was in a "much better position" than the Government to offer suggestions for overcoming the business slump.

"I don't know how the Government can be in possession of any more facts than business," he said in an interview. "I think the President would like to have somebody suggest something to him."

One trouble at present, Kennedy said, was the lack of a definite plan by business to make clear what it wants.

Recently he played golf at Palm Beach, Fla., with three "well-established Chicago business men," he said, and each offered a different theory for better economic conditions.

One of them, Kennedy said, suggested that business "crack down on labor," the second declared a balanced budget was the solution, while the third said it rested in placing purchasing power in the hands of the public.

Asked whether he believed a solution eventually would be attained, Kennedy said: "I am not at any stage of the game bearish on this country."

"Gossip" that President Roosevelt was tending toward "a dictatorship or Socialism," Kennedy declared, was "as far off as anything could be."

The new Ambassador, who will sail Feb. 9, said he expected to resign from the Maritime Commission in a week or 10 days.

ZIONIST TELLS RUMANIAN JEWS OF MIGRATION DIFFICULTIES

Palestine Quota Small and Emigrants Must Have Capital, Congress Is Informed.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, Jan. 24.—A pessimistic report on the possibility of mass migration of Rumanian Jews to Palestine to escape the anti-Semitic program of the new government was delivered yesterday to the Rumanian Zionist Congress by Julius Berger of Jerusalem. Nevertheless the congress planned to ask for a greater immigration quota in Palestine.

Berger said emigrating merchants must take capital to Palestine which is difficult under Rumanian foreign exchange laws. The London Zionist organization sent word that 200 more Rumanian Jews could be accepted in Palestine under the 1937 quota if each could take $500 in cash. Berger and other speakers expressed doubt that emigration of considerable numbers to Australia and Mexico would be feasible.

A new Government decree forbade publication of "official documents not intended for the public." This was generally believed to have been aimed at Nicolas Titulescu, former Premier and Foreign Minister who had said he intended to write about his long experience as Foreign Minister. Another order forbade religious instruction to Jewish children in public schools which Rabbis heretofore had visited once a week for lectures.

Medical students of Bucharest University notified university authorities they would strike if several Jewish assistant professors were not dismissed by Tuesday.

PRESIDENT QUEZON URGES PHILIPPINE TAX CHANGES

Wants Sharp Cut in Sales Levy and Increase in Payments on Income.

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Jan. 24.—President Manuel Quezon, in a message to the Philippine Assembly today, proposed sweeping changes in the tax laws to lift the burden from the masses and place it on those "able to pay."

The President, advocating a sharp reduction in the sales tax and an increase in the income tax, told the legislators "to avoid strangling business and jeopardizing the economic future of the Philippines."

"The root of world-wide discontent among the people, which gave birth of Communism in Russia and was at the bottom of every revolution for the last 40 years, has been the utter disregard by the governments of the social purpose of property," Quezon said.

"It is time to adopt the policy of avoiding the accumulation of enormous wealth in a few hands and force return of excessive income to the public through the means of Government services supported by these taxes."

NEW BUILDING IN NEW YORK FOR ASSOCIATED PRESS OFFICES

Construction to Begin Soon as Part of Recently Announced Rockefeller Center Program.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The general headquarters and New York office of the Associated Press are to be housed in a building to be erected in Rockefeller Center.

Construction will begin shortly. The building will be the first of the units in the program recently announced by Rockefeller Center. It is to be completed next autumn. The Associated Press will occupy four floors in the 15-story structure, which will bear its name.

The site is the north block of the center, between Fiftieth and Fifty-first streets, overlooking the plaza between the Music Hall and the International Building. Excavation has been completed since 1933 and a system of foundation girders, already in place, will permit erection of the steel structure to begn immediately. Architects are Reinhard & Hofmeister, Corbett & MacMurray, Wallace K. Harrison and J. Andre Fouilhoux.

U. S. AND CANADA TO CUT MORE TARIFFS

State Department Announcement of Hearings Expected This Week.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—A State Department announcement of a long list of Canadian products on which tariff reductions are under consideration probably will be published this week.

The trade agreements section of the State Department has compiled the list of products on the basis of the existing agreement and letters and reports submitted by producers since the original notice of contemplation of a new agreement was issued Nov. 18.

The notice of intention will disclose when public hearings on the agreement will be conducted.

The new agreement is intended to amplify one which went into effect Jan. 1, 1936. Trade officials say the present accord has provided an excellent example of an increase in commerce largely due to trade agreements.

Growth of Reciprocal Trade.

In 1936 United States exports to Canada were $384,151,000, an increase of $60,957,000 over 1935. In the first nine months of 1937 exports were valued at $381,786,000, or practically as much as in the whole of 1936.

Imports rose appreciably, too. In 1936 they were $375,832,000, compared to $286,444,000 in 1935. In the first nine months of 1937 they totaled $313,903,000.

Canada buys nearly three-fifths of its foreign purchases from the United States. This country is Canada's second-best customer, the United Kingdom being its best.

British Negotiations, Also.

Negotiations with Canada will be conducted separately from those soon to begin with the United Kingdom. A delegation to negotiate the British agreement is expected to leave England within two weeks for Washington.

The Foreign Policy Association commented today that the willingness of Great Britain to negotiate the pact marked a reversal of British commercial policy.

"The tendency toward bilateralization of trade by restrictive commercial treaties and clearing and payments agreements is reversed by acceptance of the broader American policy of mutual reductions and generalization of benefits," an association statement said.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

United States or Soviet Russia?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAPPEN to be of the army of unemployed in St. Louis. The other morning, I walked 15 blocks to the relief office at 2221 Locust street, as I understood applications were being taken there for W P A work. Upon arriving there, I was told to go to 2309 Locust street, which I did, arriving there about 10:15. The door was closed and a sign was placed on the door stating that no more applications would be received that day and to come back the next morning. Just about this time, a young policeman came to the door and informed us that we would have to come back by 4 o'clock the next morning, as the door would be open at that time, and 450 people would then be admitted and that would be all for the day.

This is about the most outrageous thing that I have ever heard—men and women standing in line practically all night in order to be up near the door, so they can make application for work. Are we living in Soviet Russia or are we still living under the Stars and Stripes? I suppose a great many were, like myself, compelled to walk many blocks, as they did not have carfare. For instance, last night was a nice night to stand in a long line of 400 or 500 people, waiting for the door to be opened, maybe, at 4 o'clock.

IDLE MAN.

He Cries for George Bungle.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHO do you think you are, anyway? With cannon to the right of me and cannon to the left of me, who are you to cut off my one ray of sunshine?

With Mussolinis, Hitlers, Stalins, even panty-waist King Carols, assuming the role of gods among men, who are you to snip the laughter from my face?

With taxes to the right of me, to the left of me, before and behind me, and with the 130,000,000 American people riding further and further into the valley of debt, who are you to dull the twinkling gleam in my eye?

Where, sir, oh, where, is that acme of buffoonery, George Bungle?

Like the baby in the ad, I cry for him!

Columbia, Mo. FRED JACKSON.

A Plea for Tolerance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

COMING out of the Lewis-Gallagher fight the other night, a small group of white people was jostled by a mob of Negroes jubilant over the victory of "their man." Later, the white group, somewhat fearful, discussed the situation. They concluded that it was "dreadful to have matched Lewis against a white man who didn't stand a chance, because it made the Negroes too cocky." The time-honored argument was voiced: "We'll have to hold them in leash or we'll have a terrible problem on our hands."

I wonder if we ever stop to think how often the Negro has been pitted against the white man when the Negro didn't stand a chance—until we have become cocky so often that we no longer recognize our own cockiness? We are uneasy at times, like the other night, when we sense animosity, not willing to admit it comes of our own doing. Granted we are two distinct races, with different characteristics, is that a reason for race hatred? Isn't the Negro cocky in his hour of triumph precisely because he has been "held in leash" and for once has burst the bonds?

Let's try giving the Negro an "even break" for a change. Race hatred is dissolved by tolerance and justice, not by "the leash"! MARY B. TAUSSIG.

Comparison.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

TYPICAL American consistency: Spend unlimited sums of money to prosecute any person mulcting the Federal Government of one thin dime, and honor legislators who openly defraud the same Federal Government of money for mileage expenses which they did not travel.

LEON LaFONTE.

Suburbanite on Transportation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NO service cars; 50 minutes by street car; 25 minutes by train—from Webster Groves to St. Louis.

Suburbanites would crowd every coach daily were trains run downtown to Eighth and Pine streets, where the tunnel begins. It is a great inconvenience, and also adds about 20 cents daily to one's transportation account, to get downtown and back from Union Station. Why can't the Missouri Pacific and the Frisco operate free busses to and from the station?

Garages send busses cruising down Locust and up Pine. I know, for I park my car in a garage on Eighteenth street, and when I am ready to go home, I step into the garage bus and my car check is my bus-fare to Eighteenth street. Surely it wouldn't cost much for the railroad companies to use rented busses at first to ascertain how the public reacted to the service. L. C. McC.

Query.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AFTER all the talk about smoke, how about the city setting the example itself in the treatment or handling of coal instead of continuing to let the black, soft-coal smoke pour forth in large volume from its schools and other public buildings? JOHN N. WILSON.

ANTI-SEMITISM: A WORLD PROBLEM.

The ugly monster of anti-Semitism should not be considered a problem for Jews alone; it is a matter that rightfully concerns all liberty-loving persons, of whatever creed or nation. As the Commonweal, Catholic weekly, observed last week:

> The grave problem presented by anti-Semitism should be of vital concern to all Christians because, when truth and justice are outraged, the life of our own faith is seriously endangered. Special discriminatory measures against Jews in any part of the world are directed against all of us, because they are aimed only at defamation and destruction.

The manifestations in Rumania, where anti-Semitism became an official policy after the recent change of government, are therefore of more than local importance. They follow the Nazi pattern closely, but at an accelerated speed. In office less than 30 days, the Goga Cabinet has already suppressed Jewish newspapers, barred Jews from many occupations, prohibited intermarriage, restricted citizenship rights, and made plans for wholesale expulsions.

The reasons for this course are typical of this hateful form of bigotry. Rumania is in dire economic straits; a scapegoat must be found. The Jewish minority, a helpless group with no national government to assert its rights, is at hand. Promises of creating employment by ousting Jews are the stock in trade of the anti-Semitic demagogue, and these have been broadcast in profusion by the Goga Ministry.

One episode proves the economic basis of such tactics. An edict (copied from the Hitler policies) was published forbidding employment by Jews of female Christian servants under 40 years of age. This was hastily withdrawn after a few days—because it threw thousands of young women out of work. When Rumania has time to organize its labor camps, this decree will certainly be reinstated.

In other parts of the world as well, the poison is spreading. Ecuador, a refuge for thousands of Jews driven out of Germany, Poland and elsewhere, has just ordered expulsion of all those not engaged in agriculture. And in Germany itself, the restrictions are becoming even more brutal—a fact indicative of increasing economic difficulties there. A few days ago, Jewish spokesmen addressed a desperate and pathetic appeal to the Nazi Government begging for their people a chance to make a livelihood.

When anti-Semitism seizes upon a nation's leaders, the contributions of Jews to that nation's progress are forgotten, the rights guaranteed to citizens are blandly waived. The fallacious "race philosophy" becomes an obsession and serves as a smoke screen for working economic, social and legal injustice upon a helpless minority. And, as in Germany, the destruction of one minority is followed by attacks upon others.

Our own country is not immune. Only determination by American citizens to uphold the rights of all groups can prevent such hideous forms of discrimination from gaining a foothold here if bad economic conditions pave the way for their introduction.

A SHOCKING HEALTH SITUATION.

A baby is born to a family with an income of $500 a year or less, and on the same day another is born to a family in the $3000 income group. The chance of death for the first infant is more than five times greater than that of the latter. The explanation? Lack of adequate medical care in the low-income group, insufficient diet, poor housing.

This is but one of the many shocking facts about this country's woeful health conditions, brought about by maldistribution of medical and general living facilities, now disclosed in an extensive survey sponsored by the United States Public Health Service. The whole trend of the figures is to show that frequency, length and severity of illness in the group below the $1500 income mark are far greater than in the group earning $3000 and more.

Yet, whenever a plan is proposed for making good medical care available to all the people, a powerful group of orthodox physicians makes vehement protest. They point to the elaborate system of free clinics operating in this country, to the extensive hospital facilities available without charge, to the great amount of charity work done by doctors. The Health Service figures thoroughly refute their contention. Despite the services available, the low-income groups continue to suffer excessive illness and premature death. The present system has failed lamentably.

The present report presents the intolerable situation in a challenging manner that cannot be evaded. From the economic standpoint alone, our country would be better off if the illness and mortality rates of the under-privileged were brought down to the level of the financially more fortunate. From the moral and humanitarian aspects, such a reform would make valid the "unalienable rights" of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"THE FEDERALIST" AFTER 150 YEARS.

The Post-Dispatch has noted several times the excellent work done by the National Home Library Foundation of Washington, D. C., in making good books available in well-printed editions at low prices. Aided by the Carnegie Corporation of New York, this public service organization has now brought out a complete edition of "The Federalist" as its contribution to the current observance of the 150th anniversary of the making of the United States Constitution. The 600-page volume contains not only the 85 masterly expositions by Hamilton, Jay and Madison of the provisions of the Constitution, but the texts of the Articles of Confederation and the Constitution which supplanted the failing Articles. There is also a valuable historical review of the situation (written by Prof. Edward M. Earle of Princeton) which led Hamilton and his associates to take the cause of the Constitution to the people through their memorable essays.

The value of such a contribution to the Constitution's sesquicentennial is obvious. For when we turn to the essay which was published in the New York Packet just 150 years ago this week, we find that Madison was discussing the relations between the Federal and state governments—a theme which is no less timely and urgent today. The place and nature of the judiciary in the American system, the functions and limitations of the executive—these and many other vital topics are discussed in the subsequent papers. That "The Federalist" was a factor in obtaining ratification of the bitterly fought Constitution in New York is unquestioned; in pamphlet form, the essays were part of the ratification campaigns elsewhere.

The citizen who would salute the Constitution at this time could not do so more fittingly than to read this great American book—an authority so persuasive that it has won itself a place in our courts of law, a textbook of political science so lucid and so well-reasoned that it stands beside Plato's "Republic."

CROP CURTAILMENT SHOWS A NEW FLAW.

More than once in the past, we have pointed out that the gradual sacrifice of our foreign cotton markets through the crop curtailment program would ultimately drive the South into serious competition with the Mid-West in the production of grain, cattle and dairy products. This prediction is now being verified. Its fulfillment is seen in the bitter fight being waged between Southern and Midwestern Congressmen over a provision in the pending agricultural bill forbidding Southern farmers to use acreage diverted from cotton to produce livestock, poultry or dairy products.

This clause forbids the use of diverted acreage for dairying or livestock purposes, either by grazing or the raising of forage crops. It has now been modified to permit the farmer to use the diverted acreage "for stock and poultry ordinarily produced on the farm." If this mollifies the Southerners at all, it will do so only in so far as it promises to permit chiseling on the actual intent of the law. It will in no wise satisfy Southern farmers who are determined to seek that diversification of agriculture which has been preached for a good many years now as the sole salvation of that region's rural economy.

It is pertinent here to quote from a statement issued by R. J. Goode, Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries of Alabama:

> It is my thought-out and firm opinion that passage of a farm bill carrying the provisions included in either the House or Senate bill, or a combination of the two, will mean economic death and disaster to Alabama and the cotton South.
>
> The enactment and enforcement of such a provision would consign Southern agriculture to a continually lower and lower income from the one cash crop of cotton, without the possibility of supplementing the income from any other source.

The late Agricultural Adjustment Act, of course, contained provisions forbidding the use of diverted acreage to grow other crops for marketing purposes, but they were not very well enforced. Nor can similar laws in the future be enforced without a degree of prying and snooping which would be exceedingly distasteful to the traditionally individualistic American farmer.

On the economic side, the problem simmers down to the fact that the law of supply and demand abhors a vacuum. If the Southern farmer cuts his cotton production, he merely brings into existence new cotton acres in India, Brazil, Egypt. When Wisconsin and Iowa livestock producers and dairy farmers cut their production, they invite the South to devote the acres lost to cotton to raising cattle and pasturing cows.

On the political side, the problem boils down to the fact that agriculture is not naturally adapted to monopoly practices and cannot be so adjusted without a degree of regimentation repugnant to the democratic system.

Both politically and economically, it is proof that crop curtailment is not a permanent panacea for farm ills.

MR. WAYMAN'S LEFT JAB.

Maybe we were mistaken to put on the gloves with City Counselor Wayman on the question of jury trials in the Police Court. Mr. Wayman has a very effective left jab, and every time it hits, it explodes citations and legal lore all over the place. So far, he has been sparring easily and, while his right has as yet shown no lethal quality, it is evident that he is in splendid shape for a long bout. With Coke and Blackstone in his corner, whispering precedents and mapping his strategy, he is a hard man to outpoint.

Even so, may we venture once more to lead deftly with the chin? Mr. Wayman agrees with the Supreme Court that to operate a motor vehicle recklessly, or to wield a baseball bat or mashie niblick in such way as to endanger property or individuals, is an indictable offense at common law, therefore entitling the operator or wielder to a jury trial. Yet traffic offenses in this city are wrong only because they are forbidden, regardless of the lives they jeopardize, therefore the offender is not entitled to jury trial. If there were no city traffic code at all and some moron cruised through the downtown streets at 85 per, would not he be subject to indictment at common law?

As we back defensively against the ropes, in deference to that left jab, we hazard the observation that it might be technically right to send a man to the workhouse for a year without giving him the right to trial by jury, but our distinguished antagonist has yet to reconcile it with any broad conception of the American type of justice.

PARKS TO HONOR PERSHING AND CROWDER.

A long-standing American tradition is to honor distinguished military men by means of imposing bronze or granite monuments. Missourians are showing sound common sense in departing from this custom to perpetuate the names of two famous sons. State parks, outdoor playgrounds for present and future generations, are being planned near the birthplaces of Gen. John J. Pershing and Major-General Enoch H. Crowder.

An appropriation of $20,000 for the Pershing park, three miles west of Laclede, Mo., was voted by the last Legislature, and 1770 acres of land have been acquired for the purpose. The area is heavily forested, and contains the swimming hole where the future commander of the A. E. F. spent many boyhood hours. In addition, it includes one of Missouri's oldest grist mills, with its ancient water wheel, built below an old-fashioned log dam. This is a historic landmark worth preserving for its own sake alone.

Plans for the Crowder park are being carried out by a group of Grundy County citizens. The site is near Trenton, where Gen. Crowder was born, in 1859. It is fitting that his native State at last should honor this soldier whose early career included a period as professor of military science at the University of Missouri and who later became Judge Advocate-General of the army and supervisor of the 1917 Draft Act.

Northwest Missouri will have two genuine assets when Pershing and Crowder parks come into being, and appropriate tribute will have been paid these two notable products of the State.

And Tommy Farr might, we suppose, be dubbed the ex-Prince of Wales.

THE SPIRIT OF WOTAN COMES TO RUMANIA.

Mr. Wayman on the Colts Case

City Counselor, who would abolish trial by jury in Police Court, says the Colts case, decided by U. S. Supreme Court, is inapplicable; while accepting decision as interesting sidelight on discussion, and gallantly offering to surrender if proved wrong, he insists that traffic offenders cannot invoke judgment of their peers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YIELDING to an irresistible impulse to poke a little fun at you for obtaining your law from the dictionary rather than from the law books, has, I am afraid, led me into a position where I am compelled to break a resolution of long standing: never to engage in a mud-slinging contest with the fellow who owns the mud pile. This, my dear Mr. Editor, is a mere figure of speech. God forbid that anyone should ever sling mud at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch!

Having got into this position, I propose to see it through, if you will do so, and if you can convince me that I am wrong, as a legal proposition, I will be big enough to admit it. I hope you will be actuated by the same spirit.

In the first place, permit me to point out that the very first sentence of your editorial of Thursday is a misstatement of your attitude in this matter. You are not "pursuing an earnest effort to see eye to eye" with me on legal questions. On the contrary, you are pursuing a misguided effort to make me see eye to eye with you, which would not be impossible if you were right, but it will require more than the Colts case to convince me that you are right.

I knew about the Colts case at the time I made the statement that sent you to the dictionary, and I agree with both the reasoning and the conclusion in the Colts case. The difficulty with your citation of it, however, is that you omitted from the quotation of the Colts case, in your editorial, the very part of the decision which draws the distinction for which I have contended.

* * *

In the Colts case, the Supreme Court of the United States held that the right of trial by jury depended upon whether the offense charged constituted a crime within the meaning of the constitutional provision guaranteeing the right of trial by jury in all crimes except in cases of impeachment.

The Supreme Court held that the word "crimes," as used in that constitutional provision, meant crimes at common law at the time the Constitution was adopted, and it held that for a person to operate a motor vehicle so recklessly as to "endanger property and individuals" was an indictable offense at common law. With this I agree, whether the instrumentality being used be an automobile, a horse and buggy, a walking stick, a baseball bat or an otherwise harmless golf club. The criminal nature of the offense arises by reason of the fact that the defendant is charged with endangering property and individuals.

The part of the Colts case omitted from your quotation is as follows:

"It will be seen that the respondent (Colts) is not charged merely with the comparatively slight offense of exceeding the 22-mile limit of speed, Subdivision A, or merely with driving recklessly, Subdivision B-1; but with the grave offense of having driven at the forbidden rate of speed and recklessly, 'so as to endanger property and individuals.'"

The above quoted portion is tantamount to a holding by the Supreme Court of the United States that had Colts been charged with driving at a rate of speed in excess of 22 miles per hour, an offense described in the opinion as one of those petty offenses, he would not have been entitled, as a matter of right, to trial by jury. In fact, if that had been the charge before the Supreme Court, it would have been compelled to hold that he was not entitled to a trial by jury, unless the court should reverse its prior decision in the case of Natal vs. Louisiana (139 U. S. 621) in which it held that a defendant charged with violation of a mere police regulation is not entitled to a trial by jury.

The Supreme Court of the United States distinguished between offenses malum in se (wrong in itself by its very nature) and offenses malum prohibitum (wrong because forbidden), and held that in the former instance, which constituted a crime or offense at common law, the right of trial by jury existed.

It is interesting, too, to note that the Supreme Court, in the Colts case, cited with approval the case of State vs. Rodgers (91 N. J. Law 212, 102 Atl. 433), wherein the Court of Errors and Appeals of the State of New Jersey held that the offense of driving while intoxicated is not a common-law offense, and therefore not a crime within the meaning of the constitutional guaranty of jury trial.

The whole catalogue of traffic offenses in the City of St. Louis is of a character malum prohibitum. They are wrong because they are forbidden, whether or not, in committing the offenses, the offender can be charged with "endangering property or individuals." In other words, the mere doing of the act, regardless of the intent of the offender, constitutes a violation, and this is true whether the offense be that of exceeding the 30-mile speed limit, driving while intoxicated, failure to keep to the right-hand curb, passing an electric signal, passing a stop sign, passing on the left-hand side of a street car, and so on ad infinitum.

In conclusion and in reply to the concluding paragraph of your editorial of Thursday, permit me to state that I do accept the decision in the Colts case for just what it is, "an interesting sidelight" on the discussion. I do not accept it, however, as apparently you are willing to do, as decisive of the question involved.

WHAT A MAN!

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

OUR old friend, ex-Congressman the Rev. William D. Upshaw, has never failed us. He knows what he wants and he knows how to get it. But even he has never reached such heights as those he attained the other day when, before the Florida Baptist Convention at Jacksonville, he announced a new campaign. This one will amend the Constitution of the United States by putting in it this article:

"Amendment XXIII: Drunkenness in the United States and all territories thereof is hereby prohibited.

"Section 2—Congress and the several states shall have concurrent power to enforce the provisions of this act."

It's as simple as that. Thirteen years of Volsteadism never achieved anything so stark, so sure, so perfect. We herewith pledge our full support to the Honorable Reverend and suggest further that he now proceed to exercise his awful powers by prohibiting all diseases, including chilblains, all wickedness, including adultery and anti-nomianism, and all taxes—especially all taxes. Halfway measures be hanged!

The Silver Scandal

From the Chicago Daily News.

SECRETARY MORGENTHAU told a House committee last week that he does not believe in subsidies of any kind. That is to his credit. In particular, he said, he does not believe in the silver subsidy. That is even more to his credit, for in this, he is obviously different fundamentally from Mr. Roosevelt, his chief.

For the President does believe in subsidizing. He believes, at least, in subsidizing the few big mining and smelting companies that seem always to be able to get a few Rocky Mountain Senators to "front" for them.

The silver scandal under the New Deal has been outrageous from the beginning. The President had his opportunity to end it quietly when the system lapsed at the end of last year. Instead, he renewed it. If there was any doubt before as to where he stands on subsidies, there can be none now.

With the world price at about 43 cents an ounce, the President agreed to pay domestic producers of silver 64.64 cents until further notice. We cannot imagine why the complicated decimal was introduced, unless to make what is personal and arbitrary appear somehow scientific. The President could as easily have set 63 cents, or 65.

However, 64.64 makes as much sense to us as 77.57, which is what the President was previously paying his mining and smelting company friends. And inasmuch as this does reduce their subsidy from 34.57 cents an ounce to 21.64, the tax-paying public, we presume, should be correspondingly grateful. The silver subsidy is not a Treasury policy. If there was any doubt of this, Secretary Morgenthau's testimony has removed it. It is, of course, a presidential—that is, a political—policy. Mr. Roosevelt wants the support of the Rocky Mountain Senators. He thinks that the way to get it is to pay subsidies to the smelting companies. In his mind, the end presumably justifies the means. For our part, we think that means and end are equally bad.

PROSPERITY KILLS A CAT.

From the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

ONCE a wild, free soul, Kit-Cat is dead. The richest feline in Louisiana, and perhaps in America, couldn't take it. Or was she the victim of civilization which impinged too pressingly upon her ego, too crushingly upon her individualism?

Kit-Cat, we are told, was leading a normal and accustomed life, not idealistic, perhaps, but certainly practical. She roamed the alleys, or what corresponds to them in a town where they forgot to build alleys; she met friends, neighbors, acquaintances and interesting strangers, and they had wonderful meowings over something or nothing, as is the case with most of the rest of us, cats or people.

Then she was bequeathed $10,000. Previously, she had thrived in plenitude, but now she was engulfed by prosperity. The old freedom, the normal contacts, the accustomed platitudes of life were whisked from beneath her whiskers. She was installed in a state that surpassed the magnificence of the longest-haired Persians, the shortest-tailed Manxes, the stupid but aristocratic Angoras. She had menials to attend her, nurses when she wasn't ill, special food as solemnly ordered in a last will and testament and approved by a solemn court.

Now she is gone. Decede. Non est.

DRIVE FOR $5,100,000 TO AID JEWS IN EUROPE

Campaign to Be Held in U. S. and Canada Is Discussed in St. Louis.

Jews of the United States and Canada will seek to raise $5,100,000 this year to aid their distressed coreligionists in European countries where anti-Semitism is forcing many toward economic extermination. The figure was set yesterday at a meeting of about 100 prominent Jews at Hotel Chase called by the Joint Distribution Committee.

The money will be used, as in the past, to train for other occupations those Jews whose businesses or professional careers have been taken from them in countries such as Germany, Poland and Rumania, speakers explained.

Funds also will be used in transferring Jews from countries where they are unwelcome to other states, but such refuges are becoming fewer all the time, it was pointed out. Loans are given without interest by the Joint Distribution Committee to help others to take care of themselves in their own countries.

Last year's campaign quota was $4,850,000, of which $3,350,000 was actually raised. That amount, contributed in 1403 American and Canadian cities, was $700,000 more than was raised in 1936. Last year St. Louis Jews gave $218,000 to the Welfare Fund, of which about $100,000 went for overseas relief. In the new drive, Aaron Waldheim of St. Louis has been named an honorary chairman.

Meanwhile in Washington yesterday the United Palestine Appeal conference set its goal at $4,500,000 for relief work exclusively in the Holy Land. This is separate from the campaign of the Joint Distribution Committee, making a total of $9,600,000 being sought.

"Life and Death Matter."

In resolutions adopted at the meeting here it is stated: "The fund-raising campaign is a life and death matter for millions of human beings. As active participants in the efforts of many communities of America, we are deeply concerned with the problems of our fellow Jews overseas. We pledge ourselves to do all that lies within our power to assure the collection of a national quota of $5,100,000 for the program of the Joint Distribution Committee.

"In the face of the ever-widening crisis that is engulfing one after another of the Jewish populations in Europe, that has spread from Poland, to Germany, to Rumania, we are acutely conscious that any sum that we might raise in America would be inadequate to meet the desperate needs of these populations.

"The quota we have set this year is based on the minimum program of indispensable aid in Europe and on a reasonable appraisal of what it is well within the power of the Jewish communities of the United States and Canada to contribute."

Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, who was elected an honorary chairman of the campaign, said in a brief address: "Our people have been heaved into a maelstrom of unhappiness and desolation overseas. Those tyrants abroad who deny the liberties of their people of today are encouraging a reign of terror against the ideals we have always regarded as fine, decent and progressive. We must have courage to go on helping our brethren. We have been carrying on the efforts of the Joint Distribution Committee for almost 25 years."

National Chairman Named.

Rabbi Jonah B. Wise of New York, whose father, Isaac M. Wise, was the founder of Reformed Judaism, was named national campaign chairman.

The Joint Distribution Committee, entilerly non-political in its work, has often been called the Jewish Red Cross, he explained. Regarding anti-Semitism, he said it flourished where political, social and economic standards were low, where poverty any tyranny prevailed.

Joseph C. Hyman of New York City, executive director, said: "Nothing we can say could make clear what it means to become homeless in the land of one's fathers, to be rejected, denied, reviled, spat upon, outcast, to have to leave one's home and loved ones, to begin again new work, unaccustomed toil in strange lands, in hostile surroundings, to stand in line and wait the cold hand of charity; to see one's children cut off from normal life, subject to the cruelty of teached and playmate, denied a decent, honest self-respecting future.

"No figures, no reports could set before your eyes, the hurt, the wound to soul, the scar upon the mind and spirit. You and I can well remember how the first news of the Jew-baiting in Germany made us feel a sense of shame, of horror, as if somehow something indecent, obscene and gross were suddenly disclosed to a shocked and puzzled world.

"Yet something beautiful has emerged, something enduring—the friendship, the goodwill, the splendid outpouring of many friends, of Christian neighbors here, in England, in France and in other lands.

"We are today, for all that life holds dear or worthwhile for millions of human beings, back in the middle ages, made worse by modern progress, technological advance and scietnific thoroughness applied to the advancement of hatred, to poison propaganda, to the dissemination of cruel and malignant forces."

Campaign Chairman

RABBI JONAH B. WISE.

Greetings to Visitors.

Aaron S. Rauh of Upper Ladue road, a member of the plan and scope committee of the Joint Distribution Committee, extended greetings to the visitors.

Dr. Bernard Kahn of Paris, European chairman of the committee, reported that a fourth of the German Jews and a third of the Polish Jews were in need of outside aid. In Poland the Joint Distribution Committee has spent $28,000,000 since the World War. In Rumania already 20,000 Jews have lost their jobs because of the rule that 90 per cent of all employes must be "ethnic Rumanians." Some of those who have been fired can trace their Rumanian ancestry back 2000 years, he said.

St. Louisans at the meeting, besides those heretofore mentioned, included: Irvin Bettman, Harry Edison, Prof. Gustave Klausner, Gilbert Harris, Rabbi A. E. Halpern, Rabbi Samuel Thurman, Rabbi Julian H. Miller, Dr. Major Seelig, Dean Isidor Loeb of Washington University, Arthur S. Freund, Morton J. May, Charles H. Stix, Ernest W. Stix, Edwin B. Meissner, Dr. David Reiss, Bernard Greensfelder, J. E. Lehman, Benjamin L. Shifrin, Julius Glaser, Howard F. Baer, Robert Friedman, Alvin D. Goldman, Milton Heliman, Dr. Max W. Myer and Morton Moss.

ICKES CAUTIONS JEWS ON PRESSURE GROUPS

Advises Them Not to Yield to Influences Hostile to Democracy.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Secretary of the Interior Ickes cautioned American Jews yesterday against being taken into camp by economic groups which he said were arrayed against democracy.

In an address before the National Conference of the United Palestine appeal, he said:

"Subtle pressures may be exerted upon you as upon other minority groups to array yourselves with those whose special economic interests appear at the time to be similar to your own.

"Subtle pressures may be exerted upon you as upon other minority groups to array yourselves not with, but against, those battling to preserve democracy. Never forget that the foes of democracy in other lands were financed by economic groups that professedly were only attempting to protect their property from political incompetence."

Danger to Democracy.

Ickes contended that danger to democracy lay in a growing concentration of economic power over other people's wealth, labor and lives. That concentration has created sharp antagonism between the mass of the people in whom political power resides, and a small class in which economic power is largely concentrated, he said.

"Much as we deplore this antagonism," he added, "it would be mad folly to deny its existence. A sharp cleavage between political power and economic power always has been disturbing to democracy."

He said political power did not surrender to economic power when there was sufficient diffusion of property among the people to preserve democracy.

"It is only when they despair that men yield their liberty and their democracy to a dictatorship of the right or the left in exchange for the illusion of living."

He said President Roosevelt wisely pointed out that "the well-being of those who have much, as well as those who have less, depends upon a contented society of good will where the good will rests on the solid foundation that all have enough."

Appeal for Funds.

After Ickes had spoken, the conference adopted a resolution on Jews of America to raise $4,500,000 in 1938 to finance a program to provide homes in Palestine for Jews excluded from Rumania, Poland and Germany.

Dr. Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland was elected national chairman of the United Palestine Appeal to succeed Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York. Dr. Wise will remain a co-chairman.

The conference asked assurance from Great Britain that "immigration restrictions" in Palestine would be temporary. The resolution expressed hope that nothing would "swerve the British Government from its solemn undertaking to cooperate with the Jewish people" in establishing the Jewish national home in Palestine "on a basis essential to meet the needs of great masses of Jews, whose hope of survival depends upon entrance into Palestine and security in the building of the national home."

MRS. LAURA JOHNSON OTT DIES

Post-Dispatch Employe for 25 Years Succumbs at Modesto, Cal.

Mrs. Laura Johnson Ott, who had worked for 25 years in a secretarial capacity in the Post-Dispatch business office, died Saturday evening in a hospital at Modesto, Cal., after several weeks' illness. She was about 60 years old. Her body will be brought to St. Louis by her sister, Miss Fannie Johnson, arriving Thursday. The time of the funeral will be announced later.

Before her marriage to Oscar Ott in 1921, Miss Johnson was secretary to the late William C. Steigers, who was business manager of the Post-Dispatch. After Mr. Ott died in 1922, his widow divided her time between St. Louis and California. She and her sister, her only near relative, lived until last June at a South Side apartment hotel. Mrs. Ott was a member of Tyler Place Presbyterian Church.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

TWO debutantes of this season, Miss Georgia Wright Simmons and Miss Frances Reyburn, will leave soon for vacations in Florida. Miss Simmons and her mother, Mrs. George Welch Simmons, 21 Westmoreland place, plan to leave Saturday for Hobe Sound, where they will visit about a month. Later they will visit Mrs. S. Hallock du Pont, another daughter of Mrs. Simmons, at Wilmington, Del.

Miss Reyburn will leave about the first of the month for Palm Beach to visit her grandmother, Mrs. Charles Fletcher Sparks, for the winter. This spring Miss Reyburn and her uncle, William Reyburn, will sail from Miami for a cruise to Nassau, Bermuda and Venezuela.

Miss Mildred Claire Manger, debutante daughter of Mrs. Ferdinand H. Manger, 5354 Waterman avenue, will be the guest of honor at a theater party tonight at "You Can't Take It With You," to be given by Mrs. J. Curtis Lyter of the Park Plaza. In the absence of Mrs. Lyter, who is in mourning, the party will be chaperoned by Miss Manger's sister, Miss Marjorie Manger. After the theater the guests will go to the Park Plaza for supper and dancing. The following will attend the party: Miss Julia Marie Dearmont, Miss Angela McFadden, Miss Dorothy Claire Koken, Miss Louise Steffens, Earl Thompson, Edward Sanders, Andrew Baur, Jarry Sheehan and Samuel J. Keiffer Jr.

Mrs. Lyter recently sold her home at 5063 Westminster place. Her daughter, Miss Martha Lyter, a student at the Ogontz School in Philadelphia, intends to return to St. Louis in March for the spring vacation. She will spend the week-end at Peckett's in New Hampshire, where winter sports attract many young people, and will attend the junior prom at Lafayette College in Pennsylvania Feb. 28.

Mrs. Robert A. Bagnell, 9 Clermont lane, her son, John S. Sullivan, and her sister, Mrs. Henry Prenatt Green, 22 Clermont lane, have left for Tucson, Ariz., where they will remain for several weeks. Mrs. Bagnell's daughters, Miss Anne and Miss Mary Julia Sullivan, expect to join them in February.

Miss Eunice Holderness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Holderness, 17 Wydown terrace, has left for Nashville, Tenn., to visit her grandmother, Mrs. Robert Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Davis Jr. gave a luncheon yesterday at their new home on Ballas and Clayton roads in honor of Mrs. Davis' debutante sister, Miss Maude Scudder Overall. The guest of honor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Overall.

Invitations have been received from Mrs. John David Ferguson, 6325 Washington boulevard, for a luncheon and bridge party Wednesday afternoon at her home.

Mrs. William Maffitt, 4315 Westminster place, and Mrs. Samuel Plant, St. Louis Country Club grounds, arrived home today at 1 o'clock following a brief visit in the East. Saturday noon they attended the wedding of Miss Victoire Conley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Conley, and Richard B. Griffin at St. John's Church in Frederick, Md.

Mrs. Maffitt will depart for "The Patch," Hot Springs, Va., early in March accompanied by her niece, Miss Ellen Bates.

Mr. and Mrs. William Muldoon of Louisville, Ky., departed for home this morning following a week-end visit with Miss Martha Nicolaus, daughter of Louis J. Nicolaus, 4499 Lindell boulevard.

Invitations for the cocktail party, which Miss Bonnie Langenberg had planned for last night were recalled because of mourning in the family. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Langenberg, St. Louis Country Club grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Horton Blackman, 320 North Skinker boulevard, departed Friday for New York where they will visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David S. Haven. The Havens are the parents of a son born Jan. 11. Mrs. Haven before her marriage was Miss Katharine Blackman.

Another daughter, Miss Ada Blackman, is spending the winter in New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Henger, 3459 Halliday avenue, entertained yesterday afternoon at cocktails from 5 to 7 o'clock at their home. About 125 guests were invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Berry, brother-in-law and sister of the hostess, and Miss Marjorie Henger, her daughter, assisted. Spring flowers were used in the decorations.

Miss Jean Tyler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom T. Tyler, 401 Clark avenue, Kirkwood, will leave Wednesday for Lexington, Va., to attend the mid-semester dances at Washington and Lee University. Miss Tyler will return home Sunday.

The Smith College Club of St. Louis will give a tea at 4 o'clock tomorrow at the home of Mrs. A. D. Utiger, 21 Southmoor, in honor of Miss Mary Ellen Chase, a member of the English department at the college, who is on a lecture tour.

The Hospitality Committee of the St. Louis Woman's Club has sent invitations for a dinner and entertainment Tuesday night, Feb. 1, at the clubhouse, 4600 Lindell boulevard. After the dinner at 7:30 o'clock, Mrs. Dulany Mahan of Hannibal, Mo., will entertain with her thermin, an unusual musical instrument resembling a radio, which has the sound and volume controlled by hand. Later an orchestra will play for dancing.

The personnel of the Hospitality Committee includes Mrs. Henry S. Butler, Mrs. William H. Moulton, Mrs. James T. Pettus, Mrs. Thomas R. Collins, Mrs. George S. Mepham, Mrs. William H. Danforth, Mrs. Nelson B. Gatch, Mrs. Carl F. G. Meyer, Mrs. Eugene D. Nims, Mrs. John W. Harrison, Mrs. H. Edgar Jenkins, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. J. W. Lee, Mrs. John W. MacIvor, Mrs. Edgar Baird McDonald, Mrs. Clarence Poindexter, Mrs. Warren R. Rainey, Mrs. John C. Roberts, Mrs. Monroe H. Rodemyer, Mrs. Charles White Scudder, Mrs. John C. Roberts, Mrs. William K. Stanard, Mrs. Henry C. Whiteside and Mrs. Marvin E. Holderness.

The wedding of Miss Pernis Ann Remmers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver T. Remmers, 226 Woodbourne drive, and Newell LaDue Corson took place this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Remmers' home. Only the families witnessed the ceremony which was read by the Rev. William D. Johnson, pastor of Carondelet Presbyterian Church. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. E. T. Corson of Greenville, Ill., and the late Rev. E. T. Corson.

The engagement of Miss Mary Virginia Prendergast, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Prendergast, 7264 Stanford avenue, and Oliver Wendell Jokerst was announced yesterday. Mr. Jokerst is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Jokerst, 7226 Glades avenue, Richmond Heights.

News of the engagement was told at a cocktail party given from 4 to 7 o'clock, to which 150 guests were invited. On a table in the dining room there was an arch of white pompons, snapdragon and steevia, under which stood a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Miss Martha Prendergast, sister of the prospective bride, and Miss Leona Jokerst, sister of the bridegroom-elect, served, assisted by Miss Rosalie Ebeling and Mrs. Robert T. Wengler.

Miss Prendergast is the granddaughter of Mrs. Laura G. Dugan and Mrs. Dora Prendergast of St. Louis.

The wedding has been set for May 7.

Alfred Edwards, member of Parliament, who will address the Rotary International conference on world affairs Tuesday evening, is the guest of Frederic Morgan, director of Principia College, and Mrs. Morgan, at Elsah, Ill., for his stay in St. Louis.

Last night Mr. Edwards was the guest of honor at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Morgan at the college. The dinner was attended by faculty members of the school. This morning at 8:30 o'clock he spoke in the college chapel.

Mr. Morgan and Mr. Edwards met in England last summer when traveling with a group of students of the School of Nations Foundation of Principia College.

The administrative board of the St. Louis School of Medicine gave a reception yesterday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock in honor of the Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, S. J., who has been dean of the medical school for 10 years. The degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on the guest of honor recently by Tulane University. Friends gathered at the medical school building, 1402 South Grand boulevard, and were received by members of the board, whose wives served at the buffet table. They are: Mrs. Charles H. Neilson, Mrs. John Auer, Mrs. Edward A. Doisy, Mrs. Ralph A. Kinsella, Mrs. William H. Luedde, Mrs. Thomas E. Purcell and Mrs. William E. Sauer.

RECENT VISITOR IN CITY KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

Mrs. Eric Dunston of London in Car That Rolled Down Mountain in Mexico.

Mrs. Eric Dunston of London, England, who was a visitor in St. Louis early this month with her husband, died Friday in a hospital at Mexico, D. F., of injuries suffered Jan. 15 when a driverless automobile in which she was sitting plunged down a mountain slope.

The Dunstons were married last October and came to the United States on their wedding trip. She was the former Flora Stifel of Wheeling, W. Va., and was a cousin of Arnold Stifel, broker. Mr. and Mrs. Dunston were entertained at the Stifel home, in Ladue Village, during their St. Louis visit. They departed for Mexico by rail Jan. 9.

A report of the accident received today by Stifel was that Dunston and a chauffeur had stepped out of their automobile on a mountain road, 40 miles from Mexico, D. F., to pick flowers. Mrs. Dunston and a maid were in the machine, which rolled off the road and started down the mountain side. The maid leaped out, suffering injuries from which she is expected to recover. Mrs. Dunston, in the rear seat, was unable to get out of the car, which crashed some distance below the road.

Mrs. Dunston, a widow when she married Dunston, was about 50 years old. Burial will be at Wheeling.

MRS. H. W. ROEHLING FUNERAL

Services Wednesday for Woman Who Died in Doctor's Office.

Funeral services for Mrs. Henry W. Roehling, who died suddenly Saturday in a doctor's office at 4046 North Grand boulevard, will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. at Sullivan Mortuary, St. Louis and Euclid avenues, with burial in Lakewood Cemetery.

Mrs. Roehling, 62 years old, had been suffering from heart disease, her husband told police. She resided at 4032A North Grand boulevard. Surviving, besides her husband, are two daughters, Mrs. Florence M. Mosar and Mrs. Catherine A. Farrell.

Warren H. Kenney Funeral.

Funeral services were held today for Warren H. Kenney, insurance salesman, who died Saturday of a heart attack at his home, 5502 Delmar boulevard. He was 54 years old. Surviving are his wife and a brother, Christian Kenney. The body was cremated.

WHEAT MARKET CLOSES HIGHER AFTER SETBACK

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Almost 3,000,000 bu decrease of the United States wheat visible supply total helped lift the Chicago wheat market 1¼ cents maximum today.

Absence of any aggressive pressure to sell wheat was a feature of Chicago trading. There was some selling of wheat here however against purchases at Kansas City.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ½@⅞c above Saturday's finish, May 95⅞@96c, July 90⅞@91c; corn unchanged to ¼c higher, May 60¾@⅞c, July 61½c, and oats unchanged.

Report of dust storms from parts of the Southwest and forecast of a cold wave tonight in parts of domestic wheat territory stimulated the buying.

Export sales of North American wheat were estimated at only 250,000 bushels over the week-end and most of this was Canadian grain.

A few loads of corn also were reported sold, but corn prices were only slightly higher.

Fears that crop damage would result from low temperatures tended to lift wheat values here. In addition, there was report of dust storm reaching from Western Nebraska through western sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle. Rains were noted in Eastern Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and most of Missouri.

Advances of Chicago wheat values took the market for all deliveries to above Saturday's finish, despite apparent lack of any important export business in North American wheat over the week-end. The Liverpool wheat market, due ⅜@⅞ of a cent higher, reacted temporarily from gains, but closed ⅜@¾ of acent up. July wheat, a new crop delivery, led the market upturns here, and from a low of 89¾c rose at one stage to 90⅞c.

Indications of a little corn export business lent firmness to the corn market. Oats and rye trade was of almost negligible volume.

Provisions rose with hog values.

Wheat futures purchases Saturday totaled 10,626,000 bushels, corn 1,401,000. Open interest in wheat was 92,224,000 bu, and in corn 51,927,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Jan. 24.—May wheat was bid 96¾c at the close. May corn was bid 60⅝c.

Liverpool wheat opened ⅛d higher and later cable was ⅛d up to ⅛d down. The close was ⅜@⅝d higher.

Winnipeg wheat opened unchanged to ⅜c lower and early was ¾@1⅜c up. The close was 1@1⅞c higher.

Argentine wheat opened ¼@⅜c higher and at noon was unchanged to ¼c up. Corn began ⅛@⅝c lower and at noon was ¼c off to ⅜c higher.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market today wheat was steady to ½c higher; corn was unchanged to ¼c higher. Oats were unchanged to ½c lower.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

WHEAT—No. 3 red winter wheat, 98c; No. 4 red winter wheat, 94½@97c; No. 5 red winter wheat, 86½@92½c; No. 3 red garlicky wheat, 94½@97c.

CORN—No. 2 yellow corn, 61@½c; No. 3 yellow corn, 59@60¾c; No. 4 yellow corn, 56½c; No. 3 white corn, 60c; No. 2 mixed corn, 61¼c; No. 3 mixed corn, 59c; No. 4 mixed corn, 56½c.

OATS—No. 2 white oats, 34¼c; No. 3 white oats, 33½@¾c; No. 4 white oats, 33c; No. 1 mixed oats, 34c; red oats, 34c.

Local wheat receipts which were 64,580 bu, compared with 48,000 a week ago and 42,000 a year ago included 36 cars local and seven through. Corn receipts which were 187,500 bu, compared with 832,500 a week ago and 153,000 a year ago included 98 cars local and 27 through. Oats receipts which were 54,000 bu, compared with 72,000 a week ago and 40,000 a year ago included 26 cars local and 1 through. Hay receipts were 2 cars through.

Visible Grain Changes.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Visible supply of American grain compared with the previous week as follows (in bushels): Wheat decreased 2,966,000; corn increased 2,097,000; oats increased 127,000; rye increased 185,000; barley increased 540,000.

STOCK LIST STEADY WITH LEADERS IN SLOW RALLY

Session Is One of Slowest in Months, Ticker Tape Remaining Motionless for Minute or So at a Time —Upturn Near Close.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The stock market enjoyed a mild rally at the tail end of today's proceedings after a desultory performance in the early hours.

It was one of the slowest sessions in months, the ticker tape frequently remaining motionless for a minute or so at a time. Transfers were around 550,000 shares.

In the sluggish come-back running to a point or more losses were reduced or transformed into advances of as much.

Utilities were ahead from the start, along with one or two gold mines and specialties.

Steels were subsequently given a modest lift when current mill operations were set at 32.7 per cent of capacity, up 2.9 points from last week. It was the fourth consecutive increase since the long slide began last fall. Most stocks in this group were unable to follow through and some yielded their gains in the final lap.

Improvement in Steel.

Improvement in steel mill activities had been anticipated in the financial sector, but the upturn was larger than forecast.

Coppers received belated support as the export price of the metal was cut under the 10-cent mark and thoughts of expanding consumption coincident with a possible further shading of the domestic rate were revived.

Those who had been looking for the presidential naval rearmament message to bolster speculative sentiment seemed disappointed at word from Washington the recommendations had again been delayed.

White House conferences with business were still cheering to speculative forces but brokers found their customers inclined to wait for some concrete anti-recession program to be adopted before expanding buying commitments to any great extent. The fact selling recently has not been of the so-called "important" type was interpreted as encouraging.

Bonds are Uneven.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Wheat at Chicago was up ½ to ⅝ of a cent a bushel and corn was unchanged to up ¼c. The French franc did better in terms of the dollar.

Shares on top at one time—some slipped at the finish — included Western Union, American Telephone, North American, Electric Power & Light, American Water Works, Kennecott, American Smelting, Macy, Chrysler, American Can, Purity Bakeries, Douglas Aircraft, J. I. Case, Homestake, U. S. Rubber and American Shipbuilding.

Backward were Howe Sound, General Refractories, Allied Chemical, St. Joseph Lead, Celanese, Montgomery Ward and Union Carbide.

Edging forward at the finish were Allis-Chalmers, Philip Morris, Canada Dry, Seaboard Oil and Loose-Wiles.

At mid-afternoon the French currency was up .00¾ of a cent at 3.32¾ cents. Sterling was down 1-16 of a cent at $4.99 13-16.

Cotton was up 25 to 40 cents a bale.

Cut in Copper Price.

Coppers held to a narrow area as the export price of the metal was cut to just under the 10-cent mark.

Holders of motors studied estimates of R. L. Polk & Co. placing December new passenger car sales at 185,000 units compared with 190,185 in November and 327,053 in December the year before.

Over Week-end Developments.

The weekly survey of the magazine "Steel" said slight improvement in demand for steel continued to manifest itself, but that orders thus far were not sufficient to cause any unusual stir among steelmakers.

The opinion was expressed that heavy buying by railroads was likely if the Interstate Commerce Commission approves the petition for increased freight rates. Shipbuilding prospects were viewed as much brighter with some oil companies asking bids for new tankers and the Maritime Commission expected to award contracts for 12 cargo vessels next month.

Day's 15 Most Active Stocks.

Odd-Lot Stock Trade Jan. 22.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — The Securities Commission reported today these transactions by customers with odd lot dealers or specialists on the New York Stock Exchange for Jan. 22: 3696 purchases involving 87,698 shares; 2518 sales involving 69,666 shares.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Gilt-edged securities remained firm today, but trading was quiet in the absence of stimulating news. Copper shares reacted following today's decline in base metal prices and the oil and mining groups were mixed. Industrial issues sold slightly lower, while rubbers and foreign bonds remained firm. Trans-Atlantic securities were a fraction to two points down.

PARIS, Jan. 24.—Although international stocks were in better demand, a few good-sized losses were recorded. Suez Canal declined more than 400 francs and Royal Dutch about 80. Rentes finished 20 to 35 centimes lower and Bank of France issue lost 115 francs. The industrial group was bout steady.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 24.—Wheat futures closed with gains of ⅜d to ⅝d, following the steady market at Winnipeg and American buying.

Cotton futures eased with lower overseas prices and a scarcity of offerings. Bombay and foreign buying absorbed some light hedging.

17,645,756 BALES OF COTTON GINNED TO JAN. 16

To Corresponding Date Last Year 11,956,381 Bales Were Ginned.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The Census Bureau reported today that cotton of 1937 growth ginned prior to Jan. 16 totaled 17,645,756 running bales, counting 316,158 round bales as half bales, and including 9592 bales of American-Egyptian.

To Jan. 16 a year ago ginnings totaled 11,956,381 bales, including 280,642 round bales and 14,686 bales of American-Egyptian, and to that date two years ago ginnings were 10,248,191, including 280,917 round bales and 16,284 American-Egyptian.

Ginnings to Jan. 16 this year and last year, by states, follow:

Alabama 1,560,588 this year, and 1,132,894 last year; Arizona, 266,049 and 172,015; Arkansas, 1,730,203 and 1,260,708; California, 655,700 and 402,551; Florida, 35,124 and 27,631; Georgia, 1,465,723 and 1,073,999; Louisiana, 1,039,213 and 741,588; Mississippi, 2,419,414 and 1,854,134; Missouri, 359,775 and 299,082; New Mexico, 146,217 and 104,039; North Carolina, 768,233 and 562,009; Oklahoma, 735,797 and 288,011; South Carolina, 958,736 and 767,190; Tennessee, 599,604 and 420,848; Texas, 4,822,709 and 2,808,365; Virginia, 38,326 and 28,986; all other states, 17,125 and 12,831.

EXPORTS OF AMERICA COTTON RUNNING AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

More Favorable Competitive Price of U. S. Product Is a Factor.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Despite a troubled international situation and a substantial business recession at home, exports of American cotton have been running considerably ahead of last year.

Shipments of domestic fiber to date in the current crop season (which began Aug. 1, 1937) have been slightly more than 3,800,000 bales, according to the New York Cotton Exchange, a gain of 12 per cent over the comparable total a year ago.

Underlying the rising tide of cotton exports, trade analysts say, is the favorable competitive price of the American staple compared with other important growths such as Brazilian, Indian and Egyptian.

Liverpool prices for the world's three principal export growths on Jan. 20 found American 32 per cent under the comparable price in 1937, whereas Sao Paulo (Brazil) was down 29 per cent and Indian off 27 per cent.

This means the domestic fiber, which has for years been at a disadvantage in world markets because of its relatively high price, is once again sought after by the world's leading textile manufacturers now that quotation disparities have been ironed out.

Some cotton men indicate that the price of the Brazilian staple may be too low compared with the American. They point out the Liverpool bid for each was approximately 9.82 cents a pound, whereas the Brazil product averages slightly longer than our own.

Domestic cotton averages in the neighborhood of 15-16ths of an inch, somewhat longer than the 13-16ths claimed for Indian staple, although slightly under the inch-long Brazilian.

The improved competitive position of American cotton that has resulted from closing the price gap between the various fibers, may, in the opinion of some experts, mark the turning point in the declining proportion of American to total world shipments.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 5 TO 8 POINTS HIGHER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Cotton advanced today in quiet trading. Scattered covering and trade buying absorbed limited offerings. Despite further easiness at Bombay, foreign selling was light.

May sold up from 8.51c to 8.53c and was holding within a point of the best in midafternoon, when the list was 5 to 6 points net higher.

Cotton futures opened 1 higher to 1 lower. Steady Liverpool cables were offset by lower Bombay prices.

March opened 8.44; May, 8.52; July, 8.55; October, 8.66; December, 8.70.

Trading was quiet. Traders had been apprehensive that further Bombay selling would materialize, but when this proved to be small, and Southern offerings were limited, prices moved up a few points on trade fixing and scattered buying.

Shortly after the first half hour, May, which had recovered from 8.51 to 8.56, was selling at 8.53.

Ginnings of 17,645,756 bales prior to Jan. 16 represented a seasonal percentage of the crop and were taken calmly by the market.

The market became quiet later in the morning, but the undertone was steady. Scattered liquidation was absorbed by trade and New Orleans sources. There was a little foreign selling.

By midday May was 8.54c and the list was two to four points net higher.

Futures closed 5 to 8, higher.

MIXED PRICE TRENDS TO THE BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The bond market displayed mixed tendencies today with some rail loans, recently under pressure, showing better resistance, while others continued to yield ground. U. S. Governments likewise were irregular.

Cleveland Union Terminal 5s and 5½s had lost 2½ to 3 points as the market entered the final hour and less severe declines were shown by Alleghany 5s of 49, Great Northern 4½s, Chicago & Alton and Nickel Plate 4½s.

Working slightly higher were Pennsylvania General 4½s, Southern Railway 4s, Walworth 4s, American Water Works 6s and Goodyear 5s.

U. S. Governments ranged from 10-32ds of a point higher for Treasury 2¾s of 1959 to a loss of 7-32ds for the 4¼s of 1952.

Foreign dollar bonds held within minor fractions either way of Saturday's close.

The market showed little change in the final hour. New Orleans Terminal 4s were 5½ lower at 52, Studebaker 6s were 2¼ off at 69 and New York Central 5s were 1½ lower at 63. Improved minor fractions to around a point were Northern Pacific 4s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s and Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s.

Oil Company to Spend $11,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—President J. Howard Pew of the Sun Oil Co. announced today the firm would spend $11,000,000 for plant expansion and development during the year.

Pew said the expenditures would be concentrated on expansion and improvement of the company's two major refineries—at Marcus Hook, Pa., and Toledo, O. Work will start within a few weeks, he added.

The program, the executive said, is designed not only to increase capacity of present plants, but also to prepare them for the installation of new refining processes.

Pew said the expenditures were the largest the company have ever authorized in a single year.

FRISCO R. R. MADE NO SURVEY BEFORE ROCK ISLAND DEAL

E. N. Brown Admits Agreement to Purchase 255,000 Shares Was Entered Into Without Study.

HE GIVES DETAILS OF BOARD MEETING

Witness Clear on Procedure—Trustees' Lawyer Points Out Faulty Memory on Other Occasions.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Edward N. Brown, former chairman of the board of the St. Louis-San Francisco (Frisco) Railroad, described in detail today what transpired at a Frisco board meeting on Jan. 19-20, 1926, at the trial of the rescission suit against him, Speyer & Co., and Seligman & Co., before Justice Louis A. Valente in Supreme Court.

The suit, in which the Frisco trustees seek to rescind the purchase of 183,333 shares of Rock Island Railroad stock, involves more than $10,000,000. Brown, the complaint alleges, received a Rock Island job paying him a $50,000 salary for his part in an alleged conspiracy to defraud.

It was at the 1926 meeting that the Frisco board entered into an agreement to purchase 255,000 shares of Rock Island if Speyer & Co., would take half the issue. Seligman & Co., it is said, also took part of the Speyer share.

Mortimer Hays, counsel for the Frisco trustees, in reading excerpts of previous testimony by Brown, attempted to show that Brown's memory on four separate occasions was faulty, yet was clear as to details of those meeting dates today.

Brown said he believed the previous questioning was done to confuse him, hence did not make definite commitments.

Hays also attempted to show that the Frisco, on acquiring other roads or entering into working agreements with them, never once had gone into such agreements without first having made a thorough study. In the Rock Island deal, Hays said, and Brown admitted, no such study was made.

The complaint charges that Speyer & Co., Seligman & Co., and Brown conspired to hold the Rock Island stock until it was worthless resulting in a loss to the Frisco line.

FLOODS IN NORTHERN ILLINOIS DRIVE HUNDREDS FROM HOMES

Boy Drowned in Trying to Ford Stream; Rockford Rescue Worker Missing.

By the Associated Press.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Jan. 24.—One person was drowned and more than 500 families were driven from their homes today by floods which resulted from heavy rains in Northern Illinois.

Six-year-old Eddie Proctor of Amboy was drowned in the swift current of an ordinarily dry run on his way to school. Two companions who were fording the stream reached safety.

A man engaged in rescue work in Rockford, where four sections were flooded by the waters of two creeks, were listed as missing.

Near Sterling in Whiteside County, William Terry and John Crum escaped drowning when their boat upset when they were rescuing horses from a flooded farm. The Elkhorn Creek, a tributary of the Rock River, poured several inches of water over State Highway No. 40 in that vicinity.

Engineers dynamited an ice-bound creek in Rockford in an effort to prevent an ice jam which would back water into the business district.

The temperature dropped this afternoon and the rain turned to a steady snowfall.

GLASS WANTS TO ABOLISH BANK HOLDING COMPANIES

Virginia Senator Drafting Bill, Is Considering Five-Year Liquidation Period.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, said today he was drafting legislation to abolish bank holding companies.

Glass, author of much banking legislation, said he was considering a five-year period for liquidation of existing holding companies.

Although President Roosevelt recently attacked bank holding companies, Glass said his measure was not an administration bill. He said he had discussed it with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, but not with the President.

While Glass was reluctant to discuss detailed provisions of his measure, he said it would not affect branch banking.

MARINE MEDIATION BOARD PROPOSED

Commission Says Operators Hesitate to Build Ships Because of Labor Conditions.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — The Maritime Commission reiterated today that "chaotic labor conditions" prevailed in the shipping industry. In a report to Congress on its activities during the year ended Oct. 25, the commission said:

"Although the commission has recommended remedial legislation, no lasting cure will be effected until the jurisdictional strife now prevalent in maritime labor is terminated and a more co-operative working arrangement is reached by the unions and the ship operators."

To improve the maritime labor situation, the commission has recommended to Congress:

1. Creation of a mediation board similar to that provided by the Railway Labor Act.

2. Provision for training young men for a career at sea.

3. Continuous employment of seamen instead of the "archaic system" of signing workers for each voyage.

The Bland-Copeland bills to carry out the first two recommendations are pending in Congress. Numerous spokesmen for maritime labor organizations have voiced opposition to both measures.

A corollary to the problem of replacing old vessels in the American merchant marine is the problem of providing them with "satisfactory seagoing personnel," the commission said.

"Despite the urgent need for new construction, private operators hesitate in the face of the present labor situation. Chaotic labor conditions, signalized by demands of crews, 'sit-down' and 'quickie' strikes, and slipshod performance of duties are characteristic of the industry."

The commission called its major task the replacement of the "rapidly aging" American merchant fleet, adding:

"The foundation for a long-range construction program has been laid."

5 TO 10 PCT. REDUCTION IN ACREAGE PLANNED

Agriculture Department Says Most of Cut Will Be in Wheat and Cotton.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Tentative crop control arrangements for the 1938 season provide for a reduction of between 15,000,000 and 30,000,000 acres in plantings of the major food and fiber crops, Agriculture Department officials said today.

Such a reduction would involve between 5 and 10 per cent of the total acreage planted to the same crops in 1937.

Officials said that most of the cut would be in cotton and wheat—crops of which the nation now has huge supplies.

Available Acreage 365,000,000

Tentative planting goals are aimed at a total acreage of 275,000,000 to 290,000,000 acres in cotton, corn wheat, tobacco, rice and other soil-depleting crops. In 1937, the area planted to these crops totaled 305,700,000 acres, officials said. Farm land available for all crops exceeds 365,000,000 acres.

Under present arrangements, which the farm bill now pending in Congress is expected to change little in so far as they apply to plantings, farmers would be paid benefits from a $440,000,000 soil conservation fund for withdrawing a fixed percentage of their land from major crops and placing it in soil-building crops, such as grasses and clovers.

The cotton acreage would be cut from approximately 34,000,000 in 1937 to 26,000,000 or 27,000,000 acres.

No Wheat Quota Desired.

Although officials say they hope the finished farm bill will require no acreage quotas for wheat growers this year, they are urging farmers to make a voluntary reduction of several million acres in spring wheat planting. Drouth conditions in the wheat belt may help effect the reduction.

Slightly smaller acreages of rice, tobacco, peanuts, potatoes and grain crops generally are contemplated.

State and county acreage allotments are being calculated for each of the major crops except wheat. They will not be approved finally until Congress acts on the new farm legislation, provided such action comes within the next few weeks. Acreage goals for individual growers will be fixed by local committees.

Chairman Smith (Dem.), South Carolina, of the Senate Agriculture Committee, has predicted a conference agreement this week on crop control legislation. He said the committee which has been attempting to reconcile differences between the bills passed by the Senate and House had agreed on all major issues.

M'KELLAR REPLIES TO BRIDGES ON T V A CONTRACTS

Kellar said. "I now refuse to yield to him."

Part of Remarks Struck Out.

The Senate struck from the record a reference by McKellar to the voting record of Bridges.

After saying that Bridges was "blowing hot and cold" in attacking the contracts with the private concerns, McKellar asserted that Bridges' "votes on all such questions indicate that he is in hearty sympathy with the 'giant' companies of this kind and that he is opposed to the Government's looking after the interests of the common man and the plain people."

Bridges made the point of order that this was a personal attack.

After a brief debate in which both Democratic Leader Barkley and Republican Leader McNary participated, Senator Pittman (Dem.), Nevada, in the chair, sustained McNary's motion to strike the protested remarks from the record. There was no objection.

ROTARY CLUB PEACE TALKS OPEN TONIGHT

Maurice Duperrey, International President, to Speak at Dinner at Jefferson.

A dinner at Hotel Jefferson tonight will open the St. Louis Institute of International Understanding, a two-day program of lectures sponsored by the Rotary Club for the promotion of peace. Public sessions will be held at Hotel Statler twice daily, tomorrow and Wednesday.

The institute, one of a series conducted in the United States and abroad by Rotary International, will be attended by members of the service club from several neighboring states.

The principal speaker at the dinner tonight will be Maurice Duperrey of Paris, president of Rotary International. With Mme. Duperrey, he arrived this afternoon from Chicago and held a reception for Rotarians and members of French clubs at the Jefferson.

In the name of the French Government he also presented an elm tree to the city in a ceremony on Memorial Plaza. The gift was accepted for St. Louis by Mayor Dickmann.

The hours of the discussion sessions tomorrow and Wednesday will be 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock in the evening. The list of speakers, announced yesterday, includes college teachers, men in political life, clergymen and others. Tickets of admission for the meetings may be obtained at the Rotary Club office in Hotel Statler.

At the first session, tomorrow afternoon, Dr. Isaac Lippincott, professor of economic resources, Washington University, and Dr. Quincy Wright, professor of international law, University of Chicago, will discuss "World Economic Co-operation." Also on the program will be Dr. Kenneth W. Colegrove, professor of political science, Northwestern University, and H. F. Boettler, St. Louis banker.

The Rotary Club announced today that Dr. Kalfred Dip Lum, a member of the Central Executive Committee of the Chinese National Government, will be the principal speaker Wednesday evening. A former teacher in New York University, he is in the United States on business for his Government.

HARVARD INSTRUCTOR RESIGNS

Had Received "Concluding Appointment;" Active for Labor.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 24.—Alvin R. Sweezey, Harvard economics instructor who was given a two-year "concluding appointment" last spring, resigned today, effective in September, 1938.

He and Dr. J. Raymond Walsh, who resigned last September, were active in labor movements, including a teachers' union, but Harvard authorities denied their activities had any bearing on their resignations.

GOOD-WILL TOURISTS RETURN FROM MEXICO

82 St. Louisans Entertained on 10-Day Trip — Trade Agreements Made.

Eighty-one St. Louis business men and Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann returned to St. Louis last night on a special train after a 10-day good-will trip to Mexico, D. F., sponsored by the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

On its arrival in the Mexican capital, the party was taken from the train to a bull fight. It was the first time most of the members had seen a bull-ring spectacle. As guests of the Mexico Chamber of Commerce, they were then taken to many points of tourist interest, including the floating gardens of Xochimilco, the mountain city of Taxco, where a fiesta was in progress, and a hidden convent at Puebla to which Catholic nuns fled from persecution in 1934. En route to Taxco, the business men visited a large sugar mill being built by the Mexican Government with $4,000,000 in materials purchased from the Fulton Iron Works in St. Louis.

Last Wednesday, the tourists were guests at an official dinner and reception. They were received by Mexican officials and United States Ambassador Josephus Daniels. W. L. Hemingway, chairman of the board of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, made an address in Spanish, having prepared for the occasion especially by studying the language for the last two months.

Mayor Dickmann, who spoke several times during the trip, was furnished an honorary bodyguard of four policemen during his stay.

Members of the party made trade contacts, and some reached profitable trade agreements during the tour. On the way to Mexico, D. F., the party stopped at Fort Worth, Tex., and Monterrey, Mexico, where it was entertained at Chamber of Commerce luncheons.

Pevely Dairy President's Son Takes Department Store Saleswoman and Model as Bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel M. Kerchhoff have taken up residence in Crescent, St. Louis County, following their marriage Saturday at the home of the bridegroom's brother, Richard D. Kerckhoff, 79 Lake Forest, Richmond Heights.

The bride is the former Miss Lois Ottenad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Ottenad, 2019 Ann avenue. A graduate of St. Elizabeth's Academy, she was until Saturday employed as a saleswoman and model in the costume room at Famous-Barr department store. Kerckhoff, an attorney, is the son of Daniel C. Kerckhoff, president of Pevely Dairy Co. He was graduated from St. Louis University Law School in 1935. A year later he was the unsuccessful Republican candidate for State Representative in the Third District, St. Louis County.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Benjamin F. Hall, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

ONE nice thing about workin' in newspapers and actin' in pictures is that the minute people see your work, somebody is almost sure to like it. It's kinda like my Uncle Skinny Flint who ran a restaurant down home. He had been gettin' so many kicks about his steaks but finally one day he saw a man sitting at a table lookin' at the steak with an admiring look. Uncle Skinny ran over to him and says "What do you think of the steak?" The man says "Well, as a tradesman, I would say it's first class." Uncle Skinny says "Oh, then you're in the meat business?" And the man says "No, Brother, I'm a bootmaker."

A Crime at Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

(Copyright, 1938.)

IN discussing and criticising errors of play, experts draw a sharp dividing line between errors of judgment and all other types. They realize that it is unfair to "charge" a player with a definite "bull" when, as a matter of fact, he may have had the closest sort of choice to make. When the mistake is a demonstrable one, however, it is quite another matter. Failure to count to 13 is a standard, never-changing bridge crime. The true bridge addict ranks it far worse than wife beating, for example, although slightly short of homicide.

South, dealer.

East-West vulnerable.

	♠ 10 8 5 ♥ K Q J 10 7 ♦ K 9 6 ♣ J 10
♠ Q 7 6 3 2 ♥ 5 ♦ 8 4 ♣ 9 6 5 4 2	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠ A K ♥ A 9 8 6 4 3 2 ♦ J 10 5 ♣ Q
	♠ J 9 4 ♥ None ♦ A Q 7 3 2 ♣ A K 8 7 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 diam'nds	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	5 diam'nds	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

South's four diamond bid was outrageously optimistic. Up to this point his partner had shown no particular strength except in the heart suit, the last material that South would be able to use. South should have feared losing three spade tricks off the reel, and he had no assurance that his two five-card suits would come in solidly.

Due to the not unusual combination of good luck and horrible defense, however, the overbid contract had surprising success.

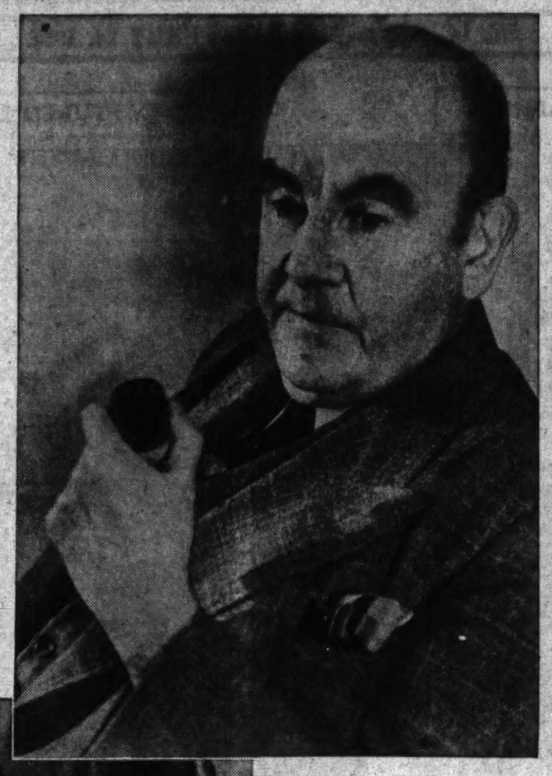

West made what appeared from his hand the best opening lead, namely, the singleton heart. Dummy's ten was played and East, for no reason under the sun, put up his ace. East, of course, could count all 13 hearts. That he should have given up control at the first trick is hard to understand. Declarer ruffed and laid down the ace of diamonds, then a low diamond to the king. The king, queen and jack of hearts permitted the discard of declarer's three spades. The club jack then was led and the queen gobbled up. East was permitted to ruff the ten with his jack of trumps, but the rest of the tricks then were declarer's, since West's nine of clubs easily could be ruffed away.

Had East properly conserved his heart ace at the first trick, declarer, who, of course, could not dream that the heart suit was divided so fantastically, would have discarded a spade and then, undoubtedly would have led the heart king through East. The latter should, of course, duck for the second time. Declarer would throw a spade and West would ruff returning a spade. The king would win for the defenders' second trick and now a low heart would put declarer in serious difficulties. To ruff with an honor would establish a sure trump trick for East, and also embarrass declarer in the establishment of his club suit. To ruff low would be to concede West's eight of trumps. Thus, East's inexcusable play of the heart ace cost the defenders at least two tricks and a great many points.

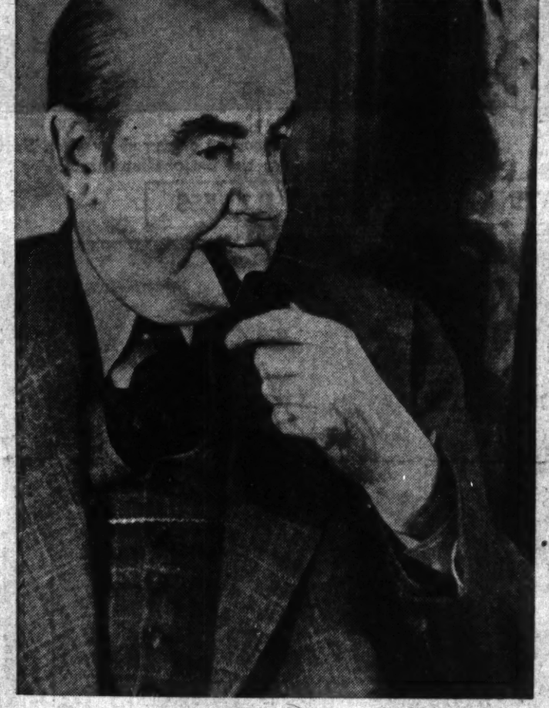

BACHELOR IN A GRANDPA ROLE

Aldrich Bowker, Star of "You Can't Take It With You," Is Genial Old Gentleman on Stage — Off, He Regards Women With Amused Tolerance.

By VIRGINIA IRWIN

"I MADE MY DEBUT ON THE STAGE ABOUT 40 YEARS AGO IN BOSTON."

"MY ONLY EXERCISE IS PLAYING RUMMY WITH MY MAN FRIDAY."

SOMEHOW it was something of a disappointment to discover that Aldrich Bowker, the wise and tolerant Grandpa Vanderhof of "You Can't Take It With You," is a bachelor. I had supposed that this generously proportioned old gentleman who is delighting the American Theater audiences in the role of proprietor of the dilly Vanderhof-Sycamore household would trot out pictures of real-life grandchildren, regale me with their doings, and perhaps offer some assorted and highly personal ideas on how to raise children and grandchildren. But Bowker is a bachelor—and a militant one at that.

Bowker regards women—and that includes your humble correspondent—with a sort of amused tolerance. The ladies, to him, are nice ornaments to have around, if you care for decoration and don't mind when the ornament forgets to be purely decorative and turns into something that fusses about puddles left on the bathroom floor and questions you about that blonde you took to lunch.

"I regard myself as fortunate," bachelor Bowker informed me drily, "that I have no wife whose privilege it would be to say to me, 'Aldrich, where have you been? Downstairs in the bar again, I suppose.' I won't say that in my 63 years I have not seen women who have interested me, but the ones I wanted didn't want me and the ones who wanted me aren't worth mention. Now all I want is to be free to come and go without questioning."

And speaking of "questioning," the patronizing air with which bachelor Bowker answered questions for this interview left no doubt but that he enjoyed being third-degreed by a reporter of the unfortunate sex about as much as he would relish having a wife accuse him of dallying in a bar.

• • •

BACHELOR BOWKER was about as communicative as that statue of Gen. Nathaniel Lyon which holds forth at the Grand avenue-West Pine cutoff. Between puffs on a pipe which gurgled like a pop bottle going under water, he did deign to sketch over his 40 years in the theater and admit that he likes his present role of Grandpa Vanderhof in "You Can't Take It With You" better than any other he has ever essayed.

"I made my debut about 40 years ago in Boston," he began in a sort of lady-you're-boring-me-stiff tone, "I guess I'd always had a hankering for the stage and that first play was 'The Christian,' a dramatization of the novel by Hall Caine. Then, let's see, there was 'The Choir Invisible' and then I spent years in stock companies touring Canada, the West Indies and South America. I was with Stuart Walker's Cincinnati repertory company for 10 or 12 seasons. Walker is now a director for Paramount and that reminds me, I have a five-year contract with Warner Brothers, so I'll be going to the coast when 'You Can't Take It With You' completes its tour."

Aldrich Bowker is not listed in "Who's Who" in the theater, but from the disjointed account with which he favored this reporter, he has played with Sothern and Marlowe, with Mrs. Fiske, May Irwin and other great and lasting names of the theater. In the last several years he has appeared in New York productions, "Golden Journey," "Let Freedom Ring," "Bury the Dead," and "200 Were Chosen." He claims a record of sorts for having played more than 1000 roles in his 40 years in the theater and has never had, or ever expects to have, as choice a part as his present role of Grandpa Vanderhof. At least that's the way he regards the Grandpa part now as "You Can't Take It With You" goes into its fifty-second uninterrupted week since leaving New York.

Bowker says he was picked for the role of Grandpa Vanderhof because he was "the perfect type." He uses no makeup on the stage and in everyday life, evidently, pays little attention to the matter of matching up his ensemble. For this interview he wore a gray checked suit, black shoes, brown spats, bright blue shirt, dark blue tie with red spots, and topped off the outfit with a gold watch chain strung across his generous midriff. His hair has receded almost out of sight except for a slight fringe about the ears, which tends to emphasize the deep crease which separate his beetling brows. His complexion is that of a young athlete but Bowker doesn't complicate his life with exercise.

"My only exercise is playing rummy with my Man Friday," he explained. "He's been with me for years and I'll bet we've played a million games of rummy. And out of that million, I'll bet I haven't won 300."

Bowker's Man Friday tends to all details of bachelor Bowker's wardrobe which any ordinary man would entrust to the little woman. And Bowker finds his man-of-all-work entirely satisfactory except that he snores.

"Usually when we hit a town where he have a two weeks' run as we have here, we get an apartment," he grumbled. "But here the apartments are all so far away from the theater that we tried a hotel. They gave us a room with twin beds, which would have been perfectly satisfactory if my Man Friday didn't snore. Now we're in the process of moving our stuff from that one room on one floor to a couple of rooms on another floor."

• • •

BUT aside from the slight annoyance of having his chore boy interrupt his slumber by snoring, Bowker regards his bachelor existence as ideal. Two of his best pals in the theater, Henry Wagstaff Gribble and Worthington Miner, eminent New York directors, are both married, but Bowker doesn't envy them. He would have had little time for home life, anyway, he points out, even if he had married in his more vulnerable years. The "thousand or so" parts he has played in the theater in the last 40 years would have left him little time to devote to a home.

"I've got all the home I want," he closed discussion of the question. "I seldom get there, but it's about five miles from Boston and it's been in our family for over 200 years."

At the end if this second week's run at the American, bachelor Bowker and cast, will do a week of one-night stands and then "You Can't Take It With You" goes into Detroit for one month. The present tour will end up in Washington or Philadephia for an indefinite run and then Aldrich Bowker will head for the West Coast to tackle the talkies.

He insists that he doesn't know what his first movie will be, but even if he did, I am sure Aldrich Bowker wouldn't tell a reporter of the supposed-to-be-ornamental sex.

"You've got enough for a story," bachelor Bowker ended the interview in a tone that suggested he'a like to say, "Women haven't got any business prying into my business, anyway."

Training Youth To Make Most Of Opportunity

Self-Help Is Only Help That Counts for Anything, Says Columnist.

By Angelo Patri

LIFE is worth while as long as one is happy in it, and no longer. Happiness is a personal matter quite beyond the reach of parental control, school control or government order. One is happy according to his own feeling and that feeling rises out of mental satisfaction with one's lot.

It is a law of nature that to be happy one must be useful, busy about something that helps the people concerned about the business. One makes dishes or washes them, as well as using them, or one does not make himself useful and so cannot make himself happy. It is well to remember this when we are trying so mightily to help young people off to a good start.

Helping them to put themselves in the right attitude to take what opportunity offers, training them so that they can have the ability to see the opportunity and make the most of it, is our only contribution. We cannot give them a single atom of power, a single gleam of intelligence. Giving them money won't help because it won't stick, being without those self-grown roots that make it a symbol of personal power. Lacking that, it is washed away as fast as it is given. Giving them jobs that they have not selected for themselves and for which they have not fitted themselves won't help either. The applied job is like the applied money. It has no self-grown roots and cannot stand up in bad weather.

The nub of the matter is that self-help is the only help that counts for anything. Self-activity, which means activity of mind and body under one's own direction, is what brings intelligence into life; and it is only then, when the intelligence moves the person to act worthily, that the worker feels content, satisfied and happy. Man is constituted so that taking makes him miserable unless he has the power to give in return. Youth has the right to training and education and opportunity. It is our duty to provide these. We cannot give them anything nor could they take anything worth while if they would.

I am not anxious to see the youth of the world hard at work in factories, shops, offices, giving their strength to industrial labor or labor of other sorts. I still think that there are plenty of matured men and women to carry on the work of the world. Let the younger ones of the teens and early twenties complete their growth and training before starting out in competition with older workers. We are going to have a dearth of skilled workers, if it is not upon us now. The coming generation ought to be trained to do thorough, craftsmanlike, workmanlike jobs before they take over.

We have been making a mistake along this line. Boys and girls decided they would go to work. Somebody got them a job, any job, or they found one for themselves and went to work. Young men, who had never seen the inside of a car, took jobs in garages; jobs as gardener's assistants when they didn't know a dandelion from a forget-me-not. A man, who had never polished a spoon or brushed a floor, took a job as a houseman, and his wife, who had never made an apple pie, secured a place as a cook. This is all wrong. Any work that one does ought to be considered sacred because it is a direct expression of one's own self. Its effect should be happiness for the worker, satisfaction for the employer.

Youth needs training toward self-help. They do not ask us for jobs or for money, but they do ask for education, training, fitness, to take over their own job, and to that they are entitled. They want to help themselves.

Angelo Patri has prepared a special booklet (No. 301) entitled, "Obedience," in which he tells parents how to cope with the difficult problems of disobedience. Send for it, enclosing 10 cents. Dyeing Hair

By Helen Jameson

MANY women skip gayly into any beauty adventure. They seem to skip the fastest when they don't know exactly where they are going. Take hair dyeing. It is the toughest job in the beauty shop, yet unthinking women will buy any hair coloring agent that the clerk in the drug store offers them and will pour it over their noble crowns, trusting to luck that all will be well.

Hair dyes are all right, most of them. We're not crying them down. No one dye can serve all heads. There are cases when hair dyeing is justified. There's no sense being prejudiced against that beauty ritual. It's a woman's own look-out and her own business. But let her seek authoritative information. That's the way we look at the matter.

No woman can visualize herself before the deed has been done. She must wait and see what the mirror reports. She may or may not approve of her appearance. If she doesn't, what then? Removing dye is no simple matter.

Some dyes are metallic, some are synthetic, made from coal tar. Some are combinations of many chemicals. Henna is an herb, does not harm. In henna compound the herb is used as a carrying agent for other chemicals. The two aren't the same thing.

The two great needs when dyeing are; find the right agent; have it put on by an experienced operator. No home work. You may be pouring troubles on your head.

• • •

YOU don't get your hair dyed and then have nothing more to worry about. It isn't that simple. Every two months there's almost an inch of grey that has pushed out from the scalp. That means frequent touching up. Only the white shafts must be treated. Applications must not overlap.

Many women, after a certain period of slavery, came to the conclusion that the results are not worth the bother. They want to be undyed. Well, that's a tougher job than dyeing.

There are removing agents. They must be applied carefully; with some dyes, they won't work at all. The operator must keep watch to see that there is no injury to the hair shafts.

A mixture of equal parts of castor oil and crude oil will lessen the color in some cases. Hot, moist compresses are slapped on after the lubricating.

Some beauticians resort to a clever trick. They dress the hair so that one side covers the growth on the other side, which is permitted to go white. Then the white covers the dark growth until that gets back to first principles.

A simple way out of the difficulty is to wear a bobbed wig, shaving the head that is to wear it. In eight months there will be enough new fuzz to form a wind blown. Wigs are so cleverly made now they'd fool one's own mother. It is no hardship to wear one.

The Church's Meaning For World Toda

Has It Lost Its Power, C Is It Still a Place Healing?

By Elsie Robinson

(Copyright, 1938.)

THAT weekly row at the Jone —about the youngsters going church. "What for?" they d mand. "Maybe churches mea something to Mom 'n' Dad, w didn't have any place else to when they were young. But no adays—what can a church do you? A fellow needs to rest days—get away from things—t coop himself up in a room with dull man talking and a lot of pe ple singing."

Every week that same row at Joneses . . . at millions of hom where the church was once a livi force . . . an unquestioned nec sity. Yet these youngsters w questioned it now were, in mo things, intelligent and sincere . ready to realize and meet an hu est need. What was wrong? Ha the church really lost its power Was it true that it "didn't mea anything any more"?

Wondering. Questioning myse as I rode along. I'd been out sin sun-up, riding the northeast lin nailing broken wire, bracin washed-out poles. Harsh work crawling through the chaparra scrambling over granite boulder with great peaks looming, blue an ominous, in that sulky silen which comes before snow.

Tough work, and for once m heart wasn't in it. The miseries ha me. I was thinking of all the wretchedness clotting beyond the black horizon . . . those thousand of men just let off their jobs, wit their desperate wives and starving babies . . . the blood-soaked world horror and hate everywhere, and our utter helplessness. No escape from it all, even in one's own thoughts . . . no source of rest or renewal . . . only that snarling violence.

Thunder barked . . . a mamz nita bough lashed my face . . . m frightened horse reared, hurled himself around a turn in the trail into a wall of rain. Surprised and suddenly soaked, I looked for shelter. Beneath me lay the huddled shacks of a deserted mining camp. Beside me, edging the trail, a little church, very old. Sagging pickets in the rose-webbed fence . . . leaning tombstones in the little plots where myrtle sprawled. Above the rotting steps, a gaping door. Poor excuse of a place. But at least it offered shelter.

Inside—silence thick as dust. Rickety rafters . . . rat-eaten floors. Some tattered paper flowers in a broken jar. Some crude and faded Stations of the Cross. Across one end the altar's shadowed bulk . . . flaked gilt, gnarled candles and a strip of ragged lace. Poor shabby place!

Weary, I huddled by the altar rail—half dozed. Outside, from peak to peak, the thunder rolled. The wind clawed, shrieking, at the broken sill. Yet silence closed around me . . . slowly I grew still.

Then something happened! What? I yet can't tell. But 'twas as though my fear and sadness fell away. And left me wrapt in peace. Such peace! Peace tall as mountains—with a power so deep it seemed my sick and anxious soul had fallen asleep and waked—reborn!

Then, suddenly as it had come, the storm had passed. The sunshine trembled on the tangled grass, a bird perched, singing, on a broken stone . . . and in my heart, too, something sang and shone. My hurt felt healed!

Only a quiet hour in a shabby room where, doubtless, in the past "dull men" had droned . . . yet in that silence, I had lost my pain . . . my worried life had been set on the trail again.

Was that the answer? Is that what churches mean . . . may mean to anyone who'll wait and take . . . a place of healing for the heart's deep ache . . . a place of comfort when we trip and fall . . . a service station on the rocky trail?

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

For Tuesday, Jan. 25.

FIRST of three days showing the values of friendship and love; pay attention to this side of life, in both positive and negative aspects. Today: a rather soft set of vibrations: cultivate the beauty in your surroundings.

Be More YOU.

Each of us is a bundle of personal, individual causes and effects, not all of which are physical—in fact, not many of which are physical. What do you want to know about yourself? Did you answer that question? I asked it Sunday. Do you really want to improve your lot in life? Then improve yourself. No two people are equal; the only way to rise is to develop more of your possibilities.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, if today is your birthday, is a year for collecting what is strictly deserved, but not for rushing into new, untried things. Feature yourself. Danger: March 10-April 19; July 15-Sept. 11; Dec. 10-Jan. 31.

Wednesday.

Too many attractive, impractical side trips; stay on the highway.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My Dear Mrs. Carr:

WHEN I was a junior in col lege I was given a roommate who proved to be one of the best friends I ever made. In spite of the fact that she was a sopho more, we found ourselves liking the same things, and enjoying each other's company so much that I thought I'd found the sort of friend we all like most to have.

Because of financial reasons I was unable to return for my senior year and so we wrote often. Now I find that I'll be able to return but hesitate to again share a room with this girl for this reason:

Another friend at school writes that this girl is indulging in nothing but a crush, has my picture all over the room, moons over my letters and in general behaves like an infatuated adolescent.

Do you think that such an affair handled to the best of my ability can again be a fine friendship, or do you think it better that I select another school for my last year? If there were a possibility that I could be skillful enough to avert disaster I'd much rather return to my old school; but, if I would only be harming her whom I like as well I'd gladly, for her sake and mine, carry on my work elsewhere. Trusting your superior common sense, since mine seems to have deserted me. Sincerely yours,

RENE C.

If the girl who wrote you th can be depended upon, you mig find a return to this college dif cult, since there are always tho who will take the girl's side, ju to be different, when you show h by your reserved, though friendl manner that she is making hers ridiculous and you will not tolera it. But, should this be the pla you have decided upon (where y think you will get the work y want and need) I think you shou take the chance. Probably with t help of one of the teachers, ju someone older who might unde stand that it is necessary for y to take this stand, the trouble mig be only temporary, even should y be obliged to give up the friendsh altogether.

"WONDERFUL for BABY'S COLD!"

READ Mrs. O. W. Winegardner's letter: "The baby had a terrible cold. We tried several different things—then we used Pine Balm—and in no time at all discomfort was gone. Personally, I think Pine Balm is the grandest cold salve I ever used. It is soothing and penetrating, and certainly relieves a cold faster than any of the other salves I know."

PINE BALM is concentrated penetrating medication, containing not one—but eleven highly vaporizing ingredients that quickly penetrate the skin surface and its vapors are drawn direct into air passages where colds settle. Relief comes delightfully fast!

Now to get quicker relief from colds—just rub PINE BALM on throat, chest and back. Results will more than satisfy you. Babies like its fragrant "piney" aroma. Mothers like its pleasant mildness and quick results.

THE RIGHT APPROACH

By Dale Carnegie

IF you know your man before you approach him, whether it be to ask a favor, to make a sale, or for any other purpose, your effort will be lessened 50 per cent. There's always some way of finding out what a man likes, or what he believes in, and time spent in learning about him will never be lost.

Dr. Thomas G. Masaryk, first President of the Czechoslovakian Republic—now called the "Father of Czechoslovakia," was finding it difficult sledding in his country to bring order out of chaos. He needed support, and he decided that the one person who could do most for him was our own President, Woodrow Wilson. He determined to come to America and make an effort to enlist Wilson's sympathy with the principles his own country was fighting for.

When he arrived in this country, did he hasten at once to the White House and impulsively approach the President with some such request as "Please, Mr. Wilson, we want a democratic country just like yours. Won't you be good enough to help us?"

Indeed, he did not. He went to the library and spent three weeks studying the books Prof. Woodrow Wilson had written on the subject of democracy, freedom, and ideals in government. He absorbed these, put them into an appeal of 60 pages, had it bound and sent it to Wilson to read before he called to see him personally.

Wilson was tremendously impressed. Why, this man thought exactly as he did! Smart man. Ought to lend him a hand.

And that is exactly what he did. He became Dr. Masaryk's champion and through Wilson's influence the Allied Governments fell into line, and Czechoslovakia declared herself free from the Hapsburg rule!

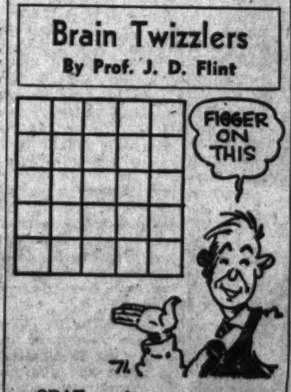

Masaryk knew enough to study his man before he went to see him. He knew Wilson's point of view and he knew that all he had to do to get Wilson interested in his own viewpoint, was to let Wilson see the similarity of aims.

I know a woman in New York who inherited millions of dollars. She has a beautiful private home on Fifth avenue, furnished with antiques that are worthy of a king's ransom. She has traveled all over the world, done everything and seen everything. I heard her say recently, "I wish I knew something that I would like to do."

I pity that woman. In spite of all her money, the panorama of life no longer interests her. I would rather be a clerk in a department store making $18 a week, thrilled with the thought of going out to the latest movie and holding hands with my best beau. I would rather be that girl who knows a million things she wants to do than be this tired woman with all her futile wealth, who can think of nothing that interests her.

ON TOUR WITH the ST. LOUIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Musicians Enjoy Trips Despite Many Inconveniences and Quick Jumps Between Towns—How Members Spend Time Between Concerts.

By FRANCIS OLIVER

A SUITCASE PROVIDES A TRAIN WRITING TABLE, NOT FOR A LETTER HOME BUT TO TRANSCRIBE A SCORE FOR THIS VIOLA PLAYER.

CONDUCTOR GOLSCHMANN REPLACES BATON WITH CANDID CAMERA

BACKSTAGE A GROUP OF STRINGS AWAIT THE ENTRANCE SIGNAL, AND DISCUSS MOST ANYTHING BUT MUSIC.

BETWEEN TOWNS IS A GOOD TIME TO GET A LITTLE EXTRA SLEEP.

ALL DRESSED AND READY FOR THE CONCERT.

CHANGING INTO FULL DRESS BACKSTAGE IN HASTE AND WITHOUT BENEFIT OF MIRRORS SOMETIMES REQUIRES ADVICE, ESPECIALLY WITH BOW TIES.

SURFACE appearances would label the men scattered through the three day coaches as delegates to a business or club convention. They smoke, talk, play cards on suit cases or upset seat cushions, read, curl up for a nap, act in general like they are out for a good time.

The only discrepancies are the numerous musical instrument cases that clutter up seats, aisles and baggage racks; and the two women who sit by themselves, one in the middle, the other in the forward coach, reading or, occasionally, talking to one of the men. But those very discrepancies are the real clue to the nature of the party, for it is the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra on a road tour.

These tours are the big events of the symphony season, strenuous as they might seem to an outsider with the quick jumps between towns, nightly concerts and an occasional matinee, backstage dressing and other inconveniences. But the musicians consider it a rest, a vacation, for after all "the concerts are all selections we have played many times before, something we like to do anyway," and between concerts they have plenty of opportunity for diversion. Even on the train, or rather, especially on the train.

Mrs. Vladimir Golschmann, wife of Conductor Golschmann, and Madame Graziella Pampari, harpist, are the only women who accompany the tours. The rest are men; 88 orchestra members, Oscar Johnson, president of the Symphony Society; Arthur J. Gaines, orchestra manager, and Frank Allen, stage and baggage supervisor.

They travel in three coaches and a baggage car, these 94 people and about $100,000 worth of musical instruments, with sometimes a dining car, when making daytime jumps; the coaches become four Pullman cars on night jumps and long tours, when they live aboard the train. And usually it is a special train.

• • •

LONG before the train is ready to leave St. Louis, members begin to make themselves at home in the coaches. They are mostly those whose families have not come to the station for farewells, probably two-thirds of the group. The others linger on the platform alongside the coaches in increasing clusters of men and women, talking, laughing, waiting until the last moment to part. Wives check over things husbands should have along, to be sure nothing has been forgotten.

A trainman's "All Aboard" is the signal for the final goodbyes, for stragglers just coming through the gates to hasten, and the last musicians swing aboard just as the cars begin to move. More farewells from vestibules and windows, and then the final settling down for the first leg of the trip.

"Well, I don't see anybody running to catch up, so I guess everybody's here," comments a member of the party who had lingered on the steps. There is no checking on the men, no counting noses, either at the start from St. Louis or on leaving stopovers, for all are pretty dependable, and besides, it might be expensive to miss a train. As two 'cellos found out last year.

The orchestra had played at Peoria, Ill., and the train was scheduled to leave at 8 a. m. for Iowa City. The 'cellos had left a call to give them plenty of time, but something went astray, and it was just 8 a. m. when they awakened. There was no other train, no bus to get them to Iowa City in time for the concert—there was just one thing to do. They took a taxicab, and their extra hour of sleep cost them $15.

In spite of the disorganized appearance of the day coaches, the efficiency with which all tours are organized and the members kept posted on all the details has much to do with smoothness of procedure and the fact that they are enjoyed. Engagements are contracted for, itinerary planned, transportation arranged, programs prepared in advance, hotel reservations made and directions posted in coaches. Four immense wardrobe trunks hold the full dress outfits of the men; huge cases protect basses, 'cellos, harps, drums and other instruments that travel in the baggage car under Allen's supervision; the players need concern themselves only with their personal baggage and instruments they prefer to keep with them. Quite a few smaller instrument players carry along their own violins, violas and wind instruments. But they do not play them, do not even take them out, except in rare instances.

Of course, there is quite a bit of shop talk. They wonder what kind of facilities there will be in the dressing room at the next stop, how big the stage will be, comment on a difficult passage in Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 6, on the respective merits of string instrument or other instrument players as conductors, argue over the need of practice, or discuss instruments. One member of a group takes out his violin to show a new make of string. He tries the four strings, and an outcry fills the coach.

"Hey, put it away." "You want that thing smashed?" "Save it for tonight!"

The player laughs and puts up the violin. No trying out instruments en route. It's all right, however, to take one out and change strings or polish it; a young member sits for an hour rubbing, rubbing his violin; there are perhaps a half dozen winds or violins or violas out of cases during an entire run. But music is a lesser interest between concerts; talk about the tours consists of anecdotes from previous trips, the swell time they will have on the Southern trip later in the season, how Golschmann lost his hat and Gaines was blown across the street in a blizzard, what hotels they are assigned to, and how good the food is in New Orleans.

Most of that is old stuff, however, and there are many more important things to get their attention. Several poker and pinochle games are under way, with four to six or eight intense poker players in a single game. Four sit in facing seats with a suitcase across their knees for a table; additional players stand in the aisles, lean over shoulders, or perch on chair arms. Participants change frequently, as a rule.

"That's a blood game there," says a 'cello, indicating a group that remained constant over several hours. "One of that bunch is going to the cleaners." It sounds ominous, but stakes are almost always low, and seldom is anyone "taken to the cleaners" for more than a few dollars.

Kibitzers are fewer around the chess and checker games, for they move slowly, although chess is a favorite diversion. Scipione Guidi, concertmaster, spends hour upon hour in a forward car playing with Oscar Johnson. Last year he played monopoly a lot, but there were no monopoly games in evidence this trip.

While the musicians at large dispose themselves and their belongings where they can, a tacit understanding reserves the front seats of the forward coach for the most important members. Conductor and Mrs. Golschmann have the foremost two facing seats, where Mrs. Golschmann spends most of her time with a heap of books and magazines, when not talking to her husband. Golschmann reads, talks, or walks about the car. Johnson and Guidi occupy an adjacent seat, which they seldom leave. Nearby also is 'Cellist Max Steindel, who also is personnel manager, a rather persistent reader, and Manager Gaines, another book addict.

Madame Pampari and her husband, 'Cellist Pasquale De Conto, are inseparable during the trips, and keep pretty much to themselves, except when one or two compatriots join their Italian conversations. Others of the entourage talk, doze, look out the windows, read—one spends all his time with a volume of Shakespeare. Another sits examining stamps through a glass—about a dozen are "red hot stamp collectors," and as soon as they arrive at a town dash to the postoffice or dealers for new specimens. But second only to instruments in number and interest, are candid cameras.

• • •

MORE than half of the orchestra are candid camera fans, with Golschmann and Oscar Johnson the most ardent of them. Poker players, chess players, sleepers, readers, even each other are subjects. Sometimes three or four will be taking pictures of each other taking pictures. Golschmann and members take their cameras into the dining car with them, and shoot other diners, interiors, anything that hits their fancy. Golschmann recounts anecdotes of a trip in France with Johnson, when they took hundreds of pictures. Johnson, it appears, really started the fad, and has gone into it thoroughly. There are stories of pictures taken—always by another—with the lens covered or film in backward, and discussions of the best speeds in various circumstances. Golschmann argues with animation, using his hands expressively when an English word fails him.

"Gadgets, and gadgets," he says. "They keep putting them on, to get better pictures, and all it does is to make the pictures worse. It gets too complicated and spoils the fun."

Much as they seem to enjoy the train trips, there is relief evident as the destination nears. Some have coats and hats on, grips and instrument cases in hand, and wait in aisle or vestibule as much as 15 minutes before arrival. As soon as the train stops, all are off and on their way to hotels.

There usually is some time between arrival and concert, and as the members have no cares except to be at the concert hall in time to dress, they go their own ways. Some go to picture shows, some tour the town, some sleep, a comparatively few spend an hour or so at practice, the inveterate poker players continue their game. Some gather in lobbies, dining or tap rooms, and talk, until supper time. Mr. and Mrs. Golschmann, Madame Pampari, Guidi and Johnson disappear to their rooms until concert time, except for meals.

Golschmann, Guidi, Steindel, and sometimes a few of the others dress at their hotels. The rest dress behind stage, under more or less trying circumstances, for space is frequently lacking. Trunks and instrument cases arrive early; the four wardrobe trunks are opened, the dress suits arranged on six-foot projecting rods; instrument cases unlocked, for the players to take out their instruments; the stage is ready to the smallest detail, with scores in place. Repertoires are known long before the trip starts.

Musicians sit, stand, move about, jostling and crowding each other, all in great good spirits, all in a hurry, and almost all in various states of undress. They talk, laugh, smoke, finish dressing and try out their instruments. A babel of noise arises backstage, for with the tuning of instruments is mixed a dozen different languages, a dozen different races being represented in the orchestra. Some even resort to practical jokes, like putting odds and ends in pockets, or sprinkling cheap perfume on dress suits. Then Gaines gives the signal, and all go on the stage, with one or two laggards rushing in alone just before Golschmann's entry.

Golschmann arrives with his wife and Guidi, who precedes him to the stage. Mrs. Golschmann often remains backstage during the concert, listening intently, sometimes taking charge of the towel with which her husband removes the perspiration between numbers. She doesn't seem to worry, however—"Goodness no, she leaves the worrying to me," says the conductor—none seems to worry.

After three encores, Golschmann wipes his brow, looks at Manager Gaines.

"What you say? That enough?" and Gaines nods, Golschmann takes several bows, reappears, and the players stream backstage. They, too, wipe their brows, then plunge into changing clothes, putting away instruments, anxious to get about their various pursuits. Their time is their own until the train leaves, and will be spent sleeping, reading, talking, playing cards, or visiting night clubs. Some will sit up to 2 or 3 a. m., playing, talking, drinking, although drinking is very moderate and confined almost entirely to beer.

• • •

MATERIAL worries are shifted to the shoulders of Frank Allen, who works harder than anyone on the trips. He must see about instruments and trunks—more than 60 cases and trunks are included on even the shorter tours—place chairs, stands, attend to lighting, do something about it if the stage is too small, see that there is a place to dress. Concerts are given in high schools, theaters, auditoriums, of all sizes and facilities. On one occasion the only place for trunks and dressing room was a basement unused for 15 years, and entered by a trapdoor just off the stage. On another occasion the stage was so small an apron had to be built in a few hours, to care for the 90 musicians, and new lighting installed.

After the concerts, Allen gathers together everything and sees that it gets to the baggage car. He keeps an extra trunk in which to put rubbers, ties, mufflers, anything a musician might overlook. Once a final check-up revealed two violins under a stairway, forgotten by the owners. And he must see that instruments are handled with care by baggage men; one hauler a few seasons ago let a 'cello and case fall, but fortunately the heavy case saved it, and the damage was repaired by concert time.

Nevertheless, Allen likes the tours, for he enjoys travel. All like them, even Guidi, who appears, with the two women, to relax the least.

"A tour is a rest," he said. "There are no telephones always ringing, no people interrupting you. Nothing to do but read and play chess when not at a concert."

The Church's Meaning For World Today

Has It Lost Its Power, Or Is It Still a Place of Healing?

By Elsie Robinson

(Copyright, 1938.)

THAT weekly row at the Joneses—about the youngsters going to church. "What for?" they demand. "Maybe churches mean something to Mom 'n' Dad, who didn't have any place else to go when they were young. But nowadays—what can a church do for you? A fellow needs to rest Sunday—get away from things—not coop himself up in a room with a dull man talking and a lot of people singing."

Every week that same row at the Joneses . . . at millions of homes where the church was once a living force . . . an unquestioned necessity. Yet these youngsters who questioned it now were, in many things, intelligent and sincere . . . ready to realize and meet an honest need. What was wrong? Had the church really lost its power? Was it true that it "didn't mean anything any more"?

Wondering. Questioning myself as I rode along. I'd been out since sun-up, riding the northeast line, nailing broken wire, bracing washed-out poles. Harsh work, crawling through the chaparral, scrambling over granite boulders with great peaks looming, blue and ominous, in that sulky silence which comes before snow.

Tough work, and for once my heart wasn't in it. The miseries had me. I was thinking of all the wretchedness clotting beyond that black horizon . . . those thousands of men just let off their jobs, with their desperate wives and starving babies . . . the blood-soaked world, horror and hate everywhere, and our utter helplessness. No escape from it all, even in one's own thoughts . . . no source of rest or renewal . . . only that snarling violence.

Thunder barked . . . a manzanita bough lashed my face . . . my frightened horse reared, hurled himself around a turn in the trail into a wall of rain. Surprised and suddenly soaked, I looked for shelter. Beneath me lay the huddled shacks of a deserted mining camp. Beside me, edging the trail, a little church, very old. Sagging pickets in the rose-webbed fence . . . leaning tombstones in the little plots where myrtle sprawled. Above the rotting steps, a gaping door. Poor excuse of a place. But at least it offered shelter.

Inside—silence thick as dust. Rickety rafters . . . rat-eaten floors. Some tattered paper flowers in a broken jar. Some crude and faded Stations of the Cross. Across one end the altar's shadowed bulk . . . flaked gilt, gnarled candles and a strip of ragged lace. Poor shabby place!

Weary, I huddled by the altar rail—half dozed. Outside, from peak to peak, the thunder rolled. The wind clawed, shrieking, at the broken sill. Yet silence closed around me . . . slowly I grew still.

Then something happened! What? I yet can't tell. But 'twas as though my fear and sadness fell—away. And left me wrapt in peace. Such peace! Peace .tall as mountains—with a power so deep it seemed my sick and anxious soul had fallen asleep and waked—reborn!

Then, suddenly as it had come, the storm had passed. The sunshine trembled on the tangled grass, a bird perched, singing, on a broken stone . . . and in my heart, too, something sang and shone. My hurt felt healed!

Only a quiet hour in a shabby room where, doubtless, in the past, "dull men" had droned . . . yet, in that silence, I had lost my pain . . . my worried life had been set on the trail again.

Was that the answer? Is that what churches mean . . . may mean to anyone who'll wait and take . . . a place of healing for the heart's deep ache . . . a place of comfort when we trip and fall . . . a service station on the rocky trail?

"WONDERFUL for BABY'S COLD!"

READ Mrs. O. W. Winegardner's letter: "The baby had a terrible cold. We tried several different things—then we used Pine Balm—and in no time at all discomfort was gone. Personally, I think Pine Balm is the grandest cold salve I ever used. It is soothing and penetrating, and certainly relieves a cold faster than any of the other salves I know."

PINE BALM is concentrated penetrating medication, containing not one—but eleven highly vaporizing ingredients that quickly penetrate the skin surface and its vapors are drawn direct into air passages where colds settle. Relief comes delightfully fast!

Now to get quicker relief from colds—just rub PINE BALM on throat, chest and back. Results will more than satisfy you. Babies like its fragrant "piney" aroma. Mothers like its pleasant mildness and quick results.

Generous family size jar only 25¢. Get PINE BALM from your druggist—now!

Quick! The Cough Syrup That CLINGS TO THE COUGH ZONE

If there is anything that common sense dictates, it's this: a cough medicine should do its work where the cough is lodged... right in the throat. That's why Smith Brothers Cough Syrup is a thick, heavy syrup. It clings to the cough zone. There it does three things: 1) soothes sore membranes, 2) throws a protective film over the irritated area and 3) helps to loosen phlegm. 60¢.

COOK COOS

By Ted Cook

STRANGE SUSPICION HAUNTS AUNT BELLA'S PRETTY HEAD.

Note—It has been some time since Auntie Bella has woven a thread of golden verse in what she chooses to call her "tapestry of experience." Now she sings another sad note in her saga — pens another heart-wringing episode which, she hopes, will be a warning to pretty creatures everywhere, who cry, empty-handed, for the moon.

By Auntie Bella.

I am sitting alone with my memories,
Relaxed, manicuring my nails;
I am sitting alone, sitting here by the phone,
While thoughts through my mind march like snails.

It is strange how the mem'ry will cling to
The heart-breaking antics of men
Who bounce into your life, kick up trouble and strife,
And then they bounce right out again.

We met in a very strange fashion,
In a bookstore, believe it or not.
I was taking a look at that Carnegie book
On "How to Make Friends" . . . and such rot.

He chanced to glance over my shoulder,
His eye caught the name of the book,
For he asked, with a leer, "Now whatcha got here?"
I replied, "Can't you read? Take a look!"

We departed the bookstore together;
We were friends, so it seemed, in a flash!
And just for a lark, we strolled off toward the park,
As my mood was both carefree and rash.

On a bench we sat down. It was cozy;
We sat close, and the sparrows at play
Chirped a serenade sweet, with a tweet-a-tweet-tweet,
Cocked their heads and looked on in dismay.

We sat there and sat there and sat there.
The sun in its glory descended;
I got chills in my feet, and was ready to eat
When our friendship was suddenly ended.

He asked for my telephone number.
This boon I could hardly deny.
Then he kissed me quite brusk and was gone with the dusk,
While I brushed a brave tear from my eye.

As I wait by the phone in the gloaming
I ponder and polish my nail,
And wonder my noodle—could that there kiyoodle
By any bare chance be named "Dale?"

Jerry's Lawyer Notifies Him There Will Be No Funds Available From the Estate—He Is Advised to Sell the Farm.

CHAPTER 41.

OUR HONEYMOON progressed in a sort of maze of haphazard housekeeping. Sally's ministrations kept us from actual chaos, and when the ugliness of golden oak and maroon brocade got too much on Mimi's nerves she found refuge in our own rooms, which shone with the crystal and silver which she had brought, and from which she had banished everything but the walnut furniture and our own belongings.

I had a desk by my window and Mimi always kept flowers on it. I had believed that the view of the mountains and Mimi's presence would inspire me to write masterpieces—but I was doomed to disappointment. I found it, indeed, difficult to write anything at all. For some reason my pen lacked fire. It was as if in living so avidly I had robbed myself of the power to express that vividness on paper.

Moreover, I yearned to be out of doors with Mimi, riding over our domain, and beyond it—up the trails to little lakes cupped in the top of the lower peaks, with yellow lilies reflected in their depths and the slim trunks of the pale aspens. It was wonderful to be alone in all that vast loneliness—going up and up through spruce and pine—to see a coyote like a gray shadow crossing our path, or a deer with startled eyes, and the lovely wild leap which took it out of our sight.

It was as if our lives had two sides—the side of the ugly house with the hateful shadows of drudgery which hung over it; the side which had to do with ugly memories of the things Mimi had said to me on the night of our arrival and the morning after; the ugly side of my financial uncertainties. And that other side, of Mimi in the orchard, with cherries looped over her ears, Mimi in the sweet hay of one of the barns, with a puff-ball of a kitten in her lap, Mimi brushing her bright hair with a silver brush, Mimi whipping the streams with her trout line, and beating me at it with a skill she had learned in the Maine woods.

I cooked the trout for our dinner—and we had vegetables from our own garden—and perhaps a sweet loaf of Mrs. Hayes' baking or a dish of cream cheese which she had made for us.

Idyllic? Yes. And it couldn't last. There was always that haunting thought of the other side of things, and the crash came in a letter from my lawyer. There were, he said, practically no funds at my disposal. If I could make the farm pay I might tide over the present crisis. Otherwise, he would advise me to sell.

* * *

THERE was a letter, too, from the employment agency at Denver. They gave me little hope—they might be able to send a cook if I was willing to give very high wages. There was much objection on account of the remoteness of the ranch. The sum they named as wages took my breath away. I had never dreamed of such rewards for domestic service.

I had made up my mind when we were first married I would have no secrets from Mimi. In an ideal singleness of soul, a man and his wife should bear their burdens together. But it seemed to me now that I would better let well enough alone. Why worry Mimi with things which might straighten themselves? I would give more time to the management of the ranch and less to writing. I might even get along without Hayes. He had himself suggested it. He wanted to accept an offer to take charge, for the summer, of the livery stable at the hotel where Dora worked. He knew all about the mountain ponies, and could teach the guests to ride. He could make more money in three months than I could give him in a year.

When I told Mimi that Hayes was going, she asked, "But who will manage the farm?"

"I shall do it myself."

"But when do you expect to write, Jerry? You can't be cook and manager, and an author."

"Why not?"

"Well, it isn't fair," there was a flush on her cheeks.

"I am strong. I can stand it."

"I am strong, too, Jerry. You must let me help."

But I felt it would be an entering wedge to destroy her exquisiteness. I had a desperate feeling that something must turn up. I wrote again to my lawyer and told him to sell an acre or two of land. I wrote, too, to the employment agency in Denver, urging them to send a cook, and stating I would pay the price.

It was when I began to do Hayes' work, however, that I found what I had undertaken. The laborers on the farm lacked any sort of initiative. They were accustomed to constant supervision, and could not work without it. They must follow a leader or remain inactive. This made it necessary for me to be with them almost constantly; it made necessary, indeed, actual physical effort on my part. I helped them with the cows, I stood over them while they whitewashed chicken houses, and put up wire fences, and while they taught the young calves to drink.

And after such efforts I would come into the house dead tired and dirty to find Mimi immaculate, with flowers on the table, with a great can of hot water ready for my bath, with my clothes laid out on the bed.

* * *

ONE night when I had had an exceptionally hard day, the thought of such formality irritated me. I had had to stop in the kitchen to supervise Sally—to see that the lettuce was cold, and that the little roasted ducklings were done to a turn. I had asked her questions about the sweet potatoes, and the coffee. I had seen myself, suddenly, as a farcical figure—a plain farmer, trying to measure up to fairy princess of a wife.

So I said to Mimi, who stood cool and crisp by the screen door looking out on the mountains, "I think I shall stop dressing for dinner—. It is rather out of keeping, isn't it, with the tout ensemble?"

"People who don't dress for dinner are—barbarians."

"My own people didn't do it."

"Do you mean that they looked—like you?"

There was scorn in that, and I winced. I told her the truth, "No, they didn't. My father always wore his black coat. My mother insisted on it. She was proud of him."

"It is a woman's pride in her man which keeps the world civilized," my wife told me. "I—I think I should—hate you, Jerry, if you—degenerated into the kind of man like those on the other ranches."

"Do you think I could?" I demanded. "Do you think that clothes count as much as that?"

"They count a great deal," coolly. "You'd hate me if I wore my hair in a tight knot and had a shiny nose like Sally."

I fled then and dressed. We had been very near a quarrel. But I was aware when dinner was over, and Mimi and I sat on the porch, that my self-respect was much increased by the perfection of my attire. Yet, I was aware, too, that there must be something the matter with both of us if externals counted so much.

So I continued to labor through the day like any farm hand. At night I played the gentleman. The thing couldn't, of course, continue. And I couldn't see where it would end. I felt that I ought not let things slide, but they were sliding. I wondered how I should meet the avalanche of disaster when it came.

Jacques de Thiers (1630-1747) of Puy-de-Dome, France, was the father of 25 sons and one daughter. Each son became a Colonel in the French Army. The 25 Colonels Thiers each commanded a French regiment at the battle of Fleurus, Belgium, on July 1, 1690, when 35,000 Frenchmen defeated 70,000 Dutch-Germans. After the battle, the French Commander, the Duke of Luxembourg, addressed a letter to King Louis XVI of France, in which he commented warmly on "the bravery of the French army, a large part of which was led by the 25 Thiers brothers, sons of the gentleman Jacques de Thiers." The sturdy father of 25 Colonels lived to the age of 117.

A Cake Note.

Cakes made with honey stay moist longer than those made with sugar.

A Quick Dish.

A creamed chicken and mushroom omelet makes a marvelous supper or luncheon dish.

Steamed Cherry Pudding

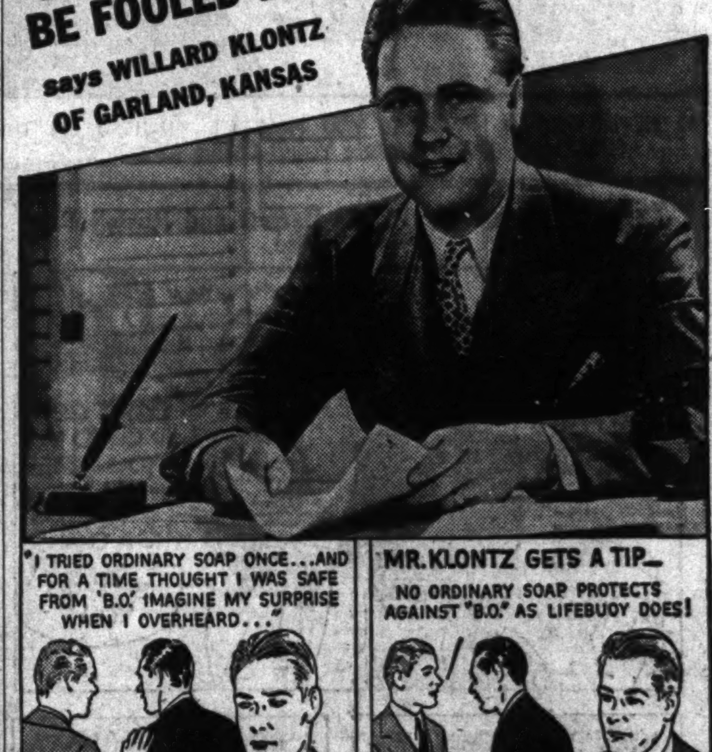

One cup flour.
One teaspoon soda.
One-half cup graham flour.
One-half cup granulated sugar.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-half cup cherries.
Two-thirds cup cherry juice.
Two tablespoons fat, melted.
One egg, beaten.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.

Mix ingredients. Half-fill buttered mold and cover tightly. Let steam for two hours. Unmold. Serve hot, cut in slices.

"I'LL NEVER AGAIN LET MYSELF BE FOOLED BY ORDINARY SOAPS!"
says WILLARD KLONTZ OF GARLAND, KANSAS

MR. KLONTZ is just one of Lifebuoy's millions of faithful fans . . . Men and women, old and young, who trust Lifebuoy to keep them immaculately fresh, free from any likelihood of offending.

How wise they are to depend on Lifebuoy! They know no ordinary soap stops "B.O." as Lifebuoy does . . . For Lifebuoy contains an exclusive purifying ingredient not in any other popular bath or toilet soap.

And that exclusive ingredient not only makes the soap a more thorough cleanser, it makes it milder, too—by test over 20% milder than many leading "beauty" and "baby" soaps. That's why so many lovely women depend on Lifebuoy for complexion care.

Just try Lifebuoy for your daily bath and complexion for one week—you'll become a Lifebuoy fan, too!

NO ORDINARY SOAP STOPS "B.O." AS LIFEBUOY DOES

JAMES L. JOHNSON UPHELD IN $35,44 TAX AVOIDANC

Board of Appeals Approv
Sale of Shoe Stock Company Owned
St. Louisan and Othe

FOUR DISSENTERS QUESTION REASONIN

Minority Says Ruling R sults in Inequitable D tribution Never Intend by the Statute.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—W four members dissenting, the F eral Board of Tax Appeals has proved a corporate device used James Lee Johnson of Huntle St. Louis County, to avoid payment of $35,488 in income ta for the year 1932 by a sale of 10 shares of International Shoe st to an "investment" company ow by himself, his wife and Field H. Childress.

Johnson, advertising manage a department of the Internatio Shoe Co., is a son of the late Os Johnson, one of the founders of company.

A dissenting opinion, writte Judge William W. Arnold, with concurrence of Judges Sam B. and Marion J. Harron, after not that Johnson had frankly admitt that the purpose of the corporate device was primarily to show a tax loss, held that the majority decisio would result "in an inequitable tribution of the tax burden wh was never intended by Congre Judge Bolan B. Turner disse without a written opinion.

Pointing out that "a mere pe loss based on legal technicaliti was not adequate proof for inco tax deductions, the three dissen said:

"To permit an individual to ats a corporation which he trols and use it for the sole p pose of circumventing a statut to put him in a preferred class intended by the statute and justified by any theory of porate fiction."

Relatively Simple Device.

The device used by Johnson relatively simple when compa with the more elaborate set-ups quired where many securities involved. Here is how the ma ity opinion, written by Judge Edgar Murdock, described the c tion of the family holding c pany and the transfer of stock

"The petitioner . . . was owner of 58,000 shares of stock the International Shoe Co. market price of the stock in camber, 1932, was substantially than the price he had paid for shares. He desired at the time take a loss on some of his st for income tax purposes. He also considered making a gift his wife. He decided upon a p to accomplish both purposes a consultation with his attorney. gift to his wife was to be $49, so that no gift tax would be du

"He borrowed $100,000 at a b and received three cashier's che for the amount. One was for $ 900, payable to himself; another a like amount was payable to wife, and a third for the balance $200 was payable to Fielding Childress. These three became incorporators, directors and ficers of a new corporation ca Eleanor Investment Co. It was ganized on Dec. 27, 1932, under laws of Missouri for the stated p pose, inter alia, of dealing in sto bonds, securities and real est Its capitalization was $100,000, vided into 10,000 equal shares.

Investment Company Forme

"The petitioner gave the cashi checks to his wife and Childr for the purpose of having th use the checks to subscribe to pay for the investment comp stock. They used the checks that purpose and received st certificates. The petitioner's placed her certificate for shares in her separate safety posit box. Childress was elec president, the petitioner secret and treasurer, and his wife president at the first meeting. 20, 1932. There has been no cha of officers or directors su quently."

Here is how the stock tran which created the income tax was arranged, according to the jority opinion:

"The new corporation then cepted the petitioner's offer to 10,000 shares of the shoe c pany stock at the then cur price of $24 per share. Nin nine thousand dollars of the chase price was paid in cash a note of the new corporation
